Welcome from the 4S President

The first meeting of 4S was held in a lecture room at Cornell University in 1976. Let me repeat that: everything took place in that one lecture room!

Welcome to our joint 4S-EASST meeting in Copenhagen where you will find many, many lecture rooms and many, many people! Despite this being the largest 4S-EASST meeting ever, our local organizers have worked hard to keep it as part of Danish-style design— which means informal, friendly and as bicycle rich as possible. And totally cool!

For the first time that I can recall for a long time we have actually had to enforce registration deadlines to try and keep numbers of participants manageable. This means unfortunately that some potential paper givers are disappointed and some cannot even attend the meeting at all.

One major organizational change we have made together with EASST this year is to have the prize-winning presentations and acceptances as the main event of the Presidential Plenary. This should make the prize event more dignified and meaningful and hopefully that will make the banquet more informal and give more of a chance to eat, drink and mingle. The informal side of a conference is of course as important, or perhaps more important, than the formal so many sub-sessions will involve meeting up in bars, coffee shops and in all the many in-between spaces. I hope to be inhabiting some of those informal spaces myself so please catch me there and say hello. I wish you all a great conference and hope you come away inspired and recharged from your time in Copenhagen – which remains my favorite city!

Trevor Pinch, 4S President

Welcome to the 8th joint conference between EASST and 4S

These events have been held every 4 years over 3 decades. Participation has increased from less than 200 at Ghent in 1984 to over 1600 at our present conference here in Copenhagen in 2012. We can celebrate the sustained growth over this period of a broad academic community in the field of science, technology & innovation studies.

The successful growth of the field has occurred during a time in which the universities in which most of us work have become increasingly enmeshed in competitive performance frameworks which often discourage novel boundary spanning activity. It is a tribute to the vigour of the field that we continue to show such remarkable growth. However it also highlights the importance of our own collaborative networks and organizations. EASST and 4S have a key role to play in articulating our values and aspirations.

We are delighted that this conference sees the launch of the EASST journal Science and Technology Studies which will provide a new publication outlet to enrich our academic profile. Such initiatives can only thrive through the energies of a community of researchers and scholars who socially and intellectually interact at international meetings such as this.

We are indebted to the local team who have shouldered the task of making this such a success. Copenhagen offers us a great location for a stimulating and productive time together.

Fred Steward, EASST President

Welcome by the Conference Organizing Committee

We have been looking forward very much to seeing you all! When we decided about two years ago to organize the conference at CBS, it was the thought of inviting colleagues from around the globe to our place that made us smile and agree to this task – even though we knew that we would regret it at some point. Those moments of slight regret, however, have been few and very short.

With approximately 1650 registered participants and 1352 papers in 320 sessions, this is the largest 4S/EASST conference ever. We are extremely proud of our opening pre-conference on Copenhagenization. This is not simply a plenary with keynotes. It combines the academic format with a plethora of art installations, cultural experiences, exhibitions and tours (see also pages 32-52). We are also proud of inventing the concept of 'open panels'. With a total of 104 panels, this format has been a huge success. A vast majority of the presenters have chosen to be part of the specific panel in which they appear. We consider this a very good foundation for meaningful exchanges.

Our 'we' includes a great number of people who deserve a lot of thanks for making this conference possible. The many organizers of open panels have done a great job and so have the many people in the scientific committee and the local organizing committee. Signe Vikkelsø has chaired the scientific committee and Ursula Plesner has chaired the committee organizing the pre-conference. Both have worked long and hard with a great outcome. The same goes for Kirsten Suhr Jacobsen and Kristine Olsen in the conference secretariat. Susse Georg did very well on fundraising and our assistant Kristoffer Albris also deserves special thanks. Finally, the Danish Association of Science and Technology Studies (DASTS) has been an excellent resource and a continuing support for our work.

Finally, we would like to thank the CBS Sustainability Business-in-Society Platform as well as the Danish Society for Education and Business (formerly FUHU) and the Danish Research Council for the Humanities for funding which made the pre-conference possible.

Conference Theme

‘Design’ has become a key concept across a multitude of disciplinary domains and social spheres. In addition to its traditional ‘aesthetic’ associations, it is now a key term in multiple scientific domains and in diverse technological practices. One can even think of societies and social arrangements being ‘designed’. In science and technology, ‘design’ implies the re-arrangement of materials and ideas for innovative purposes. When newly designed scientific and technical objects enter the world, however, their initial purposes are often displaced.

For decades, STS researchers have been following the practical and political dimensions of science and technology. By focusing on concepts and practices of scientific and technological design at their sites of construction and on their multiple displacements, the 2012 conference continues this tradition. By bringing together ‘design’ and ‘displacement’ we want to highlight how scientific and technological design engages with existing socio-technical arrangements in both planned and unplanned ways, facilitating both collaborations and contestations, and generating both order and disorder.

The conference encourages analytic, critical, and practical engagement with design and displacement in several ways. First, it points to the need for investigating the relation between design intentions and their displacements, for example as catalysts for change and conflict. It also highlights the importance of investigating design controversies. It locates design practices in broader political contexts, and focuses attention on how design facilitates or hinders social inclusion, locally and globally. The theme ‘Design and Displacement’ invites careful analyses of the way design practices take part in shaping worlds. However, ‘Design and Displacement’ also raises questions around STS as design work and practice-based interventions. In this sense design becomes simultaneously topic and outcome, a situation that raises new questions concerning the role of STS research.

Welcome to Copenhagen Business School

Thank you for coming to join us in what we hope will be a really memorable celebration of all that is provocative, innovative and forward-looking about STS. Let us appreciate great scholarship, gain inspiration from each others' work and have some fun too. And please take some time to look around our wonderful city and learn something about the cultural and political environment of this little country. Who was Grundtvig, how many main political parties are there in the Danish parliament and who killed Nanna Birk Larsen? I will expect answers (but please don't tell the final answer to anyone who hasn't seen The Killing – they'll need to work it out for themselves).

And we meet in a business school of all places. But this is Copenhagen Business School which prides itself on the 'distinctiveness of its diversity' (to use an old CBS slogan). I won't bore you with institutional self-aggrandisement (which is anyway not a Danish characteristic) but I'll just say that CBS is much broader than the usual model of a business school – with humanities, social sciences and law as well as economics, finance, and strategic management. We work hard to encourage cross-disciplinary initiatives – for example, in areas like sustainability and public-private relations. We're large by business school standards with close to 20,000 students. We're rather surprised that our 100 year birthday is very close. And we are a self-standing public university not part of another institution.

Why throw CBS open to such a large STS gathering? Well, and as you will soon gather, STS is an established - and growing - force in Scandinavia so it seems only right that we should take our turn to play host. More than that, our region has played an important part in shaping discussions around socio-scientific relations – not least through public debates around science and technology, including the development of consensus conferences and the Danish Board of Technology. And STS fits with the intellectual spirit of CBS: restless, boundary-crossing, engaged.

Thank you to everyone who has played a part in making this conference happen – and that includes each participant. This is the largest conference ever held at CBS so please forgive us if sometimes you need to queue. But if you do find yourself standing with unfamiliar colleagues in a slow line, this could be just the chance to find out about Grundtvig and the Danish political system - and what was all that about Nanna Birk Larsen?

Have a great conference.

denoted "Information" next to the Library. Please feel free to ask more general questions about CBS here. In addition to the staff at the Conference Information Desk, you can also look for the Volunteers who will be easily recognizable.

Name Badge and Tickets for Events

Upon registration all participants receive a name badge. All participants and exhibitors are required to wear their badge during all conference events. For those who have signed up to participate in the reception at the Copenhagen City Hall, Thursday, 18 October, a ticket will be handed out together with the name badge. As there is a limited number of tickets available we urge those who have signed up for a ticket but for some reason will not make use of it to hand it in at the Registration Desk so it can be passed on to another participant.

Lunch

A lunch bag is served at Solbjerg Plads 3 in the canteen on the ground floor and on the 2nd floor, in the market place area and along the Hallway, Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 12:30-2:00 pm. Also, lunch is served at Kilen/The Wedge in the Atrium on the ground floor (same hours).

Coffee/Tea Breaks

Coffee/Tea Breaks are at Solbjerg Plads 3 in the market place area and along the Hallway, Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 10:30-11:00 am and 3:30-4:00 pm – as well as in the Atrium at Kilen/The Wedge.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Smoking

CBS is a non-smoking environment. We kindly ask you to respect this and refrain from smoking outside the designated areas.

Lavatories

CBS is a learning university and the capacity and standard of lavatories have therefore improved with every new campus building built! At Solbjerg Plads, where the main activities of the conference will take place, a green, water-saving strategy has been implemented. However, these measures have an impact when thousands of people are in the building at the same time and the pressure on the sewer system drastically grows. We therefore hope for your understanding should you experience the sewer systems to fail momentarily.

Lavatories can be found on all floors of the Solbjerg Plads building, near the elevator towers. The higher you aim in the building, the cleaner an experience you will get! At Kilen/The Wedge, our latest building, you will find nice lavatories on the ground floor.

Internet Access

Computers with a broadband connection to the Internet will be available for conference participants during conference hours at Solbjerg Plads 3, Room SP107 (1st floor). Participants who bring their own WiFi-enabled computer will have unlimited access to a wireless network all over CBS campus. Access is free of charge but the following information is required in order to log on:

AV-Equipment

Standard AV-equipment including PCs and data-projectors (beamers) are available in all rooms and Conference Volunteers will be present and assist with uploading of presentations etc. Please note that support for MAC-computers will not be provided.

Tourist Information Desk

Staff from Wonderful Copenhagen (the official convention, event and visitors bureau of the greater Copenhagen area) will be ready to assist you with general information on Copenhagen/Denmark. Look for the Tourist Information Desk in the Main Hall.

Book Exhibition

All exhibition tables are found in the Hallway at Solbjerg Plads 3 (a list of Exhibitors can be found on page 26).

Getting to Copenhagen Business School

Both Solbjerg Plads and Kilen/The Wedge Campus at Copenhagen Business School are conveniently located right next to Frederiksberg Metro Station. Kilen/The Wedge can also be reached by the Metro Fasanvej.

CBS: Solbjerg Plads 3, Frederiksberg

Herbs, Soil and Beer from a Microbrewery: Tastings from the New Nordic Kitchen

As part of the exhibition on the 'New Nordic Kitchen', chefs and collectors of wild herbs will be present at the conference on Wednesday with tales and tastings from the New Nordic Kitchen. For the Welcome Reception we have organized an tasting of beer from a local microbrewery.

Reception at Copenhagen City Hall

Thursday, 18 October

7:00-9:00 pm

Copenhagen City Hall, Rådhuspladsen 1, Copenhagen

The City of Copenhagen is generously hosting a reception at the Copenhagen City Hall – beautiful headquarters of the municipal council as well as the Lord Mayor of the Copenhagen Municipality, Denmark. The building is situated on The City Hall Square in central Copenhagen.

Banquet - New Nordic Tasting Buffet

Friday, 19 October

7:00-11:00 pm

CBS: Ovnhallen (The Kiln Hall), Porcelænshaven 20, Frederiksberg

The New Nordic Food movement can be seen as a gastronomic reaction against the growing globalization and industrialization of national food systems in the Nordic region. The New Nordic Food movement has become a node for (re-)creations of time, place, substance, and edibility. As a means of coming closer to a bodily understanding of the 'New Nordic Kitchen'—and as an attempt to further localize the 4S/EASST conference we have sampled a New Nordic tasting buffet.

Wednesday Program

17 October

WELCOME

Dear all, welcome to Copenhagen, welcome to 4S/EASST, welcome to four days under the heading 'Design and Displacement'

As an attempt to localize the overall theme and give everyone a chance to explore the city, we have decided to spend Wednesday the 17th with presenting and discussing the concept of 'Copenhagenization'. The term refers to the status Copenhagen has achieved as an alternative and ambitious city that is gradually changing an industrial metropolis into a green, welcoming, healthy and funky space. Copenhagen, however, also encompasses a variety of excellent examples of the way in which urban development has unexpected effects and hidden expenses. City scapes that were intended to be green and friendly now remain empty and uninspiring. Colourful neighbourhoods have suddenly lost their pulse, while 'failed' projects have blossomed in unexpected ways. The city develops in spite of design ambitions! In that way, 'Copenhagenizations' is certainly an example of experimental design and those types of displacements – in infrastructure, social worlds, moving patterns, economies, transactions, metabolism, climate – that Science and Technology Studies aim to explore and problematize.

The 'Copenhagenization' phenomenon is explored from a range of different artistic, artistic and culinary angles. Focus is on the 'New Nordic Kitchen', bicycling, urban planning and architecture. See the exhibitions, listen to the talks, taste the herbs!

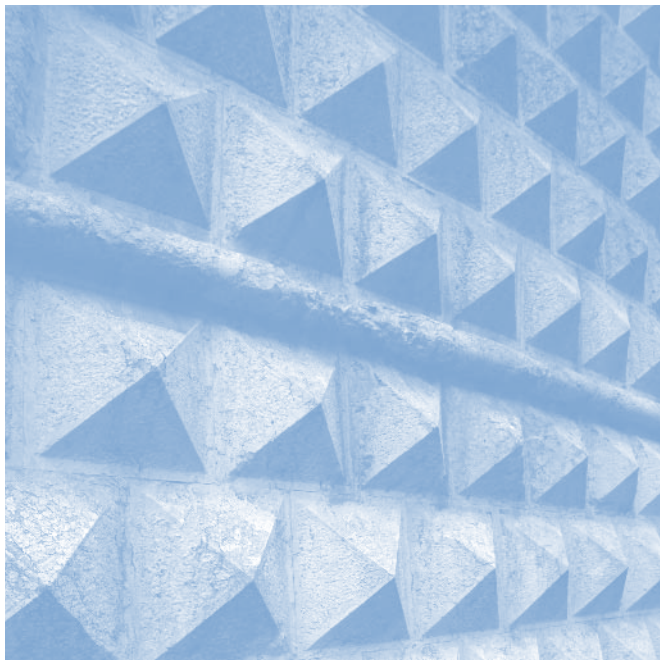

Enjoy!

 Arun Micheelsen, Copenhagen University

 Helene Ratner, Copenhagen Business School
 Henriette Langstrup, Copenhagen University
 Lea Schick, IT University of Copenhagen
 Ursula Plesner, Copenhagen Business School

Exhibitions

In the intersections between art, science, politics and pleasure, five exhibitions discuss and display different arc typical aspects of 'Copenhagenization'. Some of them will be on display throughout the conference; some of them are a Wednesday experience exclusively.

New Nordic Kitchen: Beyond Gastronomy and the Culinary Arts

Arun Micheelsen, University of Copenhagen

Anders Kristian Munk, Aalborg University

During the past 5-10 years, The New Nordic Kitchen has radically altered Copenhagen's ability to stage itself as an innovative and gastronomically creative city. Across agendas like public health, regional development, environmental sustainability and children's education, key issues are now being cast in New Nordic terms – spurring both enthusiasm and conflicts among experts, politicians and citizens. The exhibition explores the effects of New Nordic Food both through a set of digital maps and through a tableau of representations from the OPUS research project, detailing how the scientisation of the culinary and its social ambitions are taking form.

EXHIBITIONS

Herbs and Soil: Tastings from The New Nordic Kitchen

Simon Milwertz Philipsen, Simons Kogeskole Søren Espersen

As part of the exhibition on the 'New Nordic Kitchen', chefs and collectors of wild herbs visit the conference Wednesday afternoon with tales and tastings from the New Nordic Kitchen. The cosmology of the movement, as well as its materialization on the plate, is based on primarily using indigenous seasonal Nordic foodstuffs from the wild Nordic nature. A one-day exhibition will give you a flavourful introduction to the wild herbs and berries that can be found in Denmark. The herbs and berries are collected from various parts of the Danish landscape; the beaches, the beech forests, the meadows.

EXHIBITIONS

Negotiating the bicycle – negotiating the city

Anne Katrine Harders, Aalborg University

The bicycle is an old technology dating back to the 19th century. First used as a toy for the few and wealthy, now a key player in discussions about sustainable cities with less pollution, less noise and more 'livable cities'. Copenhagen is perceived a front-runner in this regard, especially due to the commonality of bicycling that ensures high mobility with limited negative consequences for the city.

Based on research, this exhibition addresses the question of how an old technology like the bicycle can become the centre of innovative and sustainable urban development.

Designing/displacing the harbour (Nordhavn)

COBE Architects

Our concepts of tomorrow's cities are continually displaced and redesigned to fit changing climates, rising populations, and other ecological issues. "Nordhavnen" is a future neighbourhood in Copenhagen that is taking form on the fringe of an old mixed neighbourhood of workers and well-to-do's in the Northern part of Copenhagen. The new part of town has the ambitious goal of being CO₂ neutral. But diverse knowledge forms, conflicting expectations about city life and specific building designs need to be assembled in successful ways in order to construct a living (and perhaps sustainable) neighbourhood. This exhibition seeks to map out the many conflicts and connections surrounding the construction of a future part of Copenhagen.

Welfairytales: The EXPO films

Martin de Thurah

The Danish EXPO office, located in the Danish Business Authority (Erhvervsstyrelsen), has kindly lent the EXPO films for display during this year's 4S/EASST.

Three short films about Danish city life produced by Martin de Thurah will be on display during the conference. The films were produced for the Danish EXPO Pavillion in Shanghai 2010, which presented Denmark to a Chinese Audience through the notion of "Welfairytales". They are named "Water City," "Bicycle City," and "Family City". The films offer an impressionistic painting of Denmark through atmospheric vignettes of rush hour bicycle traffic, children playing pirates in front of Danish architecture, and elderly people swimming in the harbor bath. Apart from their artistic value, the films allow an insight into how the Danish authorities brand Copenhagen as a city that combines "sustainability and growth"; "urban development and welfare solutions" with a "high quality of life."

EXCURSIONS

Excursions

Throughout the conference four excursions invite you to explore both Copenhagen and 'Copenhagenization' from very different thematic angles and at very different sites in the city.

Obesity – What's the problem? at the Medical Museion

Medical Museion welcomes you to an early evening about the prevention and treatment of obesity. The evening offers an introduction and a visit to Museion's new exhibition Obesity - What's the problem? STS ethnologist Astrid Jespersen will give a short presentation on a research project at the University of Copenhagen, looking to find ways to prevent obesity by stimulating physical activity in everyday life. Visit this beautiful, historical 18th century building, and take part in a joint discussion on the redesign of bodies through displacement of the internal organs, and on external, socio-political obesity categories.

Time:

Thursday 6:30 pm

Place:

Medical Museion, Bredgade 62, 1260 Copenhagen K

Getting there:

Take subway from Copenhagen Business School (CBS) to Nyhavn and walk 10 min down Bredgade, or take bus 1A or bus 15 from Nyhavn, stops in front of museum.

Meeting Point:

The Museion entrance hall

The bicycle as a wheel for urban development and conflicts

Copenhagen aims at becoming the world's number one cycling city. On the conference's guided bicycle tour you will get an exclusive sneak peek at how this urban mobility phenomenon unfolds itself in the city of Copenhagen. The trip will involve a talk about infrastructure, but also how culture and urban space influence our use of the bicycle as a transport technology. You will get to know some of the fairy tale stories about bicycling in Copenhagen, as well as stories about all the challenges and how bicycling is not only a matter of counting cyclists.

Time:

Thursday and Friday: 12:30 (lunch break)

Meeting Point:

Show up at the bicycle tour meeting point at the main conference venue

The Wall

The award-winning project 'The Wall' is the Museum of Copenhagen's newest interactive initiative. A 12 meter long mobile touch screen moves around the city alongside the metro construction digs and enables the visitors to both upload and scroll through archival material in a vast 3d cityscape, neighbourhood by neighbourhood, keyword by keyword, or theme by theme. During 4S/EASST, the Wall will be located close to the conference venue by Frederiksberg Runddel. Take a lunch break tour to The Wall with project coordinator Sarah Giersing and curator Jacob Parby Ingemann. Or visit The Wall's website (<http://vaeggen.copenhagen.dk/en/>) to take part in the palaver around Copenhagen and copenhagenization

Time:

Thursday and Friday: 12:30 (lunch break)

Meeting Point:

Show up at the tour meeting point at the main conference venue

EXCURSIONS

Reconstructing Copenhagen at the North Harbor

COBE Architects

Tomorrow's cities are being displaced and redesigned to fit changing climates, shortages of resources, rising populations, and other socio-ecological issues. Worldwide, sustainable cities are being imagined and created. With an ambitious city development project in the old industrial North Harbour, Copenhagen aims at becoming an urban forerunner in this movement. New islands are being built on the outskirts of Copenhagen, and the city will become 1% bigger by 2050. The architects behind North Harbor, COBE Architects will be presenting the North Harbour project as part of our exhibition theme on sustainable cities and 'Copenhagenization'.

It is possible to visit the construction site by taking the Metro to Kongens Nytorv and from there Bus 26 to Færgehavn Nord. The 4S/EASST Committee has not arranged any formal tour to the North Harbour, but recommends the site as worth exploring.

Food

'New Nordic' food theme at 4S/EASST

The New Nordic Food movement can be seen as a gastronomic reaction against the growing globalization and industrialization of national food systems in the Nordic region. Thus, the New Nordic Food movement has become a node for (re-)creations of time, place, substance, and edibility.

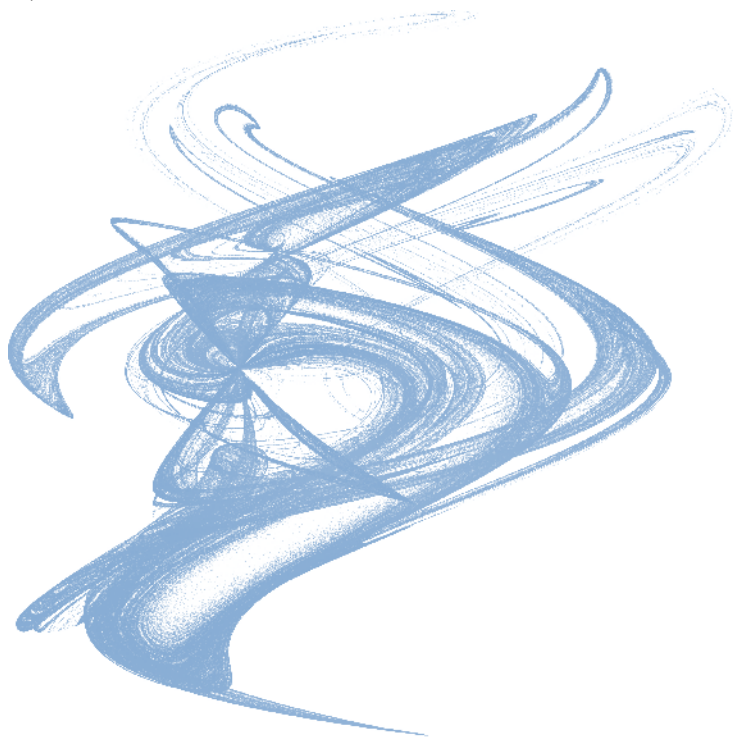

As can be explored at the Wednesday talks and exhibitions, The New Nordic Kitchen is a many faceted phenomenon; an haute cuisine located among Nordic chefs and restaurants (e.g. Noma), a political instrument for furthering the construction of a Nordic-cultural brand, a scientific assembly aiming at bettering public health in Denmark as well as a product targeting the Danish consumers. Each manifestation displacing Nordicness, food and place differently, however, all with the gastronomic enterprise as their common denominator.

As a means of coming closer to a bodily understanding of the 'New Nordic Kitchen' – and as an attempt to further localize the 4S conference – we serve lunch and snacks living up to the 'New Nordic kitchen principles' throughout the conference. Try a Danish "frøsnapper" with fried rye or indulge in baked pork with ramson.

Art:

As a new feature of 4S/EASST, we have invited a group of artists to reflect on socio-material relations between public space, city-flows, nature, and technology. The artworks will be on display at the main conference venue throughout the conference.

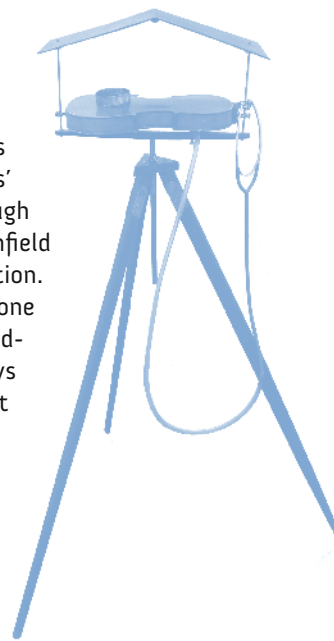

Illutron

is a collaborative, interactive art studio residing on an old tug-boat at the South Harbor of Copenhagen. For the conference, Illutron has collaborated with the Copenhagen Municipalities, from whom they get data on the bicycle flow in Copenhagen. The data is translated into abstract expression, through color-coded water flowing within 1000 meters of plastic tubing— in order to find the artwork, look up!

Hartmut Stockter

is a German artist living and working on his boat in Copenhagen. His low-tech sculptures are designed as a 'day trippers' equipment, turning a walk through a backyard, a park, or a brownfield site into an exploratory expedition. Through his subtle sculptures, one can engage with the urban landscape in creative, playful ways and his art invites us to reflect upon the nature of the city and on functionality of the tools through which one experiences one's surroundings.

The Design Mailboat

Laura Watts with Pelle Ehn and Lucy Suchman

Introduction

Lea Schick, IT University of Copenhagen

2:00-3:00 pm

Room: BG501

Messages in a bottle, messages caught in bits of undersea light. Mailboats are message-sized vessels designed to carry words on the tide from one beach to another, to send questions and receive floating replies. The Design Mailboat is one such word-bearing ship. We have been sending it back and forth between three coasts with a passion for design and its futures. The Design Mailboat has floated from the Orkney Islands off the north east coast of Scotland, through the Øresund between Denmark and Sweden, to the Silicon Valley on the west coast of the United States. Silicon Valley is the mythic origin of the design of the mouse, the graphical user interface, the big green button on the photocopier. Copenhagen is a mythic centre of Scandinavian Design, origins of 'the white style,' beautiful functional objects, but maybe also the Thing and its agonistic collectives. Orkney Islands are a mythic origin for wave and tidal renewable energy, and for the design of monumental stone circles, built over five thousand years ago. We have been asking each other what 'design' is in these various places, from our locations as the Future Archaeologist, the Collective Designer and the Anthropologist of Technoscience. In this presentation we share our mailboat messages with you, and send off one final Design Mailboat from the shores of Copenhagen.

Designing/Displacing a future Copenhagen

Anders Blok, Rune Boserup

Introduction

Cecilie Glerup, Copenhagen Business School

3:30-4:30 pm

Room: BG501

Today more than 50% of the world's population lives in cities, which means that cities use 70% of the world's resources and are responsible for 80% of the CO₂ emissions. The modernist and industrialist city is no longer sustainable nor a desirable model for future cities. Worldwide, sustainable cities are being imagined and made. But what shape will those sustainable cities take? What will be different? Which natures will move into the city? What will city life look like in the future? With an ambitious city development project in the old, industrial North Harbour, Copenhagen aims at becoming a forerunner leading the way for sustainable city development. Sociologist Anders Blok will engage in a dialogue with Rune Boserup from COBE architects, the designers of the new North Harbour, on how future, sustainable cities will take form, and the diverse challenges that are involved. The North Harbour project will also be visually presented at the exhibition space.

THEMATIC OPENING TALKS

Textures and Tastes - The Future of Science & Technology Studies

Annemarie Mol

Introduction

New Nordic food. A clever invention it is, that links up vital needs with markets and health with household labour, while moving cuisine across the globe. An excellent case for a talk about the issues that present day Science & Technology Studies would do well to address. Such as: where are we with questions about the ways in which 'science' helps to govern society – now that the sciences are being paid to assure profits for local industries? What about the various technologies that subjects (of knowledge, of the state) are encouraged to mobilise, so as to save, if not the world, then at least their own bodies? How to put to work notions such as 'multiplicity' and 'becoming' in contentious, inescapable, global arenas? And where to go, amidst all this turbulence, with the study of mundane cases – such as that of food and its textures, and eaters and their tastes, not in general, of course, but in specific, situated practices?

Scientific Program

Thursday
18 October

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

006. Edibles and edibility in STS - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: D.2.20

Chairs: Sebastian Abrahamsson, Department of Sociology and Anthropology, University of Amsterdam; Anders Kristian Munk, Section for Innovation and Sustainability, the Technical University of Denmark

Participants:

Designing's of the New Nordic Diet: Exploring displacements of the New Nordic Diet within the OPUS Research Center in Denmark. Arun Micheelsen, OPUS Center, Copenhagen University, Faculty of Science, Institute of Food and Resource Economics, Denmark.

Making Nutrients Edible: The Design of Insects and Taste in the Face of Global Hunger. Emily Yates-Doerr, Department of Sociology and Anthropology, University of Amsterdam

Edible North: Metabolizing the Scandinavian issuescape through turnips and terroirs. Anders Kristian Munk, Section for Innovation and Sustainability, the Technical University of Denmark

Discerning Drinkabilities: Elaboration and Translation in Australian Wine Production". Jeremy Brice, School of Geography and the Environment, Oxford University

Discussant: Rebeca Ibanez-Martin, Philosophy Institute, CSIC, Madrid

007. E-f(r)iction: Technological and social innovation in the public sector

9:00 to 10:30 am

*Solbjerg Plads: D4 AugParticipants:

The Role of Network Innovation Intermediaries in health-enabling Technologies. Catherine Agamis, Capgemini Consulting; Dimitris Assimakopoulos, Grenoble Ecole de Management, LINC Lab

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Modelling Renewable Energy Innovation Policies. Bei Gao, University College Dublin; Petra Ahrweiler, University College Dublin

A Platform for assessing social Awareness. Harold Paredes-Frigolett, Diego Portales University, Santiago de Chile

008. Biomedicine at local/global nexuses

9:00 to 10:30 am

Kilen: K143

Chair: Anne Pollock, Georgia Tech

Participants:

How does it matter who makes pharmaceutical knowledge and where?: Postcolonial contexts and global networks of South African drug discovery. Anne Pollock, Georgia Tech

Enacting 'combination prevention': how prehensions matter in approaches to HIV/AIDS. Kane Race, University of Sydney

HIV probes: some loose thoughts on releasing the biomedical grip on prevention possibilities in HIV. Marsha Rosengarten, Goldsmiths, University of London

Banking vitality – reproduction and the sperm crisis in China. Ayo Wahlberg, University of Copenhagen

009. (25) To cross a widening gulf: new patterns and practices of science for sustainability - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Kilen: K146

Chairs: Edward Hackett, Arizona State University; Stephen Zehr, University of Southern Indiana; Wesley Shrum, Louisiana State University

Participants:

Leveraging Local Knowledge for Climate Adaptation. Sharon Harlan, Arizona State University; Tommy Bleasdale, Arizona State

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

University; Juan Declet-Barreto, Arizona State University; Tiffany Halperin, Arizona State University; Katelyn Parady, Arizona State University

Constructing trampolines – unpicking locks? Spaces for design activism in community energy in the UK. Sabine Hielscher, University of Sussex; Adrian Smith, University of Sussex

Sustainable realities. Maria Eidenskog, Linköpings University

‘Futuring’ in transdisciplinary sustainability research in Austria. Thomas Voelker, University of Vienna

Cultural Discourse: Policy Stories on Adapting to Climate Change in Tonle Sap Lake of Cambodia. Vikrom Mathur, Stockholm Environment Institute

010. Domestic devices: Homes, dwellings and politics indoors - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Kilen: K150

Chair: Joe Deville, Goldsmiths, University of London

Participants:

Experimental huts: Hosts, traps and domestic camouflage. Ann Kelly, London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine

Giving shelter or ‘helping people help themselves’: Standardized emergency tents, shelter kits and participation in humanitarian relief. Aurora Fredriksen, Columbia University

Health promotion, housekeeping, and ‘home inspections’ in rural Malawi. Anna West, Stanford University

Discussant: Noortje S Marres, Goldsmiths, University of London

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

011. (37) Design and displacement in energy system transitions: pasts, futures and presents - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Kilen: Ks43

Chair: Nick Pidgeon, Cardiff University

Participants:

The ‘everyman’ of zero carbon housing: codified materiality and the imagined practices of future dwelling. Gordon Walker, Lancaster University; Ralf Brand, The University of Manchester; Andrew Karvonen, University of Manchester; Simon Guy, Manchester University

Shared and contested elements in Danish climate plans and their roles in contemporary climate initiatives. Michael Soegaard Joergensen, Department of Management Engineering, Technical University of Denmark

Designing Futures? The role of scenarios in energy system change. Catherine Butler, Cardiff University; Nick Pidgeon, Cardiff University; Karen Parkhill, Cardiff University

Meeting a Grand Challenge? Design and Displacement in Germany’s Envisioned Energy System Transition. Daniel Barben, RWTH Aachen University

Constructing a Clean Energy Future for British Columbia, Canada. Nichole Dusyk, University of British Columbia

012. Indigenous and feminist approaches to technoscience: Decolonizing landscapes, waterscapes, and labs

9:00 to 10:30 am

Kilen: Ks48

Chair: Kimberly TallBear, University of California, Berkeley

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Participants:

Techno fantasies of a Sámi cyborg: re-claiming Sámi body-, land- and waterscapes after a century of colonial exploitations in Sápmi. May-Britt Ohman, Centre for Gender Research Uppsala University

Challenging colonial design of landscapes: Norwegian nation state ideals versus Sámi understandings. Åsa Virdi Kroik, Department of Theology, History of Religions and The Social Sciences of Religion, Uppsala University

Designing dam safeties: decolonizing perspectives on large scale hydropower. Annika Idenfors, Department of Political Studies, Umeå University; Camilla Sandström, Department of Political Studies, Umeå University; May-Britt Ohman, Centre for Gender Research Uppsala University

Constituting knowledge across cultures of expertise and tradition: indigenous bio-scientists in the U.S. and Canada. Kimberly TallBear, University of California, Berkeley

Discussant: Charis Thompson, Gender & Women's Studies

013. (19) Entanglement, affect and transformation in, and with, life - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Kilen: Ks54

Chairs: Rebecca Ellis, Lancaster University; Claire Waterton, Centre for the Study of Environmental Change (CSEC), Department of Sociology, Lancaster University

Participants:

The Affects of Material Agency: Subjectivity, Ethico-Aesthetics and Ontological Blurring through a Living Machine. Christopher Salter, Concordia University; Oron Catts, SymbioticA, The university of Western Australia; Ionat Zurr, SymbioticA, University of Western Australia

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Thinking, feeling and hesitating with blue-green algae. Claire Waterton, Centre for the Study of Environmental Change (CSEC), Department of Sociology, Lancaster University

Field experiments: Reordering fieldwork relations in behavioural ecology and social anthropology. Matei Candea, Anthropology, Durham University, UK

Bio-Logics: Life, Agency and Technology in a Swazi Sawmill and a UK Health Research Project. Vito Laterza, Centre for Health and Clinical Research - Bristol UWE; Bob Forrester, Swaziland National Trust Commission

Dangerous species: tangled nature-cultures in the plastisphere. Kim De Wolff, University of California, San Diego

014. (75+76) Design values - the materialization of building design/Digital models in technology and construction - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Kilen: Ground floor - Ks71

Chairs: Jennifer Whyte, University of Reading; Reijo Miettinen, University of Helsinki

Participants:

Combined uses of building information models in building design. Sami Paavola, CRADLE, University of Helsinki; Hannele Kerosuo, University of Helsinki, CRADLE

Asynchronous memory: The usage of memory by diverse practitioners over time. Carmel Lindkvist, University of Reading; Jennifer Whyte, University of Reading

Digital modeling and shaping of design practices. Satu Reijonen, Copenhagen Business School

Digital Materiality and Design Collaboration. Laura Forlano, Illinois Institute of Technology; Ingrid Erickson, Rutgers University

034. Changing forms of expert advice and knowledge exchange in marine governance

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: D4 Aug

Chairs: Sebastian Linke, University of Gothenburg; Petter Holm, University of TromsøParticipants:*Expertise and knowledge production for mandated science: the case of the Norwegian Reference Fleet. Maiken Bjørkan, University of TromsøResults Based Management: a useful instrument for reconfiguring knowledge and power networks? Petter Holm, University of Tromsø; Kåre Nølle Nielsen, University of TromsøDefining sandbanks on the Dogger Bank: Producing scientific justification for different publics. Ditte Degnbol, IFM, Copenhagen Institute of Technology, Aalborg UniversitySocial dimensions of expertise: Challenges of knowledge communication and stakeholder participation in EU fisheries management. Sebastian Linke, University of GothenburgManaging knowledge across boundaries. Kari Stange, University of Wageningen; Jan van Tatenhove, University of Wageningen035. (91) Mutual exchanges of concepts and practices

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Kilen: K143

Chairs: Milena D. Bister, Institute for European Ethnology, Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin; Emily Kuria, Humboldt-Universität Zu BerlinParticipants:*Accountability practices: On knowing and acting in healthcare. Sonja Jerak-Zuiderent, Erasmus University

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Landscapes in pictures, vegetations in words: ambiguous interactions between geography and ecology. Chunglin Kwa, University of AmsterdamEnacting the “chronically ill”: a study of classification practices in psychiatry. Milena D. Bister, Institute for European Ethnology, Humboldt-Universität zu BerlinThe Role of Time in Weight-Loss and Dieting Practices. Kay Felder, University of ViennaHealth as Learning? Health Literacies Revisited. Joao Arriscado Nunes, CES University of Coimbra; Claudia Vieira de Souza, Institute for Clinical Research Evandro Chagas (IPEC), Fiocruz; Michele Meirelles, Institute for Clinical Research Evandro Chagas (IPEC), Fiocruz; Eloisa Hora, Institute for Clinical Research Evandro Chagas (IPEC), Fiocruz; Odilio Lino, Institute for Clinical Research Evandro Chagas (IPEC), FiocruzDiscussant: Vicky Singleton, Lancaster University036. (25) To cross a widening gulf: new patterns and practices of science for sustainability - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Kilen: K146

Chairs: Edward Hackett, Arizona State University; Stephen Zehr, University of Southern Indiana; Wesley Shrum, Louisiana State UniversityParticipants:*The art of translating environmental knowledge: lessons learned from a Finnish home economics NGO. Maria Akerman, University of TampereBridging the Gulf: New Practices in Environmental Policy Studies. Sharon D. Moran, SUNY - Environmental Science and ForestryMeat consumption trends and discourses: Learning from the past. Minna Kanerva, The Research Center for Sustainability Studies (artec) - University of Bremen

Making a better coffee: The sustainability through the co-production between traditional and scientific knowledge. Derly Yohana Sánchez Vargas, Universidad Nacional de Colombia

Towards Sustainable Sanitation? Ragna Zeiss, Maastricht University

037. Domestic devices: Homes, dwellings and politics indoors - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Kilen: K150

Chair: Ann Kelly, London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine

Participants:

Designing the 'man at the door'. Liz McFall, Open University

Debt collection: Soliciting domestic economic participation. Joe Deville, Goldsmiths, University of London

A certain convocation of politic worms: Assembling domestic vermiculture and the ecological collective. James Wilcox, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute

DIY Innovation and the Spirit of Homebrewing. Dave Conz, Arizona State University

Discussant: Noortje S Marres, Goldsmiths, University of London

038. (37) Design and displacement in energy system transitions: pasts, futures and presents - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Kilen: Ks43

Chair: Nick Pidgeon, Cardiff University

Participants:

Energy, Expectations, and Expertise: the case of Wave Hub. Marfuga Iskandarova, University of Exeter; Elena Simakova, Exeter University Business School

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Solar Energy: Disconcertments of Different Presents and Futures? Heidrun Åm, Centre for Science and Technology Studies, Norwegian University of Science and Technology (NTNU)

Visions of a Sustainable Energy System for the Mediterranean Region. Sharlissa Moore, Arizona State University

Mass production of solar energy: public images of a scientific and technological object. Ana Delicado, Institute of Social Sciences Univ Lisbon; Monica Truninger, Institute of Social Sciences, University of Lisbon

No NIMBY or: How I learned to stop worrying and love the windmill. Henrik Karlstrøm, Norwegian University of Science and Technology

039. Critical displacements: brain, feminism and politics + Feminist engagements with brain research designs

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Kilen: Ks48

Chairs: Isabelle Dussauge, Center for Gender Research, Uppsala University; Cynthia Kraus, Institute of Social Sciences & University institute for the history of medicine and public health, University of Lausanne

Participants:

Estrogen Receptors in the Brain: A Case for Situational Neuroendocrinology. Deboleena Roy, Department of Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies and Neuroscience and Behavioral Biology, Emory University

Visualizing Life/Death: Feminist materialism, Alzheimer's disease and the lab. Tara Mehrabi, Tema Genus, Linköping University

Gendered Neuroeconomics: Deciding rational and emotional with socio-political implications. Sigrid Schmitz, University of Vienna, Fac. of Social Sciences

Sex and the neuro-: The lost and found gender of neuroscience. Isabelle Dussauge, Center for Gender Research, Uppsala University

Discussant: Deboleena Roy, Department of Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies and Neuroscience and Behavioral Biology, Emory University

040. (19) Life's temporal and material frontiers - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Kilen: K54

Chairs: Rebecca Ellis, Lancaster University; Claire Waterton, Centre for the Study of Environmental Change (CSEC), Department of Sociology, Lancaster University

Participants:

Out of the Blue? Lives as a productive force and the timing and tweaking of underwater limits. Kristin Asdal, Centre for technology, innovation and culture (TIK), University of Oslo

Making Natural Capital: Biodiversity Research and Biosecurity Practices in Mexico. Emily Mannix Wanderer, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

(Re)Ordering Ordered Life: The Enactment of Botanical Garden Socio-Natures. Katja Grotzner Neves, Concordia University

Frog Tales. Poison Frogs, Natural Product Research and the Regulation of Biodiversity. Klaus Angerer, Humboldt Universität zu Berlin

041. (75+76) Design values - the materialization of building design/Digital models in technology and construction - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Kilen: Ground floor - K571

Chairs: Satu Reijonen, Copenhagen Business School; Kjell Tryggestad, Copenhagen Business School

Participants:

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Electric vehicle design: Displacement and discovery in the digital-material boundary zone. Laura Noren, New York University

2000 Watt Society : Constructing sustainable design values in Switzerland. Srikrishna Bharathi, 1) NTNU, Department of Interdisciplinary Studies of Culture (KULT) 2) The Research Centre on Zero Emission Buildings (ZEB) 3) Erasmus Exchange 2012 - ETH Zurich, Natural and Social Science Interface (NSSI)

Design and innovation management. Rebecca Pinheiro Croisel, Mines ParisTech

Turning houses of culture into an urban assemblage of heterogeneous actors using RFID technology. Valinka Suenson, Aalborg University

A New Machine to Make Land Pay: Designing the Steel Skeleton Skyscraper. Maude Pugliese, University of Chicago

042. (68) Civil society organisations in research governance - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP112

Chair: Bernd Carsten Stahl, De Montfort University

Participants:

The NanoCap Project: NGO Participation in the EU nano debate. Anna Lamprou, RPI

Civil Society Organization and Scientific Misconduct. Lian Xinyan, Beijing, China Norms and Values in Technology Research. Stephen Rainey, FUNDP, Namur

Norms and Values in Technology Research. Stephen Rainey, FUNDP, Namur

043. Postphenomenological research: empirical perspectives

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP113

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Chair: Don Ihde, Stony Brook University

Participants:

A Multi-Stable Analysis of Data Mining technology. Stacey Irwin, Millersville University

Empirical shortcomings of postphenomenology? Jan Kyrre Berg Olsen Friis, Stony Brook University

Technoscience and Biology – towards an observer-centered phenomenology of life. Michael Funk, TU Dresden

Becoming Mobile: The Co-construction of Cellphones and their Users. Galit Wellner, Bar Ilan University

A Century on Speed: Postphenomenological Reflections on Vision and Movement in the 20th Century. Søren Riis, Roskilde University

044. (87) Ignorance by design. Rethinking knowledge, anti-knowledge and the unknown in STS - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP114

Chairs: Matthias Gross, Helmholtz Centre for Environmental Research - UFZ; Linsey McGoey, University of Essex

Participants:

Overcoming silent evidence: the case of pandemic influenza risk assessment. Erika Mansnerus, London School of Economics

Revealing by Concealing: How Obscured Expertise Accounts for Itself. Brian R Rappert, University of Exeter

Researching the Unknown Future. Sascha Dickel, Institute for Science and Technology Studies, University Bielefeld

Influence of precaution on the treatment of uncertainties and knowledge in food risk assessments. Eve Feinblat-Meleze, Institut National de la Recherche Agronomique (INRA)

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Performing the (unknown) home of ubiquitous computing. Charalampos Kerasidou, Lancaster University

045. Exchange and ownership in human and animal bodies

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP205

Chair: Amy Hinterberger, Institute for Science, Innovation and Society, University of Oxford

Participants:

Ferretting things out: Designing pandemic flu in animal models. Natalie Hannah Porter, Institute for Science, Innovation and Society, University of Oxford

Materials of consequence: Constituting the human and the animal in life sciences regulation. Amy Hinterberger, Institute for Science, Innovation and Society, University of Oxford

Cocoon, Commodified: A hybrid's entangled history of silk and science. Lisa Onaga, Cornell University

The Moral Economy of Danish Research Apes, Placement, Displacement, Replacement. Lene Koch, University of Copenhagen; Mette N Svendsen, University of Copenhagen

How Do We Remember Animals Sent into Outer-Space? Jordan Bimm, York University

Discussant: Carrie Friese, London School of Economics and Political Science

046. (01) Clinical research in post-genomic medicine - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP207

Chairs: Alberto Cambrosio, McGill University; Peter Keating, University of Quebec, Montreal

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Participants:

Designs for evidence: public and private faces of cardiac surgery research. Catherine M Will, University of Sussex; Piera Morlacchi, University of Sussex

The Politics of Evidence and Experimentality in Clinical Research Trials: The Case of Fetal Cell Transplants in the Post Genomic Era. Paul Just, University of Vienna, Dpt. of Political Science/Life Science Governance (LSG)

Research Platform Reconfiguring early phase trials in post-genomic oncology. A comparative US-France ethnography. Sylvain Besle, Paris IV-Sorbonne; Nina Kohli-Laven, McGill University

'A Hammer-and-Nail Problem': Negotiating Clinical Utility in Postgenomic American Medicine. Andrew Staver Hoffman, McGill University

Molecular monopolies: the corporatisation of cervical cancer screening innovation. Stuart Hogarth, King's College London

047. (10) Care and its dis/placing moves - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP208

Chairs: Peter Lutz, IT University of Copenhagen; Sarah Pinto, Tufts University

Participants:

Placing Normality and Displacing Madness: Seeing Dementia Care in India. Bianca Brijnath, Monash University

Choreas and Choreographies of Care for Hysteria in India. Sarah Pinto, Tufts University

Becoming with Care Moves. Peter Lutz, IT University of Copenhagen

Birthing Bodies in the Presence of Technology. Zehorith Mitz, STS graduate Program Bar Ilan University Israel

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

048. (77) Urban assemblages and cosmopolitics: contributions for an ongoing debate - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP210

Chairs: Anders Blok, Copenhagen University; Ignacio Farias, Social Science Research Center Berlin

Participants:

Engineering 'historical locations'. The atmospheric performance of ruined urban environments. Hanna Katharina Göbel, University of Konstanz

Urban discourses of innovation: How cities cope with disaster. Anique Hommels, Maastricht University

The Diplomacy of Urban Ecological Art: Negotiating Science and Politics. Mrill Ingram, University of Arizona

Re-Assembling Vancouver's Southeast and Zurich's North: Urban Identity and Sustainability in Industrial Area Conversions. Monika Maria Kurath, ETH Zurich, Department of Architecture

The Cosmopolitics of Fractional Objects: Buildings and the Urban Planning Code in Buenos Aires. Nicholas D'Avella, University of California, Davis

049. (69) Changing research landscapes - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP212

Chair: Anne Kristiina Kovalainen, Turku School of Economics

Participants:

Conditions for scientific innovations. Jochen Glaser, TU Berlin; Grit Laudel, University of Twente

Evaluation system interferences in the Third Mission in the Universities. A regional R&D systems case study. Celia Diaz-Catalan, Fundación Ideas; Irene Lopez-Navarro, CCHS-CSIC

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

“Getting on Board, Keeping on Board”: Negotiating Article Manuscript Quality. Rebecca Lund, Aalto University School of Economics

Agri-biotechnology and development: Global science, technological promise and regulatory politics. Sally Brooks, Independent Researcher

050. (81) Expectations and innovative technologies - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP213

Chair: Alan Robert Petersen, Monash University

Participants:

Self-organizing Mechanism about Systems of Technical Innovation. Sun Ye, Tsinghua University

Expectations on prenatal screening- Fieldwork among Danish health professionals. Barbara Ann Barrett, University of Copenhagen

Market expectations: neuromarketing and the promise of consumer insight. Tanja Schneider, University of Oxford; Steve Woolgar, University of Oxford

Anticipatory practices, epistemic objects and spatial contexts. Toni Ahlqvist, VTT Technical Research Centre of Finland

051. (60) Crime, technology, and policing - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP214

Chair: Peter Lauritsen, Aarhus University

Participants:

To swab or not to swab – policing and the negotiation of forensic technologies. Corinna Kruse, Linköping University, Sweden

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Writing the history of DNA in policing practices in Denmark. Ask Risom Bøge, Aarhus University; Peter Lauritsen, Aarhus University

The Manchester Riots: Emergent Policing Practices in Urban Space Securitisation. Elisa Pieri, University of Manchester

Can electricity soothe the savage breast? What tasers do to police use of force. Cédric Moreau de Bellaing, Ecole Normale Supérieure - Paris

Demythologizing the use of DNA in police investigations. Johanne Yttri Dahl, NTNU and Norwegian Police University College; Heidi Mork Lomell, The Norwegian Police University College

052. (66) On states, stateness and STS: government(al)ity with a small “g”? - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP216

Chair: Nicholas J Rowland, Pennsylvania State University

Participants:

The Tractor and the Plow: Commercial Agriculture and Ethiopian Statemaking since 2002. Sarah Stefanos, University of Wisconsin, Madison

Inside/outside again? Private security companies and the formation of ‘modern’ assemblages in Eastern Congo. Peer Schouten, School of Global Studies (University of Gothenburg)

Port(al)s: How infrastructure flattens the world we live in. Jan-Hendrik Passoth, Bielefeld University; Nicholas J Rowland, Pennsylvania State University

Governing the environment: Guidance documents and the ‘making up’ of environmental practitioners. Matthew Cashmore, Aalborg University; Tim Richardson, Aalborg University

Nature, Environment, and the Technoscientific Enviro-State. Patrick Carroll, University of California, Davis

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

053. Honoring Mike Lynch

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPso1

Chair: Joan Fujimura, University of WisconsinParticipants:*On Catalysis: Wrestling with Instigations and Provocations from Mike Lynch. Park Doing, CornellThe Art (and Artifacts) of Mentorship: Student Advising and Extra-Ordinary Action. Janet Vertesi, Princeton UniversityTo be determined later on. Ruth Margaret McNally, Anglia Ruskin University.Mike Lynch: STS as (a long) vacation. Alan Irwin, Copenhagen Business School; Maja Horst, University of CopenhagenDiscussants: Lucy Suchman, Lancaster University; Sergio Sismondo, Queen's University054. (103) Ethics and biomedicine - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPso3

Chairs: Luigi Pellizzoni, University of Trieste, Italy; Marja Ylönen, University of JyväskyläParticipants:*Ethics expertise and democracy in political regulation of biomedicine. Maria Hedlund, Lund UniversityLooking for Ethics: the challenges and rewards of taking an STS approach to ethics. Catherine Heeney, Consejo Superior de Investigaciones Científicas; Michael Parker, Oxford UniversityEthics as Designed and Displaced: landscaping the political culture of health controversies in Taiwan. Wen-Hua Kuo, National Yang-Ming University

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Paradigm Shift in Prenatal Genetic Risk Assessment for Down Syndrome. Jessica Mozerky, University of Pennsylvania055. (93) Neuroscience as a science of the social? - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPso5

Chairs: Svenja Matusall, ETH Zurich; Johannes Bruder, eikones NCCR Iconic CriticismParticipants:*Catharsis, Transcendence, Self-Regulation: The Shifting Roles of Psychoactive Substances in Post-Traumatic Therapy. Ulrich Koch, ETH ZurichPunch drunk: Chronic Traumatic Encephalopathy (CTE), the medicalization of violence and the appeal of stained brains. Aryn Martin, York UniversityAnxiety and fragility in the neuroscience of the social: considering autism research. Des Fitzgerald, London School of Economics and Political ScienceNeuroscience as a science of which social? Gregory Hollin, Institute for Science and Society, University of Nottingham056. Design, STS and cosmopolitics: From intervention to emergence in participation and sustainability - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPso7

Chair: Alex Wilkie, Goldsmiths, University of LondonParticipants:*Design workbooks: non-scientific inscriptions. William Gaver, Goldsmiths, University of London

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Cohering an Ecology of Practices through Public Design. Carl DiSalvo, Georgia Institute of Technology

Design Practices and the Micropolitics of Sustainability. Ramia Mazé, Interactive Institute

Energy Scavenging and Cosmopolitics: Expanding the Materialities of Participation in Sustainable Technology. Jennifer Gabrys, Goldsmiths, University of London

057. (32) Environmental infrastructures: STS's anthropology of nature-cultures - II: Water

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs08

Chairs: Atsuro Morita, Osaka University; Anders Blok, Copenhagen University; Brit Ross Winthereik, IT University of Copenhagen; Casper Bruun Jensen, IT University of Copenhagen

Participants:

Ontological Politics of Flood: Infrastructures and Enactment of Nature and Society in Chao Phraya Delta. Atsuro Morita, Osaka University

River talk: narratives of riverine environments in hydropower conflict, Turkey. Caterina Scaramell, MIT HASTS

Buried streams and hidden narratives: A sociomaterial approach to understanding urban water. Jennifer T. Moko, Vanderbilt University

Inventive Numbers and Natural Infrastructure. Helen Ruth Verran, University of Melbourne

058. (95) Has feminism changed science studies?

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs10

Chairs: Elvira Scheich, Freie Universität Berlin; Dagmar Lorenz-Meyer, Charles University Prague; Martina Erlemann, Freie Universität Berlin

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Participants:

The 'assembler' as a social imaginary for designing nature, technology, and society. Petra Lucht, Technical University of Berlin & RWTH Aachen

Production of eggs and embryos, invisibility of women, and research in Spain. Eulalia Pérez Sedeño, Spanish National Research Council; Ana Sánchez Torres, Universidad de Valencia

The fruitfulness of mixed comparative approaches in STS. Anne-Sophie Godfroy, Institute for History and Philosophy of science and Technology (IHPST)

A Longitudinal Examination of Gender Differences in Scientific Careers: Evidence from Ghana, Kenya, and Kerala, India. Paige Miller, University of Wisconsin, River Falls; Wesley Shrum, Louisiana State University

059. (18) Bio-objects and bio-objectification - I

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs12

Chairs: Tora Holmberg, Institute for Housing and Urban Research, Uppsala University; Conor Douglas, VU University Medical Centre Amsterdam

Participants:

Bio-objectification and bio-identification: recursive relations in the social shaping of bio-objects. Andrew Webster, SATSU, University of York

Generative relations: crafting bio-objects within digital realms. Sakari Tamminen, University of Helsinki; Niki Vermeulen, University of Manchester

Blocking the Process of Bio-objectification: the translation of regenerative medicine in Japan. Koichi Mikami, Graduate University for Advanced Studies

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Blurring the Boundaries in Bio-Banking: Reconfiguring Biomedical Infrastructures and their Governance. Conor Douglas, VU University Medical Centre Amsterdam

The movements and circulation of Aedes aegypti OX513A: mapping regulation and governance of GM mosquitos. Luisa Reis Castro, Spiral, Université de Liège / Maastricht University

o60. Legitimizing ESS II: the expectations of ESS touching reality

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs13

Chair: Kerstin Sandell, Dept of Gender Studies, Lund University

Participants:

An Olympic Campaign of Physics: The ESS in Local Media. Tobias Linné, Department of Communication and Media, Lund University

Reaching the inside from the outside? Member identification and auto-communication. Sara von Platen, Department of Strategic Communication, Lund University

ESS: Designing organizations and institutions for collaboration in science. Josephine V Rekers, CIRCLE Lund University

o61. (54) Disasters - redesigning collective orders - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs14

Chairs: Zuzana Hrdlickova, Goldsmiths, University of London; Manuel Tironi, Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile; Israel Rodríguez-Giralt, Universitat Oberta de Catalunya

Participants:

illocality: Emergency Housing, Displacement and the Distribution of Sick Space. Nick Shapiro, University of Oxford

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Of Borders and Buffer Zones: The Spatial Politics of Disaster in Sri Lanka. Vivian Y. Choi, University of California, Davis

Technologies of Displacement: Urban Design and Planning after Katrina. Graham Owen, Tulane University The social-cultural impact of the Dutch flood disaster of 1953. WATERWORKS Heems & Kothuis, Maastricht University/TU Delft

o62. (72) (Re)designing public engagement: innovation in practice and analysis - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs16

Chair: Cynthia Selin, Arizona State University

Participants:

The Public Participation Principle in Science and Technology Communication. Per Hetland, InterMedia, University of Oslo

Nanopodium: Public debate on nanotech in the Netherlands. Christien Enzing, Technopolis, Amsterdam

Public engagement in the margin. Kristofer Hansson, Division of Ethnology, Department of Arts and Cultural Sciences, Lund University, Sweden

Environmental agency in a women's organisation, practices of food and companion species. Marja Vehviläinen, University of Tampere, Finland

Grassroots Literacy and Asbestos Activism in South Africa. John Trimbur, Emerson College

o66. Governing the food-health nexus: Practices and materialities - I

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: D.2.20

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Chairs: David Schleifer, Columbia University; Xaq Frohlich, Independent Researcher; Bart Penders, Radboud University Nijmegen

Participants:

Securing Health: Defense, Industrial Bread and the Biopolitics of Nutrition. Aaron Bobrow-Strain, Whitman College

"You'd have to be whack to be mad at information!". Xaq Frohlich, Independent Researcher

Who has the guts to make health claims? Good and Bad Scientists in Europe. Kim Hendrickx, University of Liège

The materiality of eating: specificities around fats in cooking practices. Rebeca Ibanez-Martin, Spanish National Research Council

The story of a risk object: cholesterol in Finland, ca. 1950-1980. Mikko Jauho, National Consumer Research Centre, Helsinki

o67. (61) New media, digital identities and transformations of surveillance - I

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Kilen: K143

Chair: Anders Albrechtslund, Aarhus University

Participants:

Techno-economic models of surveillant subjectivity: the case of the Quantified Self. David J. Phillips, University of Toronto

Reflecting shadows: exploring the (un-)controllability of digital identities. Stefan Strauß, Austrian Academy of Sciences, Institute of Technology Assessment (ITA)

Making data bodies explicit. Lonke van der Velden, University of Amsterdam; Frederik Zuiderveen Borgesius, University of Amsterdam

New media and surveillance: Identity and techno-embodied living. Ian Tucker, University of East London

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

o68. Taking stock of CCS in times of low expectations - I

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Kilen: K146

Chair: Nils Markusson, University of Edinburgh

Participants:

Low expectations and remarkable opportunities of CCS technology in Finland. Matti Kojo, University of Tampere, Finland; Anna Matilda Nurmi, University of Jyväskylä

Fig-leaves, smokescreens and greenwash: Theorising Green representations on CCS. Hauke Riesch, Imperial College, London, UK; Olaf Corry, Open University

Carbon cultures: Standardization and policy transfer on CCS. Mads Dahl Gjeffen, University of Oslo/Harvard University

Uncertainties in CO₂ storage and implications for risk practices. Benjamin Evar, University of Edinburgh

A tale of two CCS demos. Florian Kern, University of Sussex; Jim Watson, SPRU, University of Sussex, UK; James Meadowcroft, Carleton University; James Gaede, Carleton University, Canada

o69. (41) The politics of algorithms - I

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Kilen: K150

Chairs: Tarleton Lee Gillespie, Cornell University; Mary L. Gray, Microsoft Research / Indiana University; Mike Ananny, Microsoft Research / Harvard University; Daniel Kreiss, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

Participants:

Accounting for people after a disaster: algorithms then and now. Megan Finn, UC Berkeley

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Statistically discriminating without discrimination in consumer finance. Martha Poon, NYU

Coding 'Good Technology' for Winning Campaigns: Algorithms and the Aristotle 360 Campaign Management Software. Fenwick Robert McKelvey, Ryerson / York Universities

Queering Technological Infrastructures? Anatomy of a paradox. Mary L. Gray, Microsoft Research / Indiana University; Mike Ananny, Microsoft Research / Harvard University

070. (37) Design and displacement in energy system transitions: pasts, futures and presents - III

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Kilen: Ks43

Chair: Catherine Butler, Cardiff University

Participants:

Towards a sustainable grid development? Comparing grid development regimes. Ole Andreas Brekke, Uni Research, Stein Rokkan Centre for Social Studies, Bergen, Norway; Hogne Sataoen, Stein Rokkan Centre for social studies; Patrick Devine-Wright, University of Manchester; Susana Batel, University of Exeter; Etienne Bailey, University of Exeter; Martin Albrechts, KTH Royal Institute of Technology

Designing and Displacing Future Energy Systems: Public(s), (Dis)engagement and Future Imaginaries. Catherine Butler, Cardiff University; Karen Parkhill, Cardiff University; Nick Pidgeon, Cardiff University

Public perceptions on new energy grid designs: A cross-country comparison. Øystein Aas, Norwegian Institute for Nature Research; Patrick Devine-Wright, University of Manchester; Torvald Tangeland, Norwegian Institute for Nature Research; Susana Batel, University of Exeter

Design and displacement of interfaces between the social and the technical in energy transitions. Jens Schippl, ITAS, Karlsruhe Institute of Technology (KIT)

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Designing the low-income electricity consumer: pilot studies of dynamic pricing in the US. Daniel Breslau, Virginia Tech

071. (45) Feminist theory, values & ICT design - I

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Kilen: Ks48

Chairs: Corinna Bath, Technical University Berlin; Judith Simon, Karlsruhe Institute of Technology

Participants:

Gendered entanglements of human-machine-interferences. Waltraud Ernst, Johannes Kepler University Linz

Responsibility & accountability in ICT design. Judith Simon, Karlsruhe Institute of Technology On Designly Thinking and Feminist Thought. Anna Croon Fors, Department of Informatics, Umeå University, Sweden

Participatory design and feminist interventions. Emancipatory potentials of public engagement. Andrea*s Jackie Klaura, Department of Social Studies of Science, University of Vienna

Laboratory Studies as a Means of Feminist Intervention into ICT Research and Design Practices. Göde Both, Paderborn University

072. (28) Responsible and sustainable innovation: differences, similarities and relevance for STS - I

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Kilen: Ks54

Chairs: Jaco Quist, Delft University of Technology; Harro Van Lente, University Utrecht; Ellen Moors, Innovation Studies, Copernicus Institute, Utrecht University, NL

Participants:

Articulations of responsibility and sustainability in nanotechnology: Comparing fixed and fluid funnels. Colette Bos, Utrecht

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

University; Harro Van Lente, University Utrecht; Alexander Peine, Utrecht University

Technology Assessment for Knowledge Production: A Framework for Analyzing the Conditions of Responsible and Sustainable Innovation. Christian Büscher, KIT; Andreas Lösch, KIT

Design junctions, transition arenas and performed interventions. Ulrik Jørgensen, Aalborg University; Jens Stissing Jensen, DTU Management

Participatory Technology Assessment & Stakeholder Engagement for Responsible and Sustainable Innovation: a conceptual & methodological comparison from recent cases from the Netherlands. Jaco Quist, Delft University of Technology

073. (75+76) Design values - the materialization of building design/Digital models in technology and construction - III

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Kilen: Ground floor - K571

Chairs: Kjell Tryggestad, Copenhagen Business School; Chris Harty, University of Reading

Participants:

Exploring socio-material orderings in ethnography of architectural design. Katrine Lotz, Royal Academy of fine Arts, School of Architecture; Marianne Stang Våland, Copenhagen Business School

The sound of glass: an unheard(-of) dimension in architecture. Annelies Jacobs, Dept. of Technology and Society Studies, Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, Maastricht University

Designing the observability of in-patients in single bedroom hospital wards. Carole Boudeau, university of reading

Materiality and Visualization in hospital design: How big is big enough? Chris Harty, University of Reading; Kjell Tryggestad, Copenhagen Business School

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

074. (43) Childhood, values, and digitisation - I

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP112

Chairs: Irma van der Ploeg, Zuyd University; Isolde Sprengels, Zuyd University

Participants:

Translate, visualize & displace: Digital modes of risk assessment in Dutch youth care. Karolina La Fors-Owczynnik, Zuyd University, Maastricht

Profiling 'at-risk youth': Data mining and values in crime policy. Francisca Grommé, University of Amsterdam

Digitization in child welfare: 'raising' contrasts, reducing ambiguities. Inge Lecluijze, Maastricht University; Bart Penders, Radboud University Nijmegen; Frans J.M. Feron, Maastricht University; Klasien Horstman, Maastricht University

Constructing a Self on Facebook: Teenage patients, privacy, and autonomy. Maja van der Velden, University of Oslo

075. Postphenomenological research: theoretical contributions

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP113

Chair: Peter-Paul Verbeek, University of Twente

Participants:

It Takes Both Postphenomenology and STS to Describe Mundane Artifacts. Robert Rosenberger, Georgia Institute of Technology

Postphenomenology vs. "Postpsychoanalysis": Digging into the Technological Unconscious. Yoni Van Den Eede, Free University of Brussels (VUB)

Postphenomenology follows art to science to art. Don Ihde, Stony Brook University

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

076. Making Life visible: Material performances in the museum

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP114

Chairs: Sniff Andersen Nexø, Dep. of History, The SAXO Institute, University of Copenhagen, Denmark; Anne Folke Henningsen, University of Copenhagen

Participants:

Simian Bodies in Gothenburg Natural History Museum. Liv Emma Thorsen, Dep. of Culture Studies and Oriental Languages

Displaying and Displacing Knowledge of the Other. Anne Folke Henningsen, University of Copenhagen

Discreet performances. How glass matters to embryo specimen. Sniff Andersen Nexø, Dep. of History, The SAXO Institute, University of Copenhagen, Denmark

Producing nature through glass cases. Brita Brenna, Centre for Museum Studies, University of Oslo

Truth Spots by Design. Tom Gieryn, Indiana University; Kathleen Oberlin, Indiana University

077. Technologies of subjective space

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP205

Chair: Morten Nissen, Dept of Psychology, University of Copenhagen

Participants:

Space as Machine and Ideological Index in Social Work. Mads Bank, Department of Psychology, University of Copenhagen; Morten Nissen, Dept of Psychology, University of Copenhagen

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Emplaced Standards/Subjects: Bridging Theory and Methodology in Media-Technological Intervention. Stephan Sieland, Department of Psychology, University of Copenhagen

Self and Other in Digital Learning Spaces. Ernst Schraube, Roskilde University

Health, Illness and Biosocial platforms. Paula Gonçalves da Silva, Faculty of Medicine of Porto University/ Institute of Molecular Pathology and Immunology of the University of Porto (FMUP/IPA-TIMUP); Joao Arriscado Nunes, CES University of Coimbra; Rui Mota Cardoso, Faculty of Medicine of the University of Porto/ Institute of Pathology and Immunology of the University of Porto (FMUP/IPA-TIMUP)

078. (01) Clinical research in post-genomic medicine - III

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP207

Chairs: Alberto Cambrosio, McGill University; Peter Keating, University of Quebec, Montreal

Participants:

Multiple Scientometric Perspectives on Medical Innovation: Using the Medical Subject Headings (MeSH) of PubMed in the case of "RNA Interference". Loet Leydesdorff, University of Amsterdam; Daniele Rotolo, SPRU-Science and Technology Policy Research, University of Sussex; Ismael Rafols, University of Sussex

The Emergence Of New Technologies: A Multi-Perspective Analysis on The Case of HPV Molecular Diagnostics. Daniele Rotolo, SPRU-Science and Technology Policy Research, University of Sussex; Michael M Hopkins, SPRU - Science and Technology Policy Research University of Sussex; Ismael Rafols, University of Sussex

Anticipating promises of personalized genomics in research and clinical care. Jennifer Fishman, McGill University; Michelle McGowan, Case Western Reserve University

Risk Genomics and the Pharmacogenomic Enterprise: Personalized Medicine in Research and Clinical Practice. Ramya Rajagopalan, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Systems Biology: When is Scientific Vision Immoral? Sophia Efsthathiou, Norwegian University of Science and Technology; Rune Nydal, Department of Philosophy. Norwegian university of science and technology

079. (02) Establishing expert knowledge: local work in clinical trials sessions - I

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP208

Chair: Sarah Wadmann, University of Copenhagen

Participants:

Clinical trials as gift relationships. Heta Tarkkala, University of Helsinki

Closeness and distance: Emotion management in clinical drug testing. Sarah Wadmann, University of Copenhagen

Unruly experiments: stem cell therapy, clinical trials and the (limits of) regulatory knowledge. Christian Haddad, University of Vienna

Transits, regulation and mattering in the Global-south: The production of Human Papillomavirus (HPV) vaccination policies. Oscar Javier Maldonado Castañeda, Lancaster University

Designing a Sociocultural Assemblage for Clinically Evaluating Yao in Australia. Rey Calingo Tiquia, The University of Melbourne

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

080. Private property in the public interest? Patent politics in comparative and historical perspective

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP210

Chair: Shobita Parthasarathy, University of Michigan

Participants:

The United States Patent Office and the Politics of Life: A Historical View. Kara Swanson, Northeastern University School of Law

Producing Participation in US and European Debates about Life Form Patents. Shobita Parthasarathy, University of Michigan

Access to medicines, the right to health, and intellectual property in South Africa. Manjari Mahajan, New School University

Intellectual property, pharmaceuticals, and questions of sovereignty. Kaushik Sunder Rajan, University of Chicago

081. (83) Studio studies & creative production - I

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP212

Chair: Alex Wilkie, Goldsmiths, University of London

Participants:

Off the studio. Accounting for sensible practices within the engineering processes of a design chair in Italy. Alvise Mattozzi, Free University of Bozen; Laura Lucia Parolin, Milano Bicocca University

Collective Bodies: Theorizing the Positions of the Glassblowing Team from the Dispositions of Practice. Erin Elizabeth O'Connor, Marymount Manhattan College

Creative Collision: Designers, Test-Persons and Artefacts in the Lab. Julian Stubbe, TU Berlin

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Propagating experimental idioms with a networked laptop orchestra. Patrick Valiquet, University of Oxford

082. (81) Expectations and innovative technologies - III

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP213

Chair: Alan Robert Petersen, Monash University

Participants:

The Expectations Role on Nanotechnology Development. Rui Vieira Cruz, University of Minho

Dream of Pure Science: The Meaning of Expectations in Nanobiology. Aiko Hibino, Hirosaki University; Masato Fukushima, The University of Tokyo

The ethical implications of expectations: A case of stem cell treatments in India. Shashank Shekhar Tiwari, Institute for Science and Society, University of Nottingham

Marketing hope: the dynamics of expectation in relation to stem cell treatments. Alan Robert Petersen, Monash University; Megan Munsie, Stem Cells Australia

083. (48) Design challenges of working and organizing in technologically dense environments - I

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP214

Chairs: Enrico Attila Bruni, Dept. of Sociology and Social Research - University of Trento (IT); Cornelius Schubert, TU Berlin

Participants:

Coding is newsmaking! How programmers fit into Chicago Tribune's newsroom. Sylvain Parasie, Université Paris Est / Marne-la-Vallée Business

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Intelligence as Strategizing Practice: Narratives and Experiences. Ravi Dar, Department of Business Studies, Uppsala University, Sweden

The role of ICT-supporters as mediators and instigators of designs and order in clinical practices ... and how they sometimes fail. Lone Stub Petersen, Department of Development and Planning, Aalborg University

Transforming knowledge across domains in the temporary development spaces. Louise Brønnum, Aalborg University Copenhagen; Christian Clausen, DTU Management

Complex working environments and the human-robot interaction: challenges for the design of work organisation. António Brandão Moniz, Universidade Nova de Lisboa and Karlsruhe Institute of Technology; Maria João Maia, Universidade Nova de Lisboa-FCT; Eva Zschieschang, Karlsruhe Institute of Technology-ITAS

084. (57) New orientations in risk management practices: designing nature and society anew?

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP216

Chairs: Joana Guerrin, IRSTEA (France); Anna J Wesselink, University of Leeds; Christelle Gramaglia, Research in sociology, UMR GEAU - Cemagref Montpellier

Participants:

Tornado Alley Versus Dixie Alley: The Problematicization of Tornado Risk in Meteorology. Jennifer J Henderson, Virginia Tech What Science

Doesn't Know Can't Hurt Us. Graham Lucas, University of Newcastle Australia

Living with floods: between technological panacea and political disaster. Joana Guerrin, IRSTEA (France)

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

In what (other) world do we want to live together? Jim Dratwa, European Commission, Facultés universitaires Saint-Louis, Brussels

o85. Uncertainty trumps? Science and contested authority.

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPso1

Chairs: Hedwig te Molder, University of Twente & Wageningen University; Rob Hagendijk, Universiteit van Amsterdam

Participants:

An Inside Job? Contesting Business School Research. Alan Irwin, Copenhagen Business School

Uncertainty Trumps and Traps. The risky paths toward democratization of scientific advice. Pierre-Benoît Joly, INRA

The public authority of science: erosion and resilience. Rob Hagendijk, Universiteit van Amsterdam

Identity work, and the public credibility of scientific experts. Erwin van Rijswoud, University of Twente

"Contested "Science"? Reconstructing Pandora's Box.. Brian Wynne, University of Lancaster

Discussants: Huub Dijkstra, University of Amsterdam Stephen Hilgartner, Cornell University

o86. (103) Risk, regulation and ethics - III

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPso3

Chairs: Luigi Pellizzoni, University of Trieste, Italy; Marja Ylönen, University of Jyväskylä

Participants:

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

'A deviation from standard design': regulatory organizations, misconduct and the TGN1412 trial. Adam Michael Hedgecoe, Cesagen, Cardiff University

Unethical Science for Policy in the Environmental Governance of Agricultural Biotechnology. Fern Wickson, GenØk Centre for Biosafety; Brian Wynne, University of Lancaster

Post-Fukushima: nuclear safety regulation and the challenge of recognition. Marja Ylönen, University of Jyväskylä

Global Disparity on the 'Risks' of Technology. Jung-Ok Ha, Seoul National University

o87. (93) Neuroscience as a science of the social? - III

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPso5

Chairs: Svenja Matusall, ETH Zurich; Johannes Bruder, eikones NCCR Iconic Criticism

Participants:

Good Brains, Bad Brains: Historical and Contemporary Perspectives on the Neuroscience of Morality. Felix Schirrmann, Faculty of Behavioral and Social Sciences, University of Groningen, The Netherlands

Ethnomethodology and neuroeconomics on what keeps society together. A case-study in comparative epistemology. Pim Klaassen, University of Amsterdam, Department of Philosophy

Sociology, neuroscience, and the study of thick moral concepts. Ruben Flores, Higher School of Economics

Toward a Social Ecology of Brain and Mind. Sal Restivo, Independent Scholar

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

o88. Designing Society, socializing design – an enquiry on the performative relationship between ANT and Design - I

2:00 to 3:30 pm

*Solbjerg Plads: SPso7Chairs: Cristiano Storni, Interaction Design Centre; Tommaso Venturini, MediaLab, Sciences Po, Paris, FranceParticipants:*Designing Controversies: How design has been socialized and why sociology should be designed. Tommaso Venturini, MediaLab, Sciences Po, Paris, FranceReturning the challenge: Designarily ways of doing ANT. Pelle Ehn, School of Arts and Communication, Malmö University, SwedenConstructing the world - betraying constructivism? Peter Danholt, Information studies/Dept. of Aesthetics and Communication, Aarhus University, DenmarkDesign interventions as a form of inquiry. Joachim Halse, The Royal Danish Academy of Fine Arts, School of Designo89. (32) Environmental infrastructures: STS's anthropology of nature-cultures - III: Indigenous Knowledge

Solbjerg Plads: SPso8Chairs: Atsuro Morita, Osaka University; Anders Blok, Copenhagen University; Brit Ross Winthereik, IT University of Copenhagen; Casper Bruun Jensen, IT University of CopenhagenParticipants:"Propane ate Mushroom": Knowledge translation in the forest revitalization movement. Shiho Satsuka, Rachel Carson Center, LMU/Anthropology, University of Toronto

(72) (Re)designing public engagement: innovation in practice and analysis - III

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs16

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Chair: Gretchen L Gano, Arizona State University

Participants:

Seeking meaningful continuities for public engagement in urban planning. Helena Leino, University of Tampere, School of Management, Finland

Engaging publics even if “they don’t care”? The case of public lighting. Nona Schulte-Römer, WZB

Multimodal narratives in urban development. Jarkko Bamberg, University of Tampere; Pauliina Lehtonen, University of Tampere

Urban planners on the move. Peter Munthe-Kaas, DTU MAN; Birgitte Hoffmann, DTU MAN

Dutch public flood safety engagement beyond the myth of dry feet. WATERWORKS Heems & Kothuis, Maastricht University/TU Delft

095. Governing the food-health nexus: Practices and materialities - II

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: D.2.20

Chair: David Schleifer, Columbia University

Participants:

What counts as a blueberry? David Schleifer, Columbia University; Michaela Desoucey, Princeton University

Food Fight: Unpacking Dietary Credibility. Bart Penders, Radboud University Nijmegen

Designing the “Food Code”: The Codex alimentarius. Brigit Ram-singh, University of Toronto

Slow Food: the geographical becoming of a new social movement. Stefan Dormans, Radboud University Nijmegen; Bas Hendrikx, Radboud University Nijmegen; Arnoud Lagendijk, Radboud University Nijmegen

Discussants: Xaq Frohlich, Independent Researcher; Bart Penders, Radboud University Nijmegen

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

096. (39 + 44) Temporal practices and socio-digital organizing + Universal design and ambient living

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: D4 Aug

Chairs: Ingrid Erickson, Rutgers University; Maxine Saborowski, Alice Salomon University of Applied Sciences Berlin

Participants:

Reshaping the Day: smartphones and the renegotiation of temporal practices. Martin Hand, Queen’s University

“Sent from my iPhone”: Blurring boundaries in the work/home-place. Rebecca Whittle, Lancaster University; Rebecca Ellis, Lancaster University; Ian Marshall, Lancaster University; Paul Alcock, Lancaster University; David Hutchison, Lancaster University; Andreas Mauthe, Lancaster University

Design, Cultural Background and Methodological Approaches in the Integration of AAL and Robotics. An Intercultural Comparison between Europe and Japan. Gregor Fitzi, University Oldenburg (Ge). Institute of Sociology; Gesa Lindemann, University Oldenburg (Ge). Institute of Sociology; Hironori Matsuzaki, Carl von Ossietzky University of Oldenburg, Institute for Social Sciences

Exploring old and new media: Comparing military blogs to Civil War letters. Seth Shapiro, Cornell University; Lee Humphreys, Cornell University

097. (61) New media, digital identities and trans-formations of surveillance - II

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Kilen: K143

Chair: Jason Pridmore, Zuyd University

Participants:

Sign on surveillance: Third party site mediation and social media. Jason Pridmore, Zuyd University

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Participatory surveillance in the Rotterdam Nightscape. Tjerk Timan, University of Twente

Privacy protection: Taking advantage of false or ambiguous information. Arisa Ema, University of Tokyo

Mapping practices of construction and destruction. Louise Nørgaard Glud, Aarhus University, Institute for Esthetics and Communication

Social spaces: understanding location sharing. Anders Albrecht-slund, Aarhus University

098. Taking stock of CCS in times of low expectations - II

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Kilen: K146

Chair: Benjamin Evar, University of Edinburgh

Participants:

Understanding institutions in CCS: Two case studies in Finland. Arho Toikka, University of Helsinki

Stakeholder perceptions on carbon capture and storage technologies in Finland. Laura Kainiemi, Aalto University, Finland; Carl-Johan Fogelholm, Aalto University, Finland

Upscaling capture technologies: Lessons from FGD and industrial gas turbines. Nils Markusson, University of Edinburgh

Mapping the social study of CCS. Olaf Corry, Open University

The neglected side of engagement: the role of project developers. Sylvia Breukers, Researcher; Paul Upham, University of Leeds; Mariette Pol, Energy research Center of the Netherlands, the Netherlands

099. (41) The politics of algorithms - II

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Kilen: K150

Participants:

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

How Associational Algorithms Do Public Work. Mike Ananny, Microsoft Research / Harvard University

Assessing the role of algorithms as autopoietic tools of governance. Jacob Oermen, University of Copenhagen

Threshold of visibility: on the politics of appearing and disappearing on News Feed. Taina Bucher, University of Oslo

In search of the algorithm: Exploring the practical politics of Search Engine Optimization (SEO). Malte Ziewitz, University of Oxford

Toward a Sociology of Algorithms; the Case of "Spreading Santorum." Tarleton Lee Gillespie, Cornell University

100. Roundtable STS Africa

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Kilen: K275

Chairs: Norman Schräpel, Institute of Anthropology and Philosophy, MLU Halle-Wittenberg; Richard Rottenburg, MPI Social Anthropology/University of Halle

101. (37) Design and displacement in energy system transitions: pasts, futures and presents - IV

4:00 to 5:30 pm Kilen: Ks43

Chair: Catherine Butler, Cardiff University

Participants:

Role of public policies in the future 'designs' of the transport system – barriers and opportunities for system change. Paula Elina Kivimaa, Finnish Environment Institute; Venla Virkamäki, Finnish Environment Institute; Paul Upham, University of Leeds

Uncertain Transitions and Transitional Uncertainties in the Making: The case of the UK natural gas network, c. 1940-2010. Stathis Arapostathis, University of Athens

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Energy poverty and the co-evolution of liberalization and institutional change. Thomas Berger, Inter-University Research Centre for Technology, Work and Culture (IFZ)

Engineering Economics: The Role of Engineers in Electricity Markets. Canay Ozden, MIT

102. (45) Feminist theory, values & ICT design - II

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Kilen: Ks48

Chairs: Corinna Bath, Technical University Berlin; Judith Simon, Karlsruhe Institute of Technology

Participants:

Gender and Computing: A Case Study of Women in India. Roli Varma, University of New Mexico

The African women's organizations IT paradox: towards an epistemic change. Joelle Palmieri, Les Afriques dans le Monde

Doing Design Work: Double Participation and Feminist Values. Alison Marlin, University of Melbourne

Trapped in gender? Challenges in research on Computer science's gender gap. Anna Vitores, Centre for Science Studies, Lancaster University

103. (28) Responsible and sustainable innovation: differences, similarities and relevance for STS - II

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Kilen: Ks54

Chairs: Jaco Quist, Delft University of Technology; Harro Van Lente, University Utrecht; Ellen Moors, Innovation Studies, Copernicus Institute, Utrecht University, NL; Ipo van de Poel, Delft University of Technology

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Participants:

Acceptability of sustainable and responsible innovations: From public acceptance to co-production. Eefje Cuppen, TU Delft; Olga Di Ruggero, TU Delft; Anne Lorene Vernay, Delft University of Technology

A "nudge" towards better behaviour? The limitations of individual choice models. Isabel Fletcher, ESRC Innogen Centre, University of Edinburgh

Designing Dynamic Consent Mechanisms in ICTs: Lessons in User Engagement and Notification. Nadja K. Kanellopoulou, University of Oxford

Designing Sustainability. Alan Glen Murray, University of Edinburgh

104. (33) Investigating environmental science and technology

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Kilen: Ground floor - Ks71

Chair: Catharina Landstrom, University of East Anglia

Participants:

Green tricksters: how do we deal with the volatility of criteria for sustainability? Tomas Moe Skjølsvold, Norwegian University of Science and Technology

Social representations of alternative pest management approaches in agriculture. Elisabeth Gauthier, Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada; Gale E. West, Laval University; Anne-Marie Handfield, Université du Québec à Montréal

The Unbearable Lightness of Air: a case of citizen's management of odorous environment. François Mélard, Université de Liège

Experiments in environmental STS. Catharina Landstrom, University of East Anglia

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

105. (43) Childhood, values, and digitisation - II

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP112

Chairs: Irma van der Ploeg, Zuyd University; Isolde Sprenkels, Zuyd University

Participants:

Online sociability: children, technology and interaction. Ana Delicado, Institute of Social Sciences Univ Lisbon; Nuno Almeida Alves, CIES-ISCTE-IUL

The Janus Face of Dutch Media Literacy Initiatives Concerning 'Kidsmarketing'. Isolde Sprenkels, Zuyd University

Digital games in the Norwegian educational discourse. Kristine Ask, Norwegian University of Science and Technology; Lars Skancke, Norwegian University of Science and Technology

Kindergarten children's digitized conduct of everyday life. Niklas A Chimirri, Roskilde University

106. Postphenomenological research: philosophical implications

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP113

Chair: Peter-Paul Verbeek, University of Twente

Participants:

Techno-anthropology. Hybridizations and in betweenness. Lars Botin, Aalborg University

Is intentionality sufficient for explaining technology acceptance? Hongxiu Yan, Shanghai Jiao Tong University

Mediated Minds: towards an experimental phenomenology. Shoji Nagataki, International Liberal Studies, Chukyo University

A postphenomenology of time. Fernando Flores, Lund University

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

107. Governance of science: integrating policy, funding, steering, organization and practice

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP114

Chair: Aant Elzinga, University of Gothenburg

Participants:

Who Governs Strategic Research Funding? Institutional Dynamics and Research Funding Practice in the Knowledge Foundation. Daniel Holmberg, Lund University; Mats Benner, Lund University

The impact of evaluations on developments in academic careers: Concepts, research strategy and initial findings in the UK. Frank van der Most, e-Humanities Group / DANS, KNAW

The genesis and evolution of research groups in academia – exploiting opportunities and counterbalancing constraints. Olof Hallonsten, Lund University

Between Vision and Reality: Co-production as research policy buzzword and messy practice. Josefine Hjelteig Fischer, Lund University

108. Agnotology as research program and theoretical problem

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP205

Chair: Philip Mirowski, University of Notre Dame

Participants:

The Origins of Pharmaceutical Agnotology. Edward Nik-Khah, Duke University and Roanoke College

"The co-production of negative boundary objects in the H5N1 debate". Samuel Evans, Harvard University

As Long as they Keep Paying Us, We Must Be Right: Economists and Agnotology in the Economic Crisis. Philip Mirowski, University of Notre Dame

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

109. Infrastructure and displacement: Reordering information and classification

4:00 to 5:30 pm

*Solbjerg Plads: SP207Chair: Lorna Heaton, Université de MontréalParticipants:*Making the Cycling City Visible. Classifying urban facilities in a volunteered geographic information environment. Jerome Denis, Telecom ParisTech; David Pontille, CNRSThe Pragmatics of Rare Disease Classification: Infrastructure, practice and meaning. Eric Dagiral, LATTs, université Paris-Est Marne-la-Vallée / Catholic University of Paris; Ashveen Peerbaye, Université Paris-Est Marne-la-ValléeReshaping a Botanical Database: Dis-placing and re-placing the lines between amateurs and scientists. Florence Millerand, Université du Québec à Montréal; Lorna Heaton, Université de MontréalThe validation of lay knowledge: amateur field biology and archaeology. Willem Halffman, Philosophy and Science Studies, Radboud University Nijmegen110. (02) Establishing expert knowledge: local work in clinical trials sessions - II

*Solbjerg Plads: SP208Chair: Sarah Wadmann, University of CopenhagenParticipants:*Clinical Trials and the Deployment of Evidence in Acupuncture and Christian Science Healing. Kellie Owens, Northwestern UniversityMultiplicity (and times) of a biomedical object – the aging erythrocyte. Maria Strecht Almeida, ICBAS, University of Porto

Translating Bioscience: An ethnography of value. Anne Kerr, University of LeedsJudging the Medics' Science: Research Misconduct in UK Medical Disciplinary Proceedings since 1990. Marie-Andree Jacob, Keele University111. (83) Studio studies & creative production - II

4:00 to 5:30 pm

*Solbjerg Plads: SP212Chair: Alex Wilkie, Goldsmiths, University of LondonParticipants:*Perfume-making: The studio as a site of scientific practice and creative production. Claus Noppeney, Bern University of Applied Sciences; Nada Endrissat, Bern University of Applied SciencesEpistemic dissonance: how do architects come up with alternatives. Ignacio Farias, Social Science Research Center BerlinMaking Studio Practice Public: Assembling a DigiLab through Case Studying Virtual Research Inscriptions. Amanda Nita Windle, University of the Arts, LondonThe cultural (dis)empowerment as shaped in research on algorithms for image processing. Dominique Vinck, University of Lausanne112. Science at the baseline: Consequences of calibration and comparison in 20th century bioscience

*Solbjerg Plads: SP213Chair: Susanne Bauer, Goethe University FrankfurtParticipants:*Locating the Baseline: Calibrating Fallout Effects during the Cold War. Susanne Bauer, Goethe University Frankfurt

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Embodying the Baseline: Taking Stock of “Naïve” Bodies in Cold War Human Biology and Contemporary Biomedicine. Joanna Radin, Yale University

Floating nature: beyond the baseline in biodiversity conservation. Etienne Benson, Max Planck Institute for the History of Science

Establishing a Baseline at the Lab-Field Border: Inside the Medical Tent of the 2006 Comrades Marathon. Andi Johnson, University of Pennsylvania

Discussant: Geoffrey Bowker, University of California-Irvine

113. (48) Design challenges of working and organizing in technologically dense environments - II

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP214

Chairs: Enrico Attila Bruni, Dept. of Sociology and Social Research - University of Trento (IT); Cornelius Schubert, TU Berlin

Participants:

Heterogeneous density in Italian Science and Technology Parks. Michela Cozza, University of Trento-Dep. of Sociology and Social Research

On the fly: performing medical simulation in and through its double design. Philippe Björn Sormani, University of Vienna

Standards as organizing principles of innovation: theoretical reflections on a contradictory relation. Imme Petersen, University of Hamburg

The work, bodies and routines of a new bike. Mette Mogensen, CBS, Management Politics and Philosophy

114. Uncertainty trumps? Science and contested authority - II

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs01

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Chair: Rob Hagendijk, Universiteit van Amsterdam

Participants:

Schizophrenia genetics online: Spaces of contestation. Sally Wyatt, Maastricht University; Susan E. Kelly, University of Exeter; Anna Harris, University of Exeter

Partial contestations: Citizens' counter-narratives in assessing new technologies. Ulrike Felt, University of Vienna

Contesting Science as (Re)claiming Epistemic Ownership. Hedwig te Molder, University of Twente & Wageningen University

Science and the Struggle for Public Meaning. Sheila Jasanoff, Harvard University

Making sense of the shots; vaccine 'conversions' as accounts of odd events. Wytske Versteeg, Universiteit Twente

Discussant: Stephen Hilgartner, Cornell University

115. Generating methods: The device in/as social research

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs03

Chairs: Noortje S Marres, Goldsmiths, University of London; Nina Wakeford, Goldsmiths

Participants:

On Controversy Analysis as a Digital Method (Or, the Co-word Machine). Noortje S Marres, Goldsmiths, University of London

Moving, mixing and mediating census data. Evelyn Ruppert, Open University

Frederick's Sandbox: From Psychotherapy and Strategy to an STS-Disaster Simulation Device. Michael Guggenheim, Goldsmiths, University of London; Judith Kröll, University of Vienna & Shared Inc.; Bernd Kraeftner, University of Applied Arts & Shared Inc.

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Devices all the way down: the social in biological computation.

Alex S Taylor, Microsoft Research; Caitlin Cockerton, BIOS, London School of Economics and Political Science

Tuning In: Atmosphere as Device. Nina Wakeford, Goldsmiths, University of London

116. Designing Society, socializing design – an enquiry on the performative relationship between ANT and Design - II

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs07

Chairs: Cristiano Storni, Interaction Design Centre; Tommaso Venturini, MediaLab, Sciences Po, Paris, France

Participants:

Understanding the materiality of designing in the management context. Nina Terrey, University of Canberra Australia

Design AND ant: notes on performative associations. Cristiano Storni, Interaction Design Center

The Organic Imagination; Living Models, Model Living. Adam Jacob Levin, University at Buffalo

117. (32) Environmental infrastructures: STS's anthropology of nature-cultures - IV: Standardization

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs08

Chairs: Atsuro Morita, Osaka University; Anders Blok, Copenhagen University; Brit Ross Winthereik, IT University of Copenhagen; Casper Bruun Jensen, IT University of Copenhagen

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Participants:

Re-enchanting the world: Biodynamic farming as a cosmic technology. Ask Greve Jørgensen, University of Copenhagen

Considering the future of Globalization from the standpoint of the Inuit Indigenous Movement. Keiichi Omura, Osaka University

Surveys and statistics, sightings and stories: Knowing and managing wildlife as demographic and biographic. Stephanie Lavau, University of Exeter

Managing "Environmental Infrastructures". Ingmar Lippert, Augsburg University
Saga of the Orkney Islands Electron. Laura Watts, IT University of Copenhagen

118. (18) Bio-objects and bio-objectification - III

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs12

Chair: Conor Douglas, VU University Medical Center Amsterdam

Participants:

Deferred Fertility: Private Oocyte Banking. Catherine Waldbay, University of Sydney

Vital fluids: the generative dialectics and procreant contradictions of blood. Nik Brown, University of York

Performing the bioeconomy: reproductive medicine, genetic testing and neoliberalism. Vincenzo Pavone, CSIC - Consejo Superior Investigaciones Científicas

The Bio-objectification of Gender in Insurance: Governing Difference, Equality, and Solidarity in EU Bio-economies. Lisa Michelle Rebert, Maastricht University, Department of Health Ethics and Society; Ine Van Hoyweghen, Maastricht University, Department of Health Ethics and Society

Can We Already Write a History of the Bio-Object? Bettina Bock von Wülffingen, Humboldt Universität zu Berlin

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

119. (65) Political devices - II

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs13

Chair: Jan-Peter Voss, Technische Universität BerlinParticipants:*The Politics of Objectivity. Arlena Jung, Social Science Research Center BerlinExploring experts-policy making liaison through conceptual artifacts. Chiara Carrozza, Centro de Estudos Sociais, University of Coimbra (PT)Governmental guidelines: Inside the Jurassic Park of governmental policy tools. Rolf Andreas Markussen, Narvik University College, NorwayPolitical Devices & Transnational Assemblages. Alejandro Esguerra, Berlin Graduate School for Transnational Studies, Free University Berlin; Daisuke Naito, Research Institute for Humanity and Nature, Kyoto, JapanPolitics of Graduated Response: The Making of Copyright Enforcement on the Internet. Andreas Kuehn, Syracuse University; Milton Mueller, Syracuse University120. Promises and perils of sensor networks

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs14

Chair: Jillian C Wallis, University of California, Los AngelesParticipants:*Increasing the Odds in Opportunistic Science. Jillian C Wallis, University of California, Los AngelesIn a World of Representations: the Pragmatism of Performativity.

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Eric Monteiro, Department of Informatics, University of Oslo

"We'll Meet the Meat": Food Safety, Sensors, and the Internet of Things. Scout Calvert, University of California, IrvineTemporalities of Mobility: When to assemble a sensor network and when to assemble a network of data. Laura Wynholds, Information Studies Dept., University of California, Los AngelesDiscussant: Christine L Borgman, University of California, Los Angeles

A decorative graphic consisting of a dense field of white dots of varying sizes, arranged in a pattern that tapers from the left side towards the right, set against a solid blue background.

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

123. Reenvisioning/redesigning engineering education + Contemporary issues and the normative dimension of engineering education

9:00 to 10:30 am

*Solbjerg Plads: D.2.20Chairs: Gary Downey, Virginia Tech; Aalok Khandekar, Maastricht UniversityParticipants:*Legitimizing engineering technology education: Winston Purvine and the ASEE, 1946-1977. Mark Clark, Oregon Institute of Technology'Learning by Doing': Cal Poly's evolving vision for practical training in engineering education. Atsushi Akeru, Rensselaer Polytechnic InstituteSubjective vs. objective: the problem of the IIT Joint Entrance Examination. Shreeharsh Kelkar, MITInto the wild? Effects of gender equality politics on gender studies ethnographic field work in engineering education cultures. Tanja M. Paulitz, University of Graz; Susanne Kink, Queer STS - IFZ Graz; Bianca Prietl, University of GrazDiscussants: Amy E. Slaton, Drexel University; Park Doing, Cornell124. Deliberating Nordic science, reconfiguring Nordic democracy - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

*Solbjerg Plads: D.4.39Chairs: Alison Cool, New York University; Amelie Hoshor, University of GothenburgParticipants:*Swedish consensus politics: between technocracy and public participation. Alison Cool, New York University; Amelie Hoshor, University of Gothenburg

Public trust in biomedical research in Nordic welfare society: A historical and sociological analysis. Karoliina Snell, University of HelsinkiGenetic debate in Iceland – the politics of 'biovalue'. Stefán Hjörleifsson, University of Bergen'Managementality' and the displacement of democratic capitalism in Norway. Emil Røyrvik, SINTEF Technology and Society Work Research, Norwegian University of Science and TechnologyDiscussant: Juha Tuunainen, University of Helsinki125. (53) The day after Fukushima - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

*Solbjerg Plads: D4 AugChairs: Fabienne Crettaz von Roten, Observatoire Science, Politique et Société, University of Lausanne; Niels Mejlgaard, Aarhus UniversityParticipants:*The Gallic Village? Identity projects and Austrian responses to Fukushima. Nicole Kronberger, Johannes Kepler UniversityReconsideration of Modern Rationalism and Technological Versatile Principle after FUKUSHIMA. Tetsu Ueno, Oyama National College of TechnologyImpact of Fukushima in Switzerland: media coverage, public opinion and electoral behavior. Fabienne Crettaz von Roten, Observatoire Science, Politique et Société, University of LausanneNotes from the debris field: participatory recovery planning in Tohoku. Tyson Vaughan, Cornell University126. (96) In search of "lines of flights" in/for/to/ from Latin America - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Kilen: K143

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Chair: Ivan da Costa Marques, Universidade Federal do Rio de Janeiro

Participants:

Agricultural biotechnology and seed companies in Argentina: unintended consequences of the commercialization of science. Ana Maria Vara, Universidad Nacional de San Martin; Federico Vasen, Universidad de Quilmes; Agustin Piaz, Universidad Nacional de San Martin

Agrobiotechnology versus Agroecology: the role of women in Brazil and the potential for epistemic and sociotechnical contestation. Márcia Maria Tait Lima, Universidade Estadual de Campinas - UNICAMP/Brazil; Vanessa Maria Brito de Jesus, Universidade Estadual de Campinas - UNICAMP/Brazil; Renato Peixoto Dagnino, Universidade Estadual de Campinas - UNICAMP/Brazil

The cultural context of “superfood”: Açaí in Brazil and Hawaii. Ivone Manzali de Sá, National Museum of Rio de Janeiro/UFRJ; University of Hawaii

The Story of AR in Mexico: The Birth of an Industry. Sandra P. Gonzalez-Santos, Universidad Nacional Autonoma de Mexico, Instituto de Investigaciones Filosoficas

127. Models and modelling - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Kilen: K146

Chair: Mette N Svendsen, University of Copenhagen

Participants:

Thinking through generic preterm biology. Mette N Svendsen, University of Copenhagen

Modeling the Human Through Animal Proxies in Experimental Laboratory Science. Sharp Lesley A., Barnard College, Columbia University

How to assemble a monogamous rodent. Promiscuity, paternal care and other model behaviour in the biography of the Microtus

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

ochrogaster. Nicholas Stücklin, Laboratoire de sociologie, Université de Lausanne

Encountering pig patients and pig personalities. Vibeke Pihl, University of Copenhagen

Modelling Kinship: Donor Siblings, Genetic Relations and Family Life Online. Carrie Frieze, London School of Economics and Political Science

Discussants: Andreas Roepstorff, CFIN; Jacob Metcalf, University of California, Santa Cruz

128. Sound studies: Technology and displacements

9:00 to 10:30 am

Kilen: K150

Chair: Joseph Michael Guisti, Northwestern University

Participants:

Bending/Hacking/Breaking: The politics of figuring out how stuff works. Joseph Michael Guisti, Northwestern University

Indirect users and digital audio technologies. Eliot Bates, Cornell University

Hearing Taste: Computer Audition and Automatic Recommendation. Nicholas Seaver, University of California, Irvine

Sound, Music, and Techno-aesthetic Value in Experimental Musical Instruments. Lauren Flood, Columbia University

Found in translation: How music experts turn sound into evidence in the courtroom. Michael S Mopas, Carleton University; Amelia Curran, Carleton University

Discussant: Trevor Pinch, Cornell University

129. (05) Designing global health technologies in the Global South - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Kilen: K543

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Chairs: Norman Schräpel, Institute of Anthropology and Philosophy, MLU Halle-Wittenberg; Richard Rottenburg, MPI Social Anthropology/University of Halle

Participants:

Short Panel Introduction by the Organizers. Norman Schräpel, Institute of Anthropology and Philosophy, MLU Halle-Wittenberg; Richard Rottenburg, MPI Social Anthropology/University of Halle

Counting, Reading, Sensing – The politics of standards and the (re-)shaping of diagnostic space in Uganda. René Umlauf, University of Bayreuth

Innovating tuberculosis diagnostics: Tracing attempts from global to local sites. Nora Engel, Maastricht University

Developing and implementing a new vaccine in sub Saharan Africa. Janice E Graham, Dalhousie University

130. (90) The social life of organization theory - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Kilen: Ks48

Chairs: Signe Vikkelsø, Copenhagen Business School; Karen Boll, Copenhagen Business School; Paul du Gay, Copenhagen Business School

Participants:

How and why did 'task' disappear in organization theory? Signe Vikkelsø, Copenhagen Business School; Paul du Gay, Copenhagen Business School

Organizing core tasks. Karen Boll, Copenhagen Business School

Men and machines. Aligning management and the human factor. Maarten Derksen, University of Groningen

Disciplinary intention: Genesis of a French school of organizational sociology (1960-1970). Alexandre Paulange-Mirovic, Université Paris-Dauphine, Paris

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Leadership development programmes as social technologies coupling organization theory and practice. Morten Knudsen, Department of Organization, CBS

131. (13) STS and the socio-material constitution of later life - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Kilen: Ks54

Chairs: Alexander Peine, Utrecht University; Alex Faulkner, King's College London; Birgit Jaeger, Roskilde University; Ellen Moors, Innovation Studies, Copernicus Institute, Utrecht University, NL

Participants:

Introduction to the Sessions: The Socio-material constitution of later life. Alexander Peine, Utrecht University; Alex Faulkner, King's College London; Birgit Jaeger, Roskilde University; Ellen Moors, Innovation Studies, Copernicus Institute, Utrecht University, NL

Welfare technology innovation and the social constitution of ageing. Lene Otto, University of Copenhagen; Aske Juul Lassen, CEHA, University of Copenhagen; Julie Boennelycke, CEHA, University of Copenhagen

Designing for an imagined user: energy-efficient older-people's housing. Alan Lewis, University of Manchester; Ralf Brand, The University of Manchester

Thermostats and Telecare: tensions between choice and care in technological design for older people. Louis Neven, Utrecht University; Sam Brown, Lancaster University

Active aging with(out) technology at home and beyond. Juan C. Aceros, Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona; Jeannette Pols, Amsterdam Medical Centre; Miquel Domènech, Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

132. (26) Future energy infrastructures: aspects of design and resilience - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

*Kilen: Ground floor - Ks71Chair: Gerhard Fuchs, University of StuttgartParticipants:*Conflicts over the extension of the German power grid. Mario Neukirch, University of Stuttgart Re-designing energy infrastructures: local initiatives in Germany. Nele Hinderer, University of StuttgartGrid Reinforcement for Power System Transformation - Design Controversies and Restrictions. Doerte Ohlhorst, Berlin Free UniversityAdoption of Sustainable Energy Technologies in London. Anne-Marie Coles, Greenwich University Business School; Athena Piterou, Brunel University; Audley Genus, Kingston UniversityReconfiguring international energy trade for a renewable future. Jessica Crivelli, University of Zurich, Institute for International Studies133. (58) STS perspectives on patient safety and quality improvement in health care - I

*Solbjerg Plads: SP112Chairs: Jessica Mesman, Maastricht University; Roland Bal, Erasmus University Rotterdam; Johan M. Sanne, Linköping UniversityParticipants:*Patient safety and organizational learning: With or without experience? Kirstine Zinck Pedersen, Copenhagen Business School, Department of OrganizationFrom observation to learning and improving quality. Annemiek Stoopendaal, phdPatients know better. Narrative learning from patient experiences to improve hospital care. Stans van Egmond, Rathenau Institute;

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Marjolijn Heerings, Rathenau Institute; Anneke M. Sools, University of Twente

Tracing Integration Techniques. Miao Liao, Tsinghua University134. (46) Mediated practice: insights from STS, critical theory and media theory - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

*Solbjerg Plads: SP113Chairs: Anne Beaulieu, University of Groningen; Annamaria Carusi, University of Copenhagen; Aud Sissel Hoel, Department of Art and Media Studies, Norwegian University of Science and Technology; Sarah de Rijcke, Centre for Science and Technology Studies, Leiden UniversityParticipants:*Representing Functional Neuroimaging: An Interdisciplinary Journey through Analysis and Practice. Louise Emma Whiteley, Medical Museion, University of CopenhagenPublic-formatting technologies and their displacement. Andreas Birkbak, University of CopenhagenA Popular Culture Perspective on Stephen Hawking's "A Brief History of Time". Mircea Sava, University of BucharestIf you look like your passport photo, you are too sick to travel: conflicting photography paradigms. Liv Hausken, University of OsloImprinting terror: Kittler, terrorism and the affordances of printing technology. Mats Fridlund, University of Gothenburg & University of Copenhagen135. (79) On the road: journeys of innovations and prospects - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

*Solbjerg Plads: SP114Chair: Kornelia Elke Konrad, University of Twente

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Participants:

Space travel: constructing and contesting a solar photovoltaic (PV) niche in the UK (1970-2012). Adrian Smith, University of Sussex; Florian Kern, University of Sussex; Rob Raven, Eindhoven University of Technology; Bram Verhees, Eindhoven University of Technology

Prospects for solar technology: the role of demonstration projects. Raimo Lovio, Aalto University, Helsinki; Eva Heiskanen, National Consumer Research Centre

Exploring the role of environmental discourses in the twists and turns of innovation journeys. Per-Anders Langendahl, Open University; Matthew Cook, Open-University; Stephen Potter, Open-University

The Trajectory Is on the Map, but We Miss the Pathways. Tommaso Ciarli, SPRU, University of Sussex; Ismael Rafols, University of Sussex; Daniele Rotolo, SPRU-Science and Technology Policy Research, University of Sussex

136. Making science public? Design and displacement in the context of science/public engagement

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SP205

Chair: Sujatha Raman, University of Nottingham

Participants:

Convening Public Science: Regimes of Publicity and the role of STS. Sujatha Raman, University of Nottingham

Latour's 'new collectives' as a radical mode of engagement for making science public. Judith Tsouvalis, Lancaster University

Anticipatory Governance as a form of making science public. David H. Guston, Arizona State University

Exploring the abilities of 'engagement tools' and their users in biofuel research. Robert Smith, University of Nottingham

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

137. (51) Hacking STS: bio-hacking, open hardware development, and hackerspaces - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SP207

Chairs: Johan Söderberg, LATTS/IFRIS ParisTech; Alessandro Delfanti, University of Milan; Eric Deibel, Institut Francilien Recherche Innovation Société (IFRIS-CEPN)

Participants:

Biohacking and the meanings of openness in the life sciences. Alessandro Delfanti, University of Milan

Practicing Science Without a License: DIY-BIO as Feminist Science? Clare Jen, Denison University

Reinventing the device – socio-technical systems in Afghanistan. Melanie Stilz, Dublin City University

Synthetic DNA and Open Source: an alternative to the commodification of life? Eric Deibel, Institut Francilien Recherche Innovation Société (IFRIS-CEPN)

Automating amateurs. Johan Söderberg, LATTS/IFRIS ParisTech

138. (19) A scripted emergence for life? - III

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SP208

Chairs: Rebecca Ellis, Lancaster University; Claire Waterton, Centre for the Study of Environmental Change (CSEC), Department of Sociology, Lancaster University

Participants:

Underground life: Drills, rocks and biological activity. Filippo Bertoni, Universiteit van Amsterdam

Biodiversity soup and sensing ambiguous signs of life. Rebecca Ellis, Lancaster University

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Statistics from the Fringe to the Forefront: Investigating the Molecular Boundaries for Health and Disease. Nadine Levin, Oxford University

Design through displacement: Understanding life in the digital age. Sabina Leonelli, University of Exeter

139. (82) Ethnography of socio-material collaborations - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SP210

Chairs: Katharina E. Kinder, Lancaster University; Petra Ilyes, Goethe University Frankfurt am Main

Participants:

The Field Site as a Tool: Insights in Privacy Protection Mechanisms of OSN Users. Andreas Kramm, Departement of Cultural Anthropology and European Ethnology at Goethe University, Frankfurt am Main; Andreas Poller, Fraunhofer Institute for Secure Information Technology SIT, Darmstadt

Wiki-based Networks and Communities of Practice in Cultural Heritage. dagny stuedahl, InterMedia, University of Oslo; Anders Mørch, University of Oslo

Co-designing an online learning environment. Petra Ilyes, Goethe University Frankfurt am Main

Collaborative Re-Articulations: Ethnography of Information Practices in Educational Research. Christoph Schindler, German Institute for International Educational Research (DIPF)

Keeping Players in the Game. Mediations and Management of Heterogeneity in the Users-Producers Relationship. Vinciane Zabban, LATTS - Paris Est University

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

140. (86) Displacement and classification

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SP212

Chairs: Daniel Bischur, University of Trier, Germany; Stefan Nicolae, University of Trier

Participants:

A praxiography on the making of pre-trial psychiatric reports. Hilde Tjeerdema, Rijksuniversiteit Groningen

Becoming a 'pre-symptomatic' patient. Tabea Eißing, Sociology

Displaced Legitimacy - pain and practices in health care action. Lena Eriksson, University of Gothenburg; Kyra Landzelius, LIME, Karolinska Institutet

The medical expertise of patients' complaints lodged within the mechanism for out-of-court settlements created by the French law (4/03/2002). Using classificatory tools and being a classificatory practice ? Winance Myriam, INSERM; Barbot Janine, INSERM; Parizot Isabelle, CNRS

Constructing the Market for Traditional Medicine in Burkina Faso: Transitions and Continuity in Practices of Displacement. Natewinde Sawadogo, The University of Nottingham

141. (38) Energy, practice and personal lives: design and displacement in the everyday - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SP213

Chair: Catherine Butler, Cardiff University

Participants:

Stacking wood and staying warm: The rhythms of domestic wood-based heating practices. Jenny Rinkinen, Aalto University School of Economics; Mikko Jalas, Aalto University School of Economics

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Energy Consumption, Biography and Self Design. Karen Henwood, Cardiff University; Catherine Butler, Cardiff University; Karen Parkhill, Cardiff University; Fiona Shirani, Cardiff University; Nick Pidgeon, Cardiff University; Tom Roberts, Kingston University; Kevin Burchell, Kingston University

Energy Autonomy: The Example of a bioenergy village in Southern Germany. Franziska Sperling, University of Frankfurt

The Social Life of Energy. Tom Roberts, Kingston University; Kevin Burchell, Kingston University

142. (59) "This planet is doomed": on the entanglements of science fiction and technoscientific artifacts - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SP214

Chair: Michael Bennett, Northeastern University School of Law

Participants:

A design for living : metaleptic devices and trends of gnostic imagination in contemporary science-fiction. Frederic Claisse, University of Liège

Open Futures: From Monopoly to Engagement. Robert Dingwall, Dingwall Enterprises; Murray Goulden, University of Nottingham; Stuart Reeves, University of Nottingham

New Hope for the Dead: Changing Visions of Apocalypse in Science Fiction Cinema. Langdon Winner, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute

Epic facts. The rhetoric of evolution in Weimar school books. Constance Sommerer, Maastricht University

143. (85) Unruly matters - the queer side of things - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SP216

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Chairs: Sebastian Mohr, Centre for Medical Science and Technology Studies, University of Copenhagen; Marie-Louise Holm, Tema Genus, Linköpings universitet

Participants:

STS and Sexuality: Why the silence? Georgina Voss, Faculty of Arts, University of Brighton; Simon Jay Lock, UCL

Mobile Flirting in "Gay- Smartphone- Partnerships". Thomas Josef Heid, Ludwig- Maximilians- University Munich (LMU)

The queer seed - Explorations of the mattering of sperm. Sebastian Mohr, Centre for Medical Science and Technology Studies, University of Copenhagen

Queer ageing and norms of success: Successful ageing through the perspective of the monstrous. Morten Hillgaard Bülow, Medical Museum and Center for Healthy Aging, University of Copenhagen

144. (09) Care in a self-managed world - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SP503

Chairs: Ger Wackers, Narvik University College; Ingunn Moser, Diakonhjemmet University College; Hilde Thygesen, Diakonhjemmet University College

Participants:

Care@distance: new in/dependencies in the care collective. Ingunn Moser, Diakonhjemmet University College; Hilde Thygesen, Diakonhjemmet University College

Person-Centred Care and the New Management of Illness in Sweden. Doris Linnéa Lydahl, University of Gothenburg, Department of Sociology and Social Work

Designing for Discipline. Bethany Hipple Walters, Erasmus University

Calculating good care – the distribution of competence in an economized health care setting. Lydia-Maria Ouart, Department for European Ethnology, Humboldt University Berlin, Germany

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Letting stories breathe: narrative and experience of asthma. Ana Filipa Queirós, Centre for Social Studies, Associate Laboratory of University of Coimbra; Joao Arriscado Nunes, CES University of Coimbra; Carlos da Silva Barradas, Centre for Social Studies of the University of Coimbra; Rita Serra, Centre for Social Studies

145. The properties of materials and the ownership of things

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SPs07

Chairs: Javier Lezaun, Institute for Science, Innovation and Society, University of Oxford; Fernando Dominguez, NYU

Participants:

Partial possessions and the evanescent materiality of media-art. Fernando Dominguez, NYU

Dissecting "Archival bodies": Extracting and Editing Historical Documents. Mario Wimmer, ETH Zurich

Insect matters and the metamorphosis of property. Javier Lezaun, Institute for Science, Innovation and Society, University of Oxford

Social Movements as Epistemic Communities: The Case of FINRRAGE. Stevienna de Saille, University of Leeds

146. Studies of expertise and experience: SEE and the third wave (Part I)

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SPs08

Participants:

Probes versus surveys and the methodology of the social sciences. Harry Collins, Cardiff University

Jedi Mind Tricks: Professional Tacit Knowledge Transfer in Medical Education. Alexandra Vinson, University of California, San Diego

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Interactional expertise and collaboration between paleoceanographers and paleo-modellers. Tiago R Duarte, Cardiff University
Discussant: Robert Evans, Cardiff University

147. (77) Urban assemblages and cosmopolitics: contributions for an ongoing debate - III

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SPs10

Chairs: Anders Blok, Copenhagen University; Ignacio Farias, Social Science Research Center Berlin

Participants:

The urban thing. Urban agency and purification in a long term perspective. Bert De Munck, Centre for urban History, University of Antwerp

Small businesses in the city: assembling the commercial urban space. Alexandre Mallard, Centre de Sociologie de l'Innovation. Ecole des Mines ParisTech

"Additive" as analytical concept and actant for advocacy. Studying movie-making urban agents in Gothenburg. Joakim Forsemalm, Gothenburg Research Institute, Gothenburg University

On site and en route: Urban assemblage and the articulation of the prehospital emergency arena. Yutaka Yoshinaka, Technical University of Denmark; Signe Pedersen, DTU Management Engineering

Constructing the Main Artery of Urban Gray Assemblages: A Case Study of the Seoul Metropolitan Railway. Sung Won Kim, Seoul National University

148. (73) Critical studies of interdisciplinarity - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SPs12

Chair: Mathieu Albert, University of Toronto

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Participants:

Knowledge Ecologies and “Supple” Objects in Interdisciplinary Gender Research. Christine Virginia Wood, Northwestern University

Boundary-Blurring Work: Designing Computer Science as an (Inter)discipline. Janet Abbate, Virginia Tech

Accomplishing interdisciplinarity: regimes of practice in the production of knowledge. Susan Molyneux-Hodgson, University of Sheffield

Constructing interdisciplinary identities in science magazines: Visions and expectations. Carlos Adrian Cuevas Garcia, University of Nottingham

149. (40) The construction of social computing: design and displacement of hybrid relationships

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SPs13

Chairs: Maurizio Teli, Ahref Foundation; David Hakken, School of Informatics, Indiana University Bloomington; Vincenzo D’Andrea, University of Trento

Participants:

Communities of Innovation and Social Software: Lessons from PLATO. Guillaume Latzko-Toth, Université Laval; Steve Jones, University of Illinois at Chicago

Social media and self-evaluation: On numbers, data and temporalities. Carolin Gerlitz, Goldsmiths, University of London

Dwarfs without giants? Decentralisation and re-centralisation in Internet-based services. Francesca Musiani, Mines ParisTech

Scanning the Social Brain? the emerging use of web-based visualizations as tools for social exploration. Anders Koed Madsen, Copenhagen Business School

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

150. (55) War and the human: innovations and interventions - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SPs14

Chair: Kenneth MacLeish, IHHPAR, Rutgers University

Participants:

“Resiliency” and the Problem of Soldierly Personhood. Kenneth MacLeish, IHHPAR, Rutgers University

Warring Identities: American Veterans Making Sense of Postwar Identity and Health. R. Tyson Smith, Brown University; Gala True, Center for Health Equity Research

Design and displacement in the military-entertainment complex. Lucy Suchman, Lancaster University

Dangerous games: the role of videogames in shaping American military culture. Alcides Eduardo dos Reis Peron, Campinas State University; Rafael Dias, Campinas State University

Mors ex Machina: On Autonomous Systems and the Rules of War. Theo Vurdubakis, Lancaster University; Brian Peter Bloomfield, Lancaster University

151. (67) Technologies of the self - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SPs16

Chair: Christopher Salter, Concordia University

Participants:

Technologies of the self and nonmodern ontologies: the cases of meditation and cybernetics. Antonio Carvalho, University of Exeter; Andrew Pickering, University of Exeter

Biopower in the Age of Well-Being: The Ontology of Mindfulness Practice. Francis McKay, University of Chicago

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Pharmaceuticals and Technologies of Self/Control. Scott Vrecko, University of Exeter

Neoliberalism, Psychiatric Pharmaceuticals, and Ideal Selfhood. Michelle Dillon, University of Washington

Brain Technologies of the Self. Jonna Brenninkmeijer, University of Groningen

152. Meaning-making and political displacements through the “Internet of Things”

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: D.2.20

Chair: Dawn Nafus, Intel Labs

Participants:

Public Laboratory for Open Technology and Science: Civic Science Engagement as Grassroots Advocacy. Shannon Dosemagen, Public Laboratory for Open Technology and Science; Sara Wylie, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

The Internet of Things and the Negotiation of Space. Ilze Black, School of Electronic Engineering and Computer Science

From Data Aggregation towards Behavioral Change: political-philosophical assumptions of IoT. Dorien Zandbergen, Leiden University, Leiden, The Netherlands

153. Deliberating Nordic science, reconfiguring Nordic democracy - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: D.4.39

Chairs: Alison Cool, New York University; Amelie Hoshor, University of Gothenburg

Participants:

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

The Icelandic Database Project and Scientific Citizenship. Vilhjálmur Árnason, University of Iceland

Sensing the remote North: Satellite technology, science and state procurement. Nina Wormbs, Royal Institute of Technology

Policy negotiation and argumentation in Finnish debates around energy technologies and green innovation. Tuula Teräsväinen, University of Helsinki

Discussant: Kristin Asdal, Centre for technology, innovation and culture (TIK), University of Oslo

154. STS engagements with Science Centers: Bringing broader implications to the museum floor

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: D4 Aug

Chair: Jameson Wetmore, Arizona State University

Participants:

The Intersection of Science and Society: Museum-research center partnerships engaging the public in conversations about nanotechnology and society. Brad Herring, Museum of Life and Science, Durham, NC

Whose Nano is it Anyway? Exploring the equity implications of nanotechnology through an interactive game. Jameson Wetmore, Arizona State University

Engaging with Environmental Policy at Zoos: the Science, Policy and Citizenship Program on Biodiversity. Ira Bennett, Arizona State University

Nano and Society: training museum staff to engage in conversations. Rae Ostman, Sciencenter, Ithaca, NY

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

155. (96) In search of “lines of flights” in/for/to/ from Latin America - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Kilen: K143

Chair: Ivan da Costa Marques, Universidade Federal do Rio de JaneiroParticipants:*Designing curriculum, displacing knowledge: A postcolonial technoscientific approach to circulation of theories. Leandro Rodriguez-Medina, Universidad de las Americas PueblaOccupational Therapy and the productivist way of life: contributions to creating lines of flight. Elizabeth Maria Freire de Araújo Lima, University of São PauloThe leeway for construction offered American laptops in Nigeria. Lars Bo Andersen, Aarhus UniversityTaking a ‘Southern Mindset’ Seriously: New Directions for Studies of National Innovation Systems. Pierre Delvenne, Université de Liège (SPIRAL); François Thoreau, University of LiègeWestern scientific circumscriptions and freedoms of action in Latin America. Ivan da Costa Marques, Universidade Federal do Rio de Janeiro156. Models and modelling - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Kilen: K146

Chairs: Mette N Svendsen, University of Copenhagen; Carrie Friese, London School of Economics and Political ScienceParticipants:*Wireless patients and their doubles. Julie Christina Grew, University of Copenhagen“Efficiency,” “Fit,” and the Clinical “Real” in Standardized Patient Scenarios. Janelle S. Taylor, University of Washington

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Mid-nineteenth century healing electricity: redesigning nature through the medical body. Christian Carletti, Sphère, CNRS - University Paris Diderot 7Designing Health Care: Early Telemedicine and the US Health Care System. William Arthur Craig, Durham UniversityDiscussants: Jacob Metcalf, University of California, Santa Cruz; Andreas Roepstorff, CFIN157. From here to eternity: Socio-technical challenges to managing radioactive waste for the long term

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Kilen: K150

Chair: Anne Bergmans, University of AntwerpParticipants:*Socio-technical challenges to geological disposal: insights from a comparative review of 14 national contexts and an agenda for research. Peter Simmons, University of East Anglia; Catharina Landstrom, University of East Anglia; Anne Bergmans, University of AntwerpConflictual issues in nuclear waste disposal as discussed in major print-media in Germany and Switzerland –the development of a societal problem, 2001-2010. Sophie Kuppler, Karlsruhe Institute of TechnologySocial learning and confidence in long-term radioactive waste management: the safety case and double loop learning. Bettina Brohmann, Oeko-Institut; Beate Kallenbach, Oeko-Institut; Anne Minhans, Oeko-InstitutThe making and sustaining of stakeholders and democratic closure in nuclear waste management. Linda Soneryd, Score (Stockholm Centre for Organizational Research)

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Managing uncertainty: socio-technical challenges of geological disposal in Finland. Anna Matilda Nurmi, University of Jyväskylä; Matti Kojo, University of Tampere, Finland; Tapio Litmanen, University of Jyväskylä, Finland

158. (05) Designing global health technologies in the Global South - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Kilen: Ks43

Chairs: Norman Schräpel, Institute of Anthropology and Philosophy, MLU Halle-Wittenberg; Richard Rottenburg, MPI Social Anthropology/University of Halle

Participants:

Contested knowledge: medicine and law in postcolonial Korea. EunJeong Ma, Pohang University of Science and Technology

Constituting cancer genetics, public health and clinical need in Brazil. Sahra Gibbon, University College London

Health promoting improved cookstoves: Co-creation in the Global South. Signe Pedersen, DTU Management Engineering; Rikke Premer Petersen, Aalborg University

Copenhagen Globalizing Quality – exploring Danish “Practical Diabetology” at work in Indonesia. Annegrete Juul Nielsen, University of Copenhagen; Henriette Langstrup, University of Copenhagen

159. (90) The social life of organization theory - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Kilen: Ks48

Chairs: Signe Vikkelsø, Copenhagen Business School; Karen Boll, Copenhagen Business School; Paul du Gay, Copenhagen Business School

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Participants:

Set your creative forces free! The liberated body as a hybrid managerial tool. Bent Meier Sørensen, Copenhagen Business School; Kaspar Villadsen, Copenhagen Business School

A non foundational study of organizing devices in nascent companies. Juan Felipe Espinosa Cristia, University of Leicester

Tensions and contradictions of the concept of organization as applied to universities: the case of USP-east. Maria Caramaz Carlotto, Universidade de São Paulo; Sylvia Gemignani Garcia, Universidade de São Paulo

Socio-technical standards and the notion of patient-centred care. Laura Lippert, Research Unit of General Practice, KU

The Inquiry into the Interactive Relationship between Bureaucracy and ICT (Information and Communication Technology). Wanki Paik, The National Academy of Sciences, Republic of Korea; Seoyong Kim, Ajou University

160. (13) STS and the socio-material constitution of later life - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Kilen: Ks54

Chairs: Alexander Peine, Utrecht University; Alex Faulkner, King's College London; Birgit Jaeger, Roskilde University; Ellen Moors, Innovation Studies, Copernicus Institute, Utrecht University, NL

Participants:

Engineering the Fitness of Older Cancer Patients for Chemotherapy. Peta S Cook, University of Tasmania, School of Sociology and Social Work; Alexandra McCarthy, Cancer Services Southern Clinical Network; Queensland University of Technology, School of Nursing and Midwifery; Patsy Yates, Queensland University of Technology, School of Nursing

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Futures of Alzheimer's Disease and early diagnostics: comparing two anticipatory practices. Yvonne Cuijpers, Utrecht University; Harro Van Lente, University Utrecht; Ellen Moors, Innovation Studies, Copernicus Institute, Utrecht University, NL; Anna Laura Van der Laan, Twente University

Experiencing aging through ICT. Tiina Helena Suopajarvi, University of Oulu

Participatory Technology Development for the Elderly: The Odd Phenomenon of Bending User-Expertise into a Non-User-Oriented Engineering-Resource. Diego Compagna, University of Duisburg-Essen, Faculty of Social Sciences

The elderly women farmers who outwit preconceived ideas of aging. Yasuko Kawatoko, Daito Bunka University

161. (26) Future energy infrastructures: aspects of design and resilience - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Kilen: Ground floor - K571

Chair: Gerhard Fuchs, University of Stuttgart

Participants:

Contested rivers: Dam(n) policymaking in China. Louise Lyngfeldt Gorm Hansen, Copenhagen Business School, Asia Research Center/ Sino-Danish Center for Education and Research

Same Technology, Different Outcomes: The Case of Waste-to-Energy Incinerators in the United States. Jordan P Howell, Michigan State University

Transformative Governance in Energy Infrastructures: Carbon Caption Storage and Photovoltaics. Gerhard Fuchs, University of Stuttgart

Decentering Consensus & Linear Rationality in Public Engagement with Science and Technology. Edwina Barvosa, Center for Nanoscience and Society, UC Santa Barbara

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

162. (58) STS perspectives on patient safety and quality improvement in health care - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP112

Chairs: Jessica Mesman, Maastricht University; Roland Bal, Erasmus University Rotterdam; Johan M. Sanne, Linköping University

Participants:

Invisible work: a resource for patient safety. Julia Quartz, University of Rotterdam Follow-the-practice: an approach to improve patient safety? Jessica Mesman, Maastricht University

Safe medication both for patients and practitioners? On patient safety through design and STS. Ana Maria d'Auchamp, Danish Technological Institute; Yutaka Yoshinaka, Technical University of Denmark

Redesigning responsibility: Hepatitis C prevention in sexual partnerships. Suzanne Fraser, University of NSW, Australia; Carla Treloar, National Centre in HIV Social Research, University of New South Wales

163. (46) Mediated practice: insights from STS, critical theory and media theory - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP113

Chairs: Anne Beaulieu, University of Groningen; Annamaria Carusi, University of Copenhagen; Aud Sissel Hoel, Department of Art and Media Studies, Norwegian University of Science and Technology; Sarah de Rijcke, Centre for Science and Technology Studies, Leiden University

Participants:

Dreamwork, compositionism and design: toward a multi-sensorial materialism in technoscience. Cameron Michael Murray, York University; Alasdair McMillan, York University

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

The Medium is the Measure. Aud Sissel Hoel, Department of Art and Media Studies, Norwegian University of Science and Technology Blinks and Blips: EEG and the Recalcitrant Body. Sarah Ann Klein, University of California, San Diego

Inside and Outside the Black Box – Epistemological Interrelations in Medical Software. Kathrin Friedrich, Academy of Media Arts Cologne

“Nature” in the Expanded Field: Limits of Anthropomorphism. Max Liljefors, Lund University

164. (79) On the road: journeys of innovations and prospects - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP114

Chair: Lise Bitsch, University of Twente

Participants:

Creating designs as effective boundary objects in innovation journeys? Severine van Bommel, Wageningen University; Laurens Klerkx, Wageningen University; Bram Bos, Wageningen UR

Livestock Research The transformative journey of a product idea and the stabilising role of particular knowledge objects. Liv Gish, Technical University of Denmark, DTU Management;; Chistian Clausen, Aalborg University Copenhagen

Promises and Practices: Press, Pennies and Power in Canada's Genomics Sector. Ellen Balka, Simon Fraser University

Negotiating expectations in the encounter between genomics and common disease research. Lise Bitsch, University of Twente; Kornelia Elke Konrad, University of Twente

Conferences: A Bricolage of Technology Configuring Events. Hajar Mozaffar, University of Edinburgh

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

165. Back to the future: why should we promote public engagement with science?

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP205

Chair: Simon Jay Lock, UCL

Discussants: Brian Wynne, University of Lancaster; Sheila Jasanoff, Harvard University; Alan Irwin, Copenhagen Business School; David H. Guston, Arizona State University; Maja Horst, University of Copenhagen

166. (51) Hacking STS: bio-hacking, open hardware development, and hackerspaces - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP207

Chairs: Johan Söderberg, LATTS/IFRIS ParisTech; Alessandro Delfanti, University of Milan; Eric Deibel, Institut Francilien Recherche Innovation Société (IFRIS-CEPN)

Participants:

Can Your Grandmother Use it?: Hackers becoming Entrepreneurs. Zane Kriple, Leiden University

Cultivating a creative workforce: Making innovation in a Shanghai hackerspace. Silvia Lindtner, University of California, Irvine

Is an FBI agent a DIY biologist as any other? Tocchetti Sara, London School Of Economics; Sara Angeli Aguiton, CSO Sciences Po CNRS

Mobile phone repair networks in Kampala, Uganda: the role of 'hackers'. Lara Houston, Lancaster University

167. (19) Re-shaping, reclassifying, unsettling, life - IV

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP208

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Chairs: Rebecca Ellis, Lancaster University; Claire Waterton, Centre for the Study of Environmental Change (CSEC), Department of Sociology, Lancaster University

Participants:

Do-it-yourself biology: domesticating biology through creative workarounds. Morgan Meyer, Ecole des Mines de Paris - ParisTech

Engineering life: Synthetic biology and the order of things. Emma Frow, University of Edinburgh

Back to "ontological politics" – Revisiting the dynamics of definitional struggles on GMO's in Europe. Pierre-Benoît Joly, INRA; Marc Barbier, INRA, UR1326 Sciences en Société, F-77420 Champs-sur-Marne, France

Making meat informed: the trace of survival. Nick Bingham, The Open University; Stephanie Lavau, University of Exeter

168. (82) Ethnography of socio-material collaborations - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm
Solbjerg Plads: SP210

Chairs: Katharina E. Kinder, Lancaster University; Petra Ilyes, Goethe University Frankfurt am Main

Participants:

Designing Security: Socio-Technical Border Arrangements. Sebastian Sierra Barra, Goethe University Frankfurt

Working with Nature: Emerging practices of soft coastal protection. Friederike Gelsing, University of Bremen

Ethnography of the future: Researching ubiquitous computing for design. Katharina E. Kinder, Lancaster University

Experiences and constraints - patterns of socio-technical interaction. Valentin Janda, Technische Universität Berlin

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Cognitive Ethnography: Socio-material relations in a new light. Samuel Tettner, Maastricht University

169. (86) Displacement and classification - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm
Solbjerg Plads: SP212

Chairs: Daniel Bischur, University of Trier, Germany; Stefan Nicolae, University of Trier

Participants:

Surely you're cooking Mr. Feynman! Science in the kitchen and its metaphors. Massimiano Bucchi, Dept of Sociology, University of Trento

Classifying the Unclassifiable. Towards a Sociological Approach to Plastination. Stefan Nicolae, University of Trier

Non-Standardization in Science: Discontinuities in Genomic Taxonomies of Race. Aaron Panofsky, UCLA; Catherine Bliss, Brown University

Categorizations in Reflecting Animal Experimentation. Daniel Bischur, University of Trier, Germany

Chimerical Ontologies: On the varied classifications and displacements of 'ethnicality'. Lucy Clare Bartlett, Said Business School, University of Oxford

170. (38) Energy, practice and personal lives: design and displacement in the everyday - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm
Solbjerg Plads: SP213

Chair: Karen Henwood, Cardiff University

Participants:

Exploring sociotechnical imaginaries of electric utilities within the renewable energy transition. Jen Fuller, Arizona State University

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Zero emission buildings and development of professional (energy) operation culture: Learning and professional development in operation of large buildings. Helen Jøsok Gansmo, STS, NTNU

Designing Active Demand in electricity systems: co-constructing users and technologies in the home. Dana Abi Ghanem, Tyndall Centre, University of Manchester; Sarah Mander, Tyndall Centre, University of Manchester

Solar Transitions: Policy learning and emerging socio-technical configurations in off-grid solar electricity supply in India. Harald Rohrer, IFZ - Department of Science and Technology Studies, University of Klagenfurt; Kirsten Ulsrud, Department of Sociology and Human Geography, University of Oslo

171. (59) "This planet is doomed": on the entanglements of science fiction and technoscientific artifacts - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP214

Chair: Michael Bennett, Northeastern University School of Law

Participants:

The Social Construction of Race in Pre-Golden Age Science Fiction: Smith and Weinbaum. Christopher Leslie, Polytechnic Institute of New York University

Science fiction as resource in lay citizens' talk about nanotechnologies. Claudia Schwarz, University of Vienna

"Fantastic Voyage" and the Construction of a Nanoengineering Discipline. Emily York, University of California, San Diego

Discussion of the characterization of sci-fi films on innovation capacity of science & technology. Yiming Wang, Tsinghua University

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

172. (85) Unruly matters - the queer side of things - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP216

Chairs: Sebastian Mohr, Centre for Medical Science and Technology Studies, University of Copenhagen; Marie-Louise Holm, Tema Genus, Linköpings universitet

Participants:

Queer perspectives on neuroscience and psychological studies. Julian Anslinger, Queer STS - IFZ Graz; Birgit Hofstätter, Queer STS - IFZ Graz; Jenny Käfer, Queer STS - IFZ Graz; Lisa Scheer, Queer STS - IFZ Graz; Anita Thaler, Queer STS - IFZ Graz; Magdalena Wicher, Queer STS - IFZ Graz

Interspecies Art. Desiree Foerster, Heinrich Heine University Düsseldorf

Queer Desiring Machines. Katrin Köppert, Graduate Research Programm "Gender as a Category of Knowledge", HU-Berlin; Patricia Treusch, PhD student Technical University, Berlin/PhD Research Unit: "Gender as a Category of Knowledge", Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin

173. (09) Care in a self-managed world - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs03

Chairs: Ger Wackers, Narvik University College; Ingunn Moser, Diakonhjemmet University College; Hilde Thygesen, Diakonhjemmet University College

Participants:

Adolescence as medical form of life: looping-effects of reframed notions of health and therapeutic agency. Stefan Reinsch, Charité-Universitätsmedizin Berlin

Visualising self-management: generating, analyzing and making practical use of photographs. Lotte Huniche, University of Southern Denmark; Birthe Dinesen, Aalborg University

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

From self-management to self-enhancement: the challenges to become an 'autonomous user'. Daniel López, Universitat Oberta de Catalunya; Rocco Bellanova, LTS- Vrije Universiteit Brussel & CRe-SPo- Facultés universitaires Saint-Louis

Infusion pumps, professional guidelines and self-managed terminal sedation at home. Ger Wackers, Narvik University College

Knowledge, ignorance, and displacement in end-of-life care in Switzerland. Corinna Jung, IBM

174. (64) Challenges in studying technologies of democratization - I

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPso5

Chair: Christopher Gad, IT-University of Copenhagen

Participants:

Controversies regarding E-Voting & Counting Technologies and the Question of Public Control in Democratic Elections. Randi Markussen, IT University of Copenhagen

Exploring citizenship in the digitalization of the Danish electoral system. Andreas Laumann Christensen, IT University of Copenhagen

Imagining human enhancements. Kjetil Rommetveit, University of Bergen

Pathways to high intensity democracy: Between protests and participatory budgeting devices. Ana Raquel Matos, Centre for Social Studies

175. (35) Competing visions of energy systems transitions: contributions to "Smart Grid" - I

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPso7

Chair: Jennie C. Stephens, Clark University

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Participants:

Transformative potential of visions and strategies: ICT firms in the field of smart grid technology. Sabine Erlinghagen, Eawag / ETH; Jochen Markard, Eawag / ETH; Volker Hoffmann, ETH Zurich

The Smart Nirvana: old visions of the new smart energy consumer. Yolande Strengers, RMIT University

Smart Grid Standards: exploring the role of public policy in creating order and reducing diversity. Sachiko Muto, Delft University of Technology, TU Delft, NL

Regional Differentiation of Smart Grid Pilot Projects in the United States. Tarla Rai Peterson, Texas A&M University; Jennie C. Stephens, Clark University; Adrienne Strubb, TAMU; Elizabeth Wilson, University of Minnesota

176. Race and genetic variation: Projects and practices in different nations

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPso8

Chair: Ramya Rajagopalan, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Participants:

How to conceive (dis)continuities of biological race? Tino Plumecke, Frankfurt University, Faculty of Social Sciences, Center for Biotechnologies, Nature, and Society

Confounded Categories: Is the HapMap a Race-based Project? Joan Fujimura, University of Wisconsin

Face and Race in Forensic Identification. Amade M'charek, Universiteit van Amsterdam

National genetic heritage: anti-racist science and the making of difference. Catherine Nash, School of Geography, Queen Mary, University of London

Engineering Slavery to Cure a Disease Called Freedom. Darla Thompson, Cornell University

177. (77) Urban assemblages and cosmopolitics: contributions for an ongoing debate - IV

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs10

Chairs: Anders Blok, Copenhagen University; Ignacio Farias, Social Science Research Center Berlin

Participants:

Copenhagen: urban space and mobility from 1950 to 2050. Andrés Felipe Valderrama Pineda, Technical University of Denmark

Assembling Urban Sustainability: New Urbanism in Coastal California and the Portland Metro. Erik Nielsen, UCSB

Challenging Research on Neighbourhood Images and Urban Development through Assemblage Thinking. Isabelle Schoepfer, University of Fribourg, Switzerland

Unstable Ground: The Politics of Urban Assemblages. Austin Zeiderman, Stanford University

178. (73) Critical studies of interdisciplinarity - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs12

Chair: Barbara Prainsack, Brunel University

Participants:

Strategize or Perish: Social Scientists and Humanities Scholars Working in Faculties of Medicine. Mathieu Albert, University of Toronto; Ayelet Kuper, University of Toronto, Wilson Centre; Sarah J Whyte, University of Waterloo

Interdisciplinarity as a rhetorical device in boundary-work. Pia Vuolanto, University of Tampere, Finland

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Discourses of interdisciplinarity and the changing topography of higher education: Implications for knowledge-makers. Maria Athina (Tina) Martimianakis, University of Toronto

Neighbourhood, moral economy, and dissident interdisciplinary research. Christine Aicardi, Department of Science and Technology Studies, UCL

179. (55) War and the human: innovations and interventions - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs14

Chair: Kenneth MacLeish, IHHPAR, Rutgers University

Participants:

Secret Devices of Security Publics. Nisha Shah, University of Ottawa

Collateral Damage and the Invention of Technology. Frederik Ferdinand Rosén, Danish Institute for International Studies

Red Cross' first design and its displacement in the Spanish civil wars of the 1870s. Jon Arrizabalaga, IMF-CSIC, Egipcíiques, 15 E-08001 Barcelona, Spain; Guillermo Sánchez-Martínez, Universidad Pública de Navarra, Pamplona, Spain; Juan Carlos García-Reyes, IMF-CSIC, Egipcíiques, 15 E-08001 Barcelona, Spain

Finding America Hidden Behind Hiroshima. Robert Jacobs, Hiroshima City University

180. (67) Technologies of the self - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs16

Chair: Andrew Pickering, University of Exeter

Participants:

Self by Design: Personal-Tracking Applications and Life as Self-Transformation. Natasha Dow Schull, MIT

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

“Changing your life”: Transformations of the self within practices of losing and keeping weight. Michael Penkler, University of Vienna

Readjusting the self: measurement devices and their effects on well-being. Minna Ruckenstein, National Consumer Research Centre; Mika Pantzar, National Consumer Research Centre; Toni Vanhala, VTT Technical Research Centre of Finland; Veera Mustonen, National Consumer Research Centre

Anorexia and Bulimia as Technologies of the Self: “Semiotic-Material Actors” in “Fluid Spaces”. Maria Gonzalez Aguado, University of Vienna/ CSIC Institute of Philosophy

182. Social location and nanotechnology risk perception

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: D.2.20

Chairs: Mary Collins, University of California, Santa Barbara; Cassandra Engeman, University of California, Santa Barbara

Participants:

Intuitive Cognition in the Perception of Air, Water and Soil as They Interact With Engineered Nanomaterials: A Study of US Public Views. Terre Satterfield, University of British Columbia; Barbara Herr Harthorn, UC Santa Barbara

People, Products, and Nanotechnology: A Risk Judgment Analysis. Mary Collins, University of California, Santa Barbara; Shannon Hanna, University of California, Santa Barbara; Barbara Herr Harthorn, UC Santa Barbara; Terre Satterfield, University of British Columbia

Designing Deliberation: Social Location and the Politics of Difference in US Public Deliberations about New Technologies. Barbara Herr Harthorn, UC Santa Barbara; Karl Bryant, SUNY New Paltz

Voluntary Regulation in the International Nanomaterials Industry: Perceptions, Practices & Problems for Workers. Cassan-

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

dra Engeman, University of California, Santa Barbara; Barbara Herr Harthorn, UC Santa Barbara; Patricia Holden, University of California, Santa Barbara; Terre Satterfield, University of British Columbia

Nanotechnology Expert Perceptions: Benefits, Risks, Bias, and Regulation. Christian EH Beaudrie, University of British Columbia; Terre Satterfield, University of British Columbia; Milind Kandlikar, University of British Columbia; Barbara Herr Harthorn, UC Santa Barbara

183. (34) The epistemic and political authority of expertise in environmental governance - I

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: D4 Aug

Chairs: Silke Beck, Helmholtz Centre for Environmental Research; Eva Löfbrand, Linköping university

Participants:

Shifts in Epistemic Communities around Nature Governance: The Seemingly Paradoxical Convergence of Sustainability and Extraction. Veronica Davidov, Leiden University College, The Hague

Complex, contradictory and creative expertise in forest biodiversity protection. Taru Peltola, Finnish Environment Institute

Performing the Forest: Carbon Accountability and the Politics of REDD Monitoring, Reporting and Verification Practices. Aarti Gupta, Wageningen university; Eva Löfbrand, Linköping university; Esther Turnhout, Wageningen University; Marjanneke Vijge, Wageningen University; Ingrid Visseren, Wageningen university

Sanitary markets: food safety regulations and the purification of the capitalist exchange of foodstuffs. Carlos Novas, Carleton University; Michael S Mopas, Carleton University

The role of boundary organizations in the social status of climate change knowledge. Anna J Wesselink, University of Leeds; Robert Hoppe, University of Twente; Rose Cairns, University of Leeds

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

184. (96) In search of “lines of flights” in/for/to/ from Latin America - III

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Kilen: K143

Chair: Ivan da Costa Marques, Universidade Federal do Rio de JaneiroParticipants:*Scientific culture and the scientist entrepreneur. Rafael de Almeida Evangelista, Labjor/Unicamp - Universidade Estadual de Campinas; Marta Mourão Kanashiro, Labjor/Unicamp - Universidade Estadual de Campinas“Buen vivir” and its paradox of scientific and technology dependence. Maria Belen Albornoz, Latin American Faculty of Social Sciences EcuadorInformal Mexican Urbanity and Subaltern Knowledge: Xonaca. Anne Kristiina Kurjenoja, Universidad de las Américas Puebla; Maria Emilia Ismael-Simental, Universidad de las Américas PueblaBorders and Mediations in Mexico’s Expanding S&T System: Emerging Issues. Rollin Kent, Benemerita Universidad Autonoma de Puebla; Alma Carrasco Altamirano, Benemerita Universidad Autónoma de Puebla185. (04) Disease and health in humans and nonhumans

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Kilen: K146

Chair: Angela Cassidy, Imperial College LondonParticipants:*One Health: human/animal disease and interdisciplinarity. Angela Cassidy, Imperial College London; Abigail Woods, Imperial College London

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Diagnosing diseases in plants and animals. Ann Bruce, The University of EdinburghImmunity and Shared Health. Steve Hinchliffe, University of Exeter; kim ward, University of ExeterRetrospect and mitigation: public health discourse on 2009’s H1N1 pandemic. Mark David McGregor Davis, Monash University; Paul Flowers, Glasgow Caledonian University186. (21) (Trans)formations of kinship: travelling in search of relatedness

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Kilen: K150

Chairs: Stine Willum Adrian, Aalborg University; Charlotte Kroløkke, University of Southern DenmarkParticipants:*Body economies: global trade in human biological material. Ingrid Geesink, Rathenau Institute; Chantal Steegers, Rathenau InstituteQueer Reproduction and the Reconfiguration of Assisted Conception in Taiwan. Chia-Ling Wu, National Taiwan UniversityKinship as a palimpsest: Practices of transnational gamete donation. Sven Bergmann, Institute for the History of Medicine, Charité Berlin | Research Projekt: “Cultures of Madness”Reproductive Imaginations: Making New Nordic Citizen Through Fertility Travel. Charlotte Kroløkke, University of Southern DenmarkBending the law and crossing borders choosing Danish sperm. Stine Willum Adrian, Aalborg University187. (05) Designing global health technologies in the Global South - III

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Kilen: K543

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Chairs: Norman Schräpel, Institute of Anthropology and Philosophy, MLU Halle-Wittenberg; Richard Rottenburg, MPI Social Anthropology/University of Halle

Participants:

Installing Trust: Medical data infrastructures and the production of anticipatory knowledge – Ethnographic encounters from Rwanda. Norman Schräpel, Institute of Anthropology and Philosophy, MLU Halle-Wittenberg

Global Pharmaceutical Circulations and Local Contestations: Making “Modern” Herbal Medicine in Bangladesh. Karen McNamara, Syracuse University

Medicinal (dis)orders. Controversies upon fake medicines in India and Kenya. Mathieu Quet, GSPR, EHES; Marine Al Dahdah, independent consultant

Understanding the Constructedness of Hansen’s Disease: A Study on Medical Work regarding Hansen’s Disease in Taiwan. Yiling Hung, Sociology, UCLA

188. Making and using knowledge about research collaboration

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Kilen: Ks48

Chair: Richard Woolley, CSIC-UPV Ingenio

Participants:

Academic careers and research collaboration: the role of job mobility and scientific excellence. Pablo D’Este, CSIC-UPV Ingenio; Carolina Cañibano, CSIC-UPV Ingenio

Bad Research Collaborations: Perceptions and Impacts. Barry Bozeman, University of Georgia; Catherine Slade, Augusta State University

Motivations for disciplinary and interdisciplinary collaboration among Australian social scientists. Richard Woolley, CSIC-UPV In-

genio; Mabel Sánchez-Barrioluengo, CSIC-UPV Ingenio; Tim Turpin, University of Western Sydney

Researchers’ motivations to collaborate: Insights from a Spanish case study. Irene Ramos-Vielba, Fundación Ideas; Celia Díaz, Fundación Ideas; Josefa Calero, Fundación Ideas

189. (17) Genetics and human difference: from the ‘gene-for’ approach to...?

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Kilen: Ks54

Chairs: Daniel Navon, Columbia University; Uri Shwed, Ben Gurion University of the Negev

Participants:

Living Data: How Genetic Data Matters. Mette Kragh Furbo, Lancaster University, Sociology Department

Encoding Legitimacy: Genetic Discourses in Eating Disorders Advocacy. Karin Eli, University of Oxford

The geneticization of gendered body variation and the potential de-stigmatization of DSD/Intersex syndromes. daniela crocetti, University of Bologna

Beyond the gene: TMPT, drugs, conflict, and court cases. Michael M Hopkins, SPRU - Science and Technology Policy Research University of Sussex; Stuart Hogarth, King’s College London

Discussant: Sarah Richardson, Harvard University

190. (50) Times of design

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Kilen: Ground floor - Ks71

Chair: Ana Maria Delgado, University of Bergen

Participants:

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Made by us and not of our making. Alfred Nordmann, Darmstadt Technical University

Designing programmable living things in synthetic biology. Ana Maria Delgado, University of Bergen

Synthetic Biology: From prediction to programming life. Dorothy Jane Dankel, University of Bergen; Ana Maria Delgado, University of Bergen; Silvio Funtowicz, University of Bergen; Roger Strand, University of Bergen

De-signing biology and engineering practices in the iGEM competition. Katie Bulpin, University of Sheffield

191. (58) STS perspectives on patient safety and quality improvement in health care - III

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP112

Chairs: Jessica Mesman, Maastricht University Roland Bal, Erasmus University Rotterdam; Johan M. Sanne, Linköping University

Participants:

Chemotherapy protocol transforms clinical practices of cancer care team in managing chemotherapy toxicity in Taiwan. Zxyann Jane Lu, National Yang-Ming University

Successful translation in hospital quality improvement: enactment, risk objects and improvement scripts. Johan M. Sanne, Linköping University

Healthcare professionals' understanding of patient safety: Do we really know what they think? Konstantinos Arfanis, Morecambe Bay Hospitals Foundation NHS Trust; Andrew F Smith, Morecambe Bay Hospitals Foundation NHS Trust

Making Quality Calculable; The tautological foundation of quality in healthcare 1945-2010. Dane Paul Pflueger, London School of Economics

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

192. (46) Mediated practice: insights from STS, critical theory and media theory - III

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP113

Chairs: Anne Beaulieu, University of Groningen; Annamaria Carusi, University of Copenhagen; Aud Sissel Hoel, Department of Art and Media Studies, Norwegian University of Science and Technology; Sarah de Rijcke, Centre for Science and Technology Studies, Leiden University

Participants:

Eyes That Tell Stories. Catelijne Coopmans, National University of Singapore

Seeing and Designing Nanoscale Objects. Michael Lynch, Cornell University; Kathryn D de Ridder-Vignone, Science and Technology Studies-Cornell University

Fiction, Realism and Scientific Models. Annamaria Carusi, University of Copenhagen

Visualizing Pure Mathematics: Imaginative Worlds on Computer Screens. Alma Steingart, MIT

193. (79) On the road: journeys of innovations and prospects - III

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP114

Chair: Sampsa Hyysalo, Aalto University

Participants:

My Dress and Me – reassembling the Social in an Internet of Things. Stefanie Reinert Jenssen, Centre for Technology, Innovation and Culture

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Fuelling Expectations: UK Public Authorities debating on Biofuels. Pietro Berti, The ESRC Centre for Genomics in Society (Egenis), Department of Sociology and Philosophy, University of Exeter

Running out of power: the disruption of the Ethanol Car's Socio-Technical Configuration. Rafael Bennertz, Department of Science and Technology Policy - State University of Campinas; Lea Velho, State University of Campinas, Brazil

Open technology practices and the first airplanes. Peter Benjamin Meyer, U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics

194. Automated trading: Perspectives from social studies of finance

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP205

Chair: Donald MacKenzie, University of Edinburgh

Participants:

Five Seconds, A History: Automated Trading, Place, and Path-Dependence. Donald MacKenzie, University of Edinburgh

Ordering markets: engineers, ideas and the moral technologies of finance. Juan Pablo Pardo-Guerra, University of Edinburgh

Politics of liquidity: How regulators and economists shaped US automated financial exchanges. Daniel Beunza, London School of Economics; Yuval Millo, London School of Economics

Between Things and Objects: Algorithms and the Enactment of Financial Materiality. Marc Lenglet, European Business School

195. (56) On fire engines and big red buttons: technique in emergency situations and disasters

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP207

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Chairs: Nils Ellebrecht, University of Freiburg; Markus Jenki, University of Freiburg

Participants:

Lessons from a fire: the Moerdijk case. Frans A.J. Birrer, Leiden University

Managing critical situations by feedback system: flight AF 447 case study. François Domergue, INSEEC RESEARCH

Structurated Preparedness for Catastrophes: The Constitutive Dynamism of Plans and Improvisations. Natalie Danielle Baker, University of California, Irvine

Delimiting Artifacts and Expertise: Displaced Activist Technical Projects in Global South-Global North Encounters. Christina Dunbar-Hester, Rutgers University

196. Productively parasitic relations between STS and its fields

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP208

Chair: Teun Zuiderent-Jerak, Erasmus University Rotterdam

Participants:

Crowdsourcing in scientific practice: host and parasites. Dick Kasperowski, Gothenburg University

Bringing In the Crowd: New relationships between genomics and society. Niclas Hagen, Department of Arts and Cultural Sciences, Lund University

Design for Negotiation of Disparate Logics. Judith Gregory, University of California, Irvine

An Anatomical Collection of Medical Knowledge; Situated Intervention in Clinical Guideline Production. Teun Zuiderent-Jerak, Erasmus University Rotterdam

Discussant: Geoffrey Bowker, University of California-Irvine

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

197. (82) Ethnography of socio-material collaborations - III

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP210

Chairs: Katharina E. Kinder, Lancaster University; Petra Ilyes, Goethe University Frankfurt am Main

Participants:

How to do Ethnography of a Computer Simulation? Martin Deschauer, Goethe University Frankfurt

Displacing Scientific Concepts and Practices: Implications for the development of things, people and disciplines. Jose A Torralba, University of Hawaii, Curriculum Studies; Rogers P. Hall, Department of Teaching and Learning, Vanderbilt University

A pair of lenses on bioscience architecture: an ethnography of design intent and users' experiences. Alison F McDougall-Weil, University of Cambridge

Engineering Design Centre Epistemic Encounters: interdisciplinary collaboration in digital humanities. Smiljana Antonijevic, Royal Netherlands Academy of Arts and Sciences; Roskilde University

198. (86) Displacement and classification - III

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP212

Chairs: Daniel Bischur, University of Trier, Germany; Stefan Nicolae, University of Trier

Participants:

Gendered classifications in software development. Diana Lengersdorf, TU Dortmund, Germany; Matthias Wieser, University of Klagenfurt, Austria

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Displacement and classification work as performances of associations. Juliane Jarke, Lancaster University Management School

'Personalized' Audio and the Changing Meaning of Noise. Joseph Klett, Yale University

Assessing and helping Internally Displaced People: Controversies and regulation of social rights in Colombia. Fredy A. Mora-Gómez, University of Leicester

Maps, Information Design, and Social Change: The Case of Destroyed Palestinian Villages. Talia Fried, Bar Ilan University

199. (22) Climate engineering as a societal design problem?

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP213

Chairs: Nick Pidgeon, Cardiff University; Suvi Huttunen, Finnish Environment Institute

Participants:

Framing geoengineering in academic literature. Suvi Huttunen, Finnish Environment Institute; Mikael Hildén, Finnish Environment Institute

Issues of scale and ignorance in geo-engineering. Controversies over experimentation in ocean fertilization. Mieke van Hemert, Institut Francilien Recherche Innovation Societe

What is new in Geoengineering? Paula Curvelo, European Commission - Joint Research Centre

Governing Climate Engineering Research: Scientists' Perspectives. Eleftheria Vasileiadou, Institute for Environmental Studies, VU University Amsterdam; Panagiota Stathaki, Institute for Environmental Studies, VU University Amsterdam; Arthur C. Petersen, PBL Netherlands Environmental Assessment Agency, and VU University Amsterdam

200. (27) Accounting (for) Nature: REDD+, carbon credits and the design of sustainable futures

2:00 to 3:30 pm

*Solbjerg Plads: SP214Chair: Raoni Rajão, Federal University of Minas GeraisParticipants:*Framing and Reframing Subjects in the Hybrid Forums of REDD.

Mattias Hjort, University of Birmingham

Rejected Projections: Negotiating REDD+ in Guatemala's Maya Biosphere Reserve. Micha Rahder, University of California, Santa CruzBeyond deforestation as a 'simple location': discourses, artefacts and practices in the performance of illegal deforestation in the Brazilian Amazon. Raoni Rajão, Federal University of Minas Gerais; Theo Vurdubakis, Lancaster UniversityDeveloping Apollonian and Dionysian Trust in Environmental and Health-Oriented Consumer Schemes. Mikael Klintman, Dep. of Sociology, Lund University201. Feminist Dialogues on Technology

2:00 to 3:30 pm

*Solbjerg Plads: SP216Chairs: Beth Coleman, Harvard/Hogeschool van Amsterdam; Anne Balsamo, University of Southern CaliforniaParticipants:*Future Internet Architectures. Elizabeth Losh, University of California, San DiegoFor an Experimental Mode of Expression. Sarah Kember, Goldsmiths University'Compliant' Feminist Archives. Jacqueline Wernimont, Scripps College

Feminist Dialogues on Technology. Alex Juhasz, Pitzer CollegeDiscussant: Judy Wajcman, London School of Economics & Political Science202. (09) Care in a self-managed world - III

2:00 to 3:30 pm

*Solbjerg Plads: SPs03Chairs: Ger Wackers, Narvik University College; Ingunn Moser, Diakonhjemmet University College; Hilde Thygesen, Diakonhjemmet University CollegeParticipants:*Running mania: Lay expertise and reflexivity in the everyday management of health uncertainty. Patricia Campbell, University of CalgaryCommunity design for active seniors using electric bicycles. Miki Saijo, Tokyo Institute of Technology; Shishin Kawamoto, Tokyo Institute of TechnologyManaging the Innovative Flow: challenges and developments in an innovative prevention strategy within vascular surgery. Kathrine Hoffmann Pii, CBSUnderstanding the Design of Telecare Technologies. Ivo Maathuis, University of Twente203. (64) Challenges in studying technologies of democratization - II

2:00 to 3:30 pm

*Solbjerg Plads: SPs05Chair: Randi Markussen, IT University of CopenhagenParticipants:*The Ethic of the Hack: An Ethnography of Humanitarian Hackers. Douglas Benjamin Haywood, Goldsmiths, University of London

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

E-voting Machines: A gift to Democracy? Nina Boulus-Rødje, IT University of Copenhagen

Institutionalization dynamics of Parliamentary Technology Assessment. Benedikt Roskamp, University of Liège (B)

Quo Vadis Parliamentary Technology Assessment? A Case for Renewing PTA Programs and Thinking. Michiel Van Oudheusden, University of Antwerp

204. (35) Competing visions of energy systems transitions: contributions to "Smart Grid" - II

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs07

Chair: Jennie C. Stephens, Clark University

Participants:

Displacement by default: mission creep in smart grid design. Stephen Potter, Open-University; Matthew Cook, Open-University; Per-Anders Langendahl, Open University

Smart grids and the materialisation of ways of life. Greg Wallenborn, Université Libre de Bruxelles

Constructing the Smart Grid: Technological Options, Policy Choice and Energy Transitions. Elizabeth J. Wilson, Humphrey School of Public Affairs, University of Minnesota; James Meadowcroft, Carleton University

Green Guesses: Venture Capital and the Framing and Calculation of New Renewable Energy Technologies. Gard Hopsdal Hansen, Norwegian University of Science and Technology; Markus Steen, Norwegian University of Science and Technology

Lock-in and Unlocking: Flexibility and Stability in Urban Energy Assemblages. Graeme Sherrieff, University of Manchester

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

205. (89) Conditions for work and knowledge production in the social sciences

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs08

Chair: Veronika Woehrer, University of Freiburg

Participants:

Of course, that's how it is. Enculturation of Young Researchers in the Current Academic Environment. Diana Schmidt-Pfister, Center of Excellence "Cultural Foundations of Integration", University of Konstanz, Germany

Aims and values in the humanities research. Endla Lõhkivi, University of Tartu; Jaana Eigi, University of Tartu; Katrin Velbaum, University of Tartu

Keep on movin'! Research mobility meaning(s) for Italian early stage researchers. Sara Minucci, University of Turin

'A certain amount of prestidigitation is needed.' Early Stage Sociologists in Austria. Veronika Woehrer, University of Freiburg

206. (77) Urban assemblages and cosmopolitics: contributions for an ongoing debate - V

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs10

Chairs: Anders Blok, Copenhagen University; Ignacio Farias, Social Science Research Center Berlin

Participants:

Reassembling Water-Cycles in the Lower Lea River Basin East London. Tse-Hui Teh, University College London

Performative planning at the urban scale. Birgitte Hoffmann, DTU MAN; Mai-Britt Quitzau, Technical University of Denmark

Plassein and urban political matters. Jonas Bylund, Department of Human Geography, Stockholm University

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Users of urban open space and low carbon transitions. Sonia Liff, Appleby Research

207. (73) Critical studies of interdisciplinarity - III

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs12

Chair: Scott Frickel, Washington State University

Participants:

Interdisciplinarity in times of citizen science: Game over? Barbara Prainsack, Brunel University

Designing 'Integration Machines' – Performing Epistemic (Dis-) Unity. Judith Igelsboeck, Universität Wien

Anthropological reflections on the 'user' in the urban wilderness. Johanna Maria Ylipulli, University of Oulu

Open Space Workshops for Changing Science and Society: Reflection on Participation and Collaboration in STS. Peter John Taylor, UMass Boston

208. Studies of expertise and experience: SEE and the third wave (Part II)

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs14

Chair: Robert Evans, Cardiff University

Participants:

Domain-Specific Discrimination and Technological Decision-Making in the Public Domain. Martin Weinel, School of Social Sciences, Cardiff University

Reframing Science for Policy Reform. Robert Lorenzo Jomisko, Norwegian University of Science and Technology

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Habermas and the Third Wave: Experts and Citizens in a Deliberative Democracy. Robert Evans, Cardiff University

Discussant: Harry Collins, Cardiff University

209. (67) Technologies of the self - III

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs16

Chair: Antonio Carvalho, University of Exeter

Participants:

Notions of interactivity in new media theory, STS and contemporary art. Anja Johansen, NTNU

Smartphone Intimacies: Shifting Boundaries of Human-Machine Subjectivities. Ellie Harmon, University of California, Irvine

The Everyday Figuration of Parents and Children during the Transition to Parenthood. Cornelia Schadler, Department of Sociology, University of Vienna

Women becoming computer scientists. Vivian Anette Lagesen, Norwegian University of Science and Technology

210. Presidential plenary

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs01

Panel Members: Trevor Pinch, Cornell University Fred Steward, Policy Studies Institute, Westminster U

A decorative graphic consisting of a dense cluster of white dots of varying sizes, arranged in a roughly triangular shape pointing towards the top left. The dots are set against a solid blue background.

Scientific Program

Saturday
20 October

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

211. (24) Design and transitions to sustainability

9:00 to 10:30 am

*Solbjerg Plads: D.2.20Chair: Kirsten Ulsrud, Department of Sociology and Human Geography, University of OsloParticipants:*Design of village scale solar power supply in Kenya as a creative learning process. Kirsten Ulsrud, Department of Sociology and Human Geography, University of OsloThe influence of effluent within emergent creative research practice. Paul Lloyd Sargent, University at BuffaloEvolutionary Urbanism: Designing Ecology. Adam Jacob Levin, University at BuffaloTunnelling Barriers. Gunnar Andersson, Oestfold University College; Bjørn Gitle Hauge, Oestfold University College212. Entanglements of science and justice (part 1)

9:00 to 10:30 am

*Kilen: K143Chair: Jenny Reardon, University of California, Santa CruzParticipants:*On Genomics and Justice. Jenny Reardon, University of California, Santa CruzNature/Nurture Refigured: Gendered Narratives of Parenthood in Environmental Epigenetics. Martha Kenney, History of Consciousness, UC Santa Cruz; Ruth Mueller, Univ. of Vienna & Austrian Institute for International Affairs (oiip)The Anthropological Algorithm: The Biopolitics of Conservation Genomics. Jacob Metcalf, University of California, Santa CruzDiscussant: Kimberly TallBear, University of California, Berkeley

213. Models and simulations: Shaping science and society - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

*Kilen: K146Chair: Joakim Juhl, The Technical University of Denmark (DTU). Department of Management EngineeringParticipants:*The visual practice of modelling: Translating theorems toward practical implementation. Joakim Juhl, The Technical University of Denmark (DTU). Department of Management EngineeringImages of the Higgs Search: Producing Evidence in Large-Scale Collaborations. Martina Merz, University of LucerneTranslating Global Climate Models for Local Policy-Making. Liam Heaphy, University of Manchester214. (47) Screen realities, synthetic situations, and scopic media - I

*Kilen: K150Chairs: Niklas Woermann, SDU Odense, Uni of Constance; Vanessa Dirksen, University of Constance; Stefan Beljean, University of KonstanzParticipants:*Second Life as Synthetic Situation: Reorienting Goffman's Interaction Order. Ulrike Schultze, Southern Methodist University; JoAnn M. Brooks, Syracuse UniversityGo Live! User-Livestreams on the Internet. Heiko Kirschner, University of Dortmund GermanyGrindr: Empirical Observations on Some Contemporary Mediations of the Pick-Up-Line. Martin Stempfhuber, Johannes Gutenberg-Universität Mainz; Michael Liegl, Johannes Gutenberg University Mainz

Experiences of knowledge and uncertainty in locally-based on-line re-use networks. Christine Hine, University of Surrey

Monitor screening of energy markets: the enactment of economic transactions in Finnish electricity control centers. Antti Silvast, University of Helsinki

215. Medicine and health information

9:00 to 10:30 am

Kilen: K275

Chair: Dawn Goodwin, Lancaster University

Participants:

A realist analysis of the demise of the UK programme to construct a national EPR. Iain Crinson, St Georges, University of London

Infrastructure and Action: Making Do in the Shifting Material Ecology of a Hospital. Kathleen Pine, University of California, Irvine

Personalized medicine, Impersonal practice. Sheri Alpert, Indiana University Center for Bioethics

Learning about bodies: intersections of pedagogy, emotion and professional identities. Dawn Goodwin, Lancaster University; Laura Machin, Lancaster University; Adam Taylor, Lancaster University

216. "Ethnicity" and "Race" in Science and Technology

9:00 to 10:30 am

Kilen: Ks43

Chair: Dvora Yanow, Faculty of Social and Behavioral Sciences/Department of Sociology and Anthropology/University of Amsterdam AND Faculty of Social Sciences/Communication Science Department/Wageningen University

Participants:

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Lungs, Vitality, and Work: A History of Race and the Spirometer. Lundy Braun, Brown University. Department of Pathology and Laboratory Medicine and Africana Studies, Science and Technology Studies Program

Excavating Ethnic Options: Genetics and Identity at the Lower Manhattan African Burial Ground. Alondra Nelson, Columbia University

Diversity: The Multiple Versions of "Ethnicity" in Biomedical and Public Health Research in the Netherlands. Alana Proctor, Maastricht University; Anja Krumeich, Maastricht University; Agnes Meershoek, Maastricht University

Scientific Knowledge Of Race As Produced By And For Textbooks. Ann Morning, New York University

217. (07) The politics of techno-embodiment in the age of pharma commerce - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Kilen: Ks48

Chairs: Anna Bredström, Institute for Research on Migration, Ethnicity and Society, Linköping University, Sweden; Marianne Winther Jørgensen, Culture, Society and Media production; Dept for Studies of Social Change and Culture

Participants:

Articulations of Reproduction in the Design and Use of Ovulation Predictors. Joann Wilkinson, Lancaster University

Obesity science, hormones, and gender. Fei-Wen Cheng, Sociology Department, Tunghai University, Taiwan

Implanting childhood: the hormonal treatment of early onset puberty. Celia Roberts, Lancaster University

Dynamic Being: A Digital/Analog Analysis of the Technosocial Anthropology of Juvenile ADHD Care Decisions. Sabrina Weiss, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

218. (30) Eco-efficiency agendas: what role for techno-fixes?

9:00 to 10:30 am

Kilen: K54

Chairs: Les Levidow, Open University; Luigi Pellizzoni, University of Trieste, Italy

Participants:

Material politics of nutrient cycles -- viable recycling systems of manure on trial. Minna Kaljonen, Finnish Environment Institute, Environmental Policy Centre

Exploring the logic of eco-efficient service design. Matthew Cook, Open-University; Stephen Potter, Open-University; Per-Anders Langendahl, Open University

Eco-efficiency and the concept of “marginal land” in energy crop production. Orla Shortall, Centre for Applied Bioethics and Institute for Science and Society, University of Nottingham

Eco-efficient biofuels: techno-optimistic expectations for sustainability. Les Levidow, Open University

The use of techno-fixes in the international cooperation for the environment: the case of the Global Environmental Facility (GEF). Nicole Aguilar Gayard, University of Campinas; Maria Conceição da Costa, University of Campinas

219. (105) Governance of nanotechnologies: risks and benefits for development - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Kilen: Ground floor - K571

Chairs: Koen Beumer, Maastricht University; Wiebe E. Bijker, Maastricht University

Participants:

Nanotechnology and Development in Latin America: Rationales and Challenges. Noela Invernizzi, Federal University of Paraná; Ed-

gar Zayago Lau, Autonomous University of Zacatecas; Guillermo Foladori, Universidad Autónoma de Zacatecas

Nanocosmetics in Brazil. Denise Maria Nunes, Universidade Federal de Santa Catarina; Julia Silvia Guivant, Universidade Federal de Santa Catarina

Expectations of nanotechnology in India, South Africa and Kenya. Koen Beumer, Maastricht University

Assessing Equity and Equality in South Africa's Nanotechnology Initiative. Rodrigo Cortes, Georgia Institute of Technology; Susan Cozzens, Georgia Institute of Technology; Matthew Harsh, Arizona State University; Ogundiran Soumonni, Georgia Institute of Technology; Jameson Wetmore, Arizona State University; Thomas S Woodson, Georgia Institute of Technology

220. (62) Monitoring, identifying, displacing: on everyday surveillance & security practices - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SP112

Chair: Jutta Weber, Institute of Media Studies

Participants:

'Hi-Tech and Desirable': On Risk Management and Military Technology in Everyday Life. Jutta Weber, Institute of Media Studies

Mediating security and disabilities: the case of body scanners. Michael Nagenborg, University Tübingen; Anja Königseder, University of Tübingen

Premediated regimes of surveillance. Practices of preemptive crime reduction in Minority Report and law enforcement. Timo Kaerlein, University of Paderborn, Research Training Group Automatism

From visual information sorting to decision making: understanding image processing algorithms. Christoph Musik, University of Vienna

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

221. Being neither here nor there: Presences and absences in fieldwork, data and theory

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SP113

Participants:The politics of presence: making political contexts for bin contents. Natalie Gill, Lancaster UniversityHopeful presences and uncultured encounters: GenBank record EU805409.1. Tahani Nadim, GoldsmithsDealing with Presences and Absences in Landless Workers' Agro-ecological Communities in Espírito Santo, Brazil. Michalis Kontopodis, Universiteit van AmsterdamIn/visible Landscapes: Tactics of presence and absence in a wind energy controversy. Uli Beisel, University Halle-WittenbergDiscussant: Amade M'charek, Universiteit van Amsterdam222. (11) Smart Homes: designing care, work, care technologies, and living at home - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SP114

Chairs: Sisse Finken, University of Oslo; Christina Mörtberg, Linneaus University, SwedenParticipants:*Enacting Aging Bodies in Design of Welfare Technology. Marie Ertner, IT University of CopenhagenDesign of assistive, welfare technologies for healthy eating and active aging. Anne Moen, University of Oslo, Norway; Ingrid Svagård, Sintef, dept of Instrumentation, Oslo, Norway

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Beyond the smart home. Designing multimodal environments to support mastery. Tone Bratteteig, University of Oslo; Ina Wagner, University of OsloTechnology Acceptance of Home Care Service Providers. Susanne Giesecke, Austrian Institute of Technology223. (06) Evidence-based activism: patients' organizations and the governance of health - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SP201

Chairs: Vololona Rabearisoa, CSI Mines-ParisTech; Tiago Moreira, Durham University Madeleine Akrich, CSI Mines ParisTechParticipants:*Patients at the Zero Point: Uncertainty and Promises in Japanese Stem Cell Research. wakana suzuki, Kyoto universityThe dynamics of causes and conditions. Rareness of diseases in French and Portuguese patient organizations' engagement in research. Vololona Rabearisoa, CSI Mines-ParisTech; Michel Calton, CSI Mines-ParisTech; Angela Marques Filipe, London School of Economics; Joao Arriscado Nunes, CES University of Coimbra; Florence Paterson, CSI Mines-ParisTech; Vergnaud Frédéric, CSI Mines-ParisTechRe-presenting patient groups Today: from the US Orphan Drug Act to Rare Disease R&D Today. Pei Koay, Center for Genetic Research Ethics & Law (CGREAL), Case Western Reserve University (CWRU)Reframing Criticism in Mental Health. Patients' Movements in Switzerland (1970-2012). Virginie Stucki, Department of social and political sciences, University of Lausanne (Switzerland) (PhD Student) & University of Applied Sciences (HES-SO), Lausanne (Switzerland) (Professor)

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

224. Art and science studies: depicting design in nature and in artifacts

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SP202

Participants:Designing Nature: Contrasting Stories of Manipulation and Design from the Bioarts. Hannah Star Rogers, Cornell UniversityImag(e)ining Land and Sea: Visual artifacts of the HMS Challenger Expedition. Emma Zuroski, Cornell UniversityListening to Images, Looking at Sound: Sonic Skills in Field Ornithology. Joeri Bruyninckx, Maastricht UniversityCinematic actor assemblages. Kjetil Rodje, Simon Fraser UniversityDiscussant: Dehlia Hannah, Columbia University, Philosophy Department225. (52) Configuring Users and Design and Implementation practices - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SP205

Chair: Wouter Boon, Rathenau InstituteParticipants:*Installation and restoration of usership: The ongoing assemblage of telecare users. Tomás Sánchez-Criado, Universitat Oberta de CatalunyaChanneling ICT users' implicit knowledge into "innovativeness" in Living Laboratory practices. Sabrina Sauer, University of Twente'Pre-User' – Following the Fabrication of a Relational Concept. Ditte Nissen Storgaard, Oticon and University of Southern Denmark; Janet Kelly, Novo Nordisk and University of Southern DenmarkNegotiating autonomy and responsibility for autonomous military robots. Merel Noorman, University of Virginia

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

226. 3.11 and the structures of risk: Experts, politics, and social vulnerability

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SP207

Chair: Gabrielle Hecht, University of MichiganParticipants:*Experts' Responsibility on 3.11. Yuko Fujigaki, University of TokyoInvestigating 3.11: Fukushima and the Politics of Expert Inquiry. Scott Gabriel Knowles, Drexel UniversityThe "Structural Disaster" behind Success or Failure. Miwao Matsumoto, University of TokyoVulnerability and Inequality: A Case Study of the 3.11 Disaster. Ryuma Shineha, Graduate University for Advanced StudiesDiscussant: Gabrielle Hecht, University of Michigan227. (14) Beyond finality: design and displacement of death in biomedical practices - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SP208

Chairs: Klaus Hoeyer, University of Copenhagen; Linda F. Hogle, University of Wisconsin--MadisonParticipants:*Finality Undone: an introduction to the panel. Linda F. Hogle, University of Wisconsin--Madison; Klaus Hoeyer, University of CopenhagenThe Politics of Intimacy: Rethinking the End-of-Life Controversy. Anna Durnová, University of ViennaInformatic Selves and Information-Theoretic Death. Abou Ali Farman Farmaian, Department of Anthropology Bard CollegeCan death be re-designed? A theoretical experimentation with the concepts of agency and finality in stem cell science on Alzheimer's disease. Lotta Hautamäki, University of Helsinki

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

228. Problematizing collaboration: Assessing experience, expectations, and outcomes

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SP210

Participants:

Hot Spots and Hot Moments in Scientific Collaboration. Edward Hackett, Arizona State University; John Nathaniel Parker, National Center for Ecological Analysis and Synthesis

Knowledge-Intensive Work: A Trust Based Model. Simcha Jong, University College London; Sebastiano Massaro, University College London

Interrogating Collaboration: How Chemical Scientists define Collaboration and Responsibilities to Collaborators. Jennifer Croissant, University of Arizona; Laurel Smith-Doerr, Boston University

The Different Facets of Diversity: The Case of 'Interdisciplinarity' and Their Contrasting Effects on Scientific Impact. Ismael Rafols, University of Sussex; Alfredo Yegros-Yegros, Universitat Politècnica de Valencia; Pablo D'Este, CSIC-UPV Ingenio

Discussant: Kelly Moore, National Science Foundation

229. Beyond dual-use (part 1): Reconsidering the civilian-military connection

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SP212

Chair: Keelie L.E. Murdock, Rathenau Institute

Participants:

Changing Civil-Military Relationships in the Naval Shipbuilding Industry. Haico Te Kulve, University of Twente; Wim Smit, University of Twente

Constructing the Military User of Dual-use Technology. Judith Reppy, Cornell University

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Anthrax, SALT and Suspect Biological Weapons Research: Geopolitics and STS. Brian Balmer, University College London

Revolutionary Technology and International Security. Jürgen Altmann, Experimentelle Physik III, Technische Universität Dortmund

Discussant: Samuel Evans, Harvard University

230. (106) The shaping of international regulation and local practices

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SP213

Chair: Michael Soegaard Joergensen, Department of Management Engineering, Technical University of Denmark

Participants:

International Standardisation and Local Participatory Dynamics : The INTERNORM Project. Christophe Hauert, University of Lausanne; Marc Audétat, University of Lausanne; Danielle Bütschi Häberlin, University of Lausanne; Jean-Christophe Graz, University of Lausanne; Alain Kaufmann, University of Lausanne

Analyzing Imposed Management Systems Pragmatically or by contrasting 'Program and Practice'? Morten Bonde Ubbesen, Aarhus University, Denmark

Governing global health: the World Health Organization and the global tobacco treaty. Katherine E. Kenny, University of California, San Diego

Curbing Stubborn Objects: The challenge of probiotic innovation to regulation. Nina Margareta Honkela (ex Janasik), University of Helsinki; Mari Niva, National Consumer Research Centre, Helsinki, Finland; Sari Yli-Kauhaluoma, Aalto University

231. Methodologies and theories of scale

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SP214

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Chair: Max Liboiron, New York University

Participants:

Emerging Phenomenon and Scalar Fallacies. Max Liboiron, New York University

A Topological Approach to Social Innovation Measures. Ann-Christina Petersen Lange, Goldsmiths, University of London

Scalar Work and Scalar Regimes: The Patterned Production of Scale as a Property of Objects and a Quality of the Mundane. Charles Camic, Northwestern University; Christopher Steele, Northwestern University

Scale, Size, Complexity and Electronic Waste. John Lepawsky, Memorial University of Newfoundland.; Charles Mather, Memorial University

The very large and the very small: perspectives from animism and astrophysics. Istvan Praet, Roehampton University (London)

232. Spaces of anthropoietic knowledge: Where the human is known

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SP216

Chairs: Estrid Sørensen, Ruhr-University Bochum; Christina Brandt, Ruhr-University Bochum

Participants:

Concepts of 'Transhumanism': Perspectives from the history of sciences. Christina Brandt, Ruhr-University Bochum

Body images in times of social upheaval: Iconography and Governance. Miriam Eilers, Ruhr-University Bochum

ECG: „reading the most intimate secrets of the human heart“. Uwe Wippich, Ruhr-University Bochum

Knowing Children in and through Computer Game Regulation Practices. Jan Schank, Ruhr-University Bochum

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

The hybridity of anthropoietic knowledge in court. Estrid Sørensen, Ruhr-University Bochum

233. The multi-layer thinking to advance universal design in the 21st century

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SPso1

Chair: Mark Dyer, Trinity College Dublin

Participants:

Philosophical bases for the acceptability of Universal Design. Michel Puech, Sorbonne University, Paris, France

Building for All: Evidence Based Research. Mark Dyer, Trinity College Dublin; Thomas Grey, Trinity College Dublin; Eoghan O'Shea, Trinity College Dublin

Implementing Universal Design as part of International/National Policy. Gerald Craddock, CEUD NDA

The Relisation on the promise of a Universal Designed Country. Onny Eikhaug, Norwegian Design Council

234. (70) Science and the impact of organizational practices - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SPso3

Chair: Finn Hansson, Copenhagen Business School, Dept. of MPP

Participants:

Merit, Expertise and Measurement. Paul Wouters, Centre for Science and Technology Studies, Leiden University

When Scholarship is Measured. University Researcher's Perception of Performance Indicators. Poul Erik Mouritzen, University of Southern Denmark; Niels Opstrup, University of Southern Denmark

The impact of indicators - how evaluation shapes knowledge production. Sarah de Rijcke, Leiden University

Can we design a tool box for quality assessments in the SSH? Thed van Leeuwen, CWTS - Leiden University; Paul Wouters, Centre for Science and Technology Studies, Leiden University; Sarah de Rijcke, Centre for Science and Technology Studies, Leiden University

235. "Voices from within and outside the South: Defying STS epistemologies, boundaries and theories

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SPso5

Chair: Raoni Rajão, Federal University of Minas Gerais

Participants:

Sustaining the enterprise: Enacting sustainability standards for Tanzanian tea. Allison Loconto, Institut National de la Recherche Agronomique/Institut Francilien Recherche Innovation Societe, Université Paris-Est Marne-la-Vallée

Conceptualizing "Voices from within and outside the South." Raoni Rajão, Federal University of Minas Gerais; Ricardo B. Duque, St. Cloud State University; Rahul De, Indian Institute of Management, Bangalore

From Coast to Deep-sea: the development of fishing technology and rise of islanders' identity in Xiao Liu Qiu. Chungshin Li, Graduate Institute of History, National Changhua University of Education

Discussant: Rahul De, Indian Institute of Management, Bangalore

236. (15) Designing and imaging life - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SPso7

Chairs: Manuela Perrotta, Norwegian University of Science and Technology; Kristin Spilker, Department of Interdisciplinary Studies of Culture, NTNU

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Participants:

Cell imaging/imagining the cell. Merete Lie, NTNU

Body-enacted: Pleasure and Anxiety in Prenatal Screening and Testing in Taiwan. Li-Wen Shih, Sociology Department, Lancaster University, Lancaster, UK

Holding life together: Home-made and professional designs of egg cells and sperm cells. Kristin Spilker, Department of Interdisciplinary Studies of Culture, NTNU

Embryos-in-the-making: the creation of life in reproductive laboratories. Manuela Perrotta, Norwegian University of Science and Technology

237. (23) + (31) Configuring Climates - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SPso8

Chairs: Aleksandra Lis, Central European University in Budapest; Ingrid Lippert, Augsburg University; Lea Schick, IT University; Arno Simons, Technische Universität Berlin

Participants:

Under the Dome of Things: Media Art's Engagement with Bruno Latour (Peter Sloterdijk as best man). Marc Tuters, University of Amsterdam

Claiming Better Communication. A European public debate on Climate Change. Giuseppe Pellegrini, University of Padova

"Future citizens" discussing issues of today. How do children handle climate change issues in relation to their own lives? Malin Ideland, Malmö University; Claes Malmberg, Malmö University

Sustainable Development as "Troubling" Knowledge in Teacher Education. Hanna Sjögren, Linköping University

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

238. New information and communication technologies and old organizational challenges

9:00 to 10:30 am

*Solbjerg Plads: SPs10Chair: Daniel Kreiss, University of North CarolinaParticipants:*Developing Technologies of Control: Producing Political Participation in Online Electoral Campaigning. Daniel Kreiss, University of North Carolina at Chapel HillFrom Public Journalism to the Public's Journalism? Innovation and Tradition in the "Next Mayor" Project. Christopher W. Anderson, City University of New YorkThe Technological Basis of Organizational Membership: Passive Democratic Feedback on Third-Wave Membership Organizations. David Karpf, University of PennsylvaniaConceptualizing interactive technologies as environmental infrastructures. Heather Wiltse, Indiana University; Erik Stolterman, Indiana UniversityDiscussant: Daniel Kreiss, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill239. (63) Biotechnologies and immigration - I

*Solbjerg Plads: SPs12Chair: Torsten Heinemann, Goethe University FrankfurtParticipants:*Biological citizenship revisited: The use of DNA analysis by immigration authorities in Europe. Ilpo Helén, University of Helsinki; Thomas Iemke, Goethe University, Frankfurt am MainBorder Control and the Shaping of a Non-Public. An Actor-Network Perspective on Europe's Technological Frontiers. Huub Dijkstra, University of Amsterdam

Biopolitics and Ethics at the Greece-Turkey Border. Ozgun E Topak, Queen's UniversityDNA and Immigration: A comparative analysis of DNA testing for family reunification in Austria, Finland, and Germany. Torsten Heinemann, Goethe University Frankfurt; Ursula J. Naue, University of Vienna; Anna-Maria Tapaninen, University of Helsinki240. Affective ecologies I

9:00 to 10:30 am

*Solbjerg Plads: SPs13Chair: Natasha Myers, York UniversityParticipants:*Smell and the City: Mapping the Olfactory Ecologies of Urban Space. Kelly Ladd, York UniversityCanine Cartography: On the Biopolitics of Poodles. Peter Hobbs, York UniversityExploring the Local Ecologies of Farmstead Cheesemaking. Heather Paxson, MITDiscussant: Etienne Benson, Max Planck Institute for the History of Science241. (20) Rearranging research relations: the making of new forms of collaboration between STS and science and engineering - I

9:00 to 10:30 am

*Solbjerg Plads: SPs14Chairs: Susan Molyneux-Hodgson, University of Sheffield; Paul Anthony Martin, University of SheffieldParticipants:

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Between a rock and a hard place: the future of social science engagement with the life sciences. Paul Anthony Martin, University of Sheffield

From an ethics of restriction to an ethics of construction The role of ELSA researchers. Rune Nydal, Department of Philosophy. Norwegian university of science and technology

Collaboration as a research method? Navigating social scientific involvement in synthetic biology. Jane Calvert, University of Edinburgh

Promiscuity and Purity: Some thoughts on collaborative relationships. Andrew Balmer, University of Manchester

242. Situated technological literacy in organisations

9:00 to 10:30 am

Solbjerg Plads: SPs16

Chair: Cathrine Hasse, Aarhus University

Participants:

Caring for Plastic – accounting for simulation-based training in nursing education. Ann Katrine Bønnelykke Soffer, Aarhus University, School of Education

Modes of Ethics in Professionalism - A Study of Moral Literacy in Technological Care Work. Katia Dupret Søndergaard, University of Aarhus; Jo Krøjer, Roskilde University Center Learning Relational Technological Literacy. Cathrine Hasse, Aarhus University

Teachers perspectives on technology in their teaching practice. Ann-Therese Arstorp, Aarhus University

Approaching dimensions of technology in practice: Forming an ecological view from the views of teachers and nurses. Jamie Wallace, University of Aarhus

Discussants: Peter-Paul Verbeek, University of Twente; Don Ihde, Stony Brook University

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

243. Categorical cartographies: Property, place and displacement in global health research

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: D.2.20

Chair: Javier Lezaun, Institute for Science, Innovation and Society, University of Oxford

Participants:

Brazilian Probes, African Pills: History and Resistance in Global Health. Ari Samsky, Princeton University

Patented Drugs and their 'Others': Interrogating the Political and Social Meanings of Counterfeit Medicines in sub-Saharan Africa. Emilie Cloatre, Kent Law School, University of Kent

Telescoping Time to Discovery: Spatial and Temporal Domaining in Global Drug Development Partnerships. Catherine Montgomery, Institute for Science, Innovation & Society, University of Oxford

Intellectual Property Rights in Clinical Trials and Modes of Collaboration in South Asia. Salla Sariola, Durham University

Discussant: Rob Hagendijk, Universiteit van Amsterdam

244. Entanglements of science and justice (part 2)

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Kilen: K143

Chair: Jennifer Fishman, McGill University

Participants:

Morality, Justice, and Biomedical Obstetrics: Views from a Rural Indonesian Clinic. Vanessa Hildebrand, Case Western Reserve University Justice in the context of family balancing. Michelle McGowan, Case Western Reserve University

The Ethics of Algorithms. Kelly A. Joyce, College of William and Mary

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

The New Sexual Politics of Cancer: From Oncoviruses to Sexual Health. Laura Mamo, San Francisco State University; Steven Epstein, Northwestern University

Discussant: Laura Mamo, San Francisco State University

245. Models and simulations: Shaping science and society - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Kilen: K146

Chair: Joakim Juhl, The Technical University of Denmark (DTU). Department of Management Engineering

Participants:

Problem identification through mathematical models. Stig Andur Pedersen, Roskilde University

Validation of Simulation Models. Muniza Rehman, Section for Philosophy and Science Studies, Roskilde University

Weather Vane Science: Simulation in the Era of Academic Capitalism. Steve G. Hoffman, University at Buffalo, SUNY

Whose Weather Is It Anyway? Calculating Risk at the National Weather Service. Phaedra Daipha, Rutgers University

246. (47) Screen realities, synthetic situations, and scopic media - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Kilen: K150

Chairs: Niklas Woermann, SDU Odense, Uni of Constance; Vanessa Dirksen, University of Constance; Stefan Beljean, University of Konstanz

Participants:

Life on screens: monitoring hearts in home and clinic. Karen Dam Nielsen, Centre for Medical Science and Technology Studies, University of Copenhagen

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Learning to interact in screen-mediated social situations. Erna Håland, NTNU-IVR; Line Melby, Norwegian University of Science and Technology

Immersion and Emergence in Synthetic Situations. Vanessa Dirksen, University of Constance

Infra-setting: ethnomethodology for Information Infrastructure studies. Gian Marco Campagnolo, University of Edinburgh; Giolo Fele, University of Trento; Neil Pollock, University of Edinburgh; Robin Williams, University of Edinburgh

Videocommunication and the performing ordinary and institutional situations as multimedia events. Christian Licoppe, Telecom Paristech

247. (03) Dis/placing medical technologies in theory and practice

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Kilen: K275

Chairs: Jenna Grant, University of Iowa; Lara Braff, University of Chicago; Nayantara Sheoran, George Mason University

Participants:

Designing risk(y) subjects: Survey research as an instrument of biomedicalization. Aaron T Norton, University of California, Davis

Movements and emplacements of drinking: the ingestion of alcohol among an Amazonian people. Camila Becattini P. de Caux, Museu Nacional/UFRJ - Brasil

Visual practices and routinization of ultrasound in Phnom Penh. Jenna Grant, University of Iowa

Medical Technology, Technological Artifact: A Global Hospital in Maine. Susan E Bell, Bowdoin College

Discussant: Ayo Wahlberg, University of Copenhagen

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

248. Steve Fuller's "Humanity 2.0"

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Kilen: Ks43

Chair: Francis Remedios, Editorial Board Member Social EpistemologyParticipants:*Post-humans, enhancement and the species identity problem. Sarah Chan, The University of ManchesterA Manifest Apathy: Reflections on the Prospect of Humanity 2.0. Thomas Basbøll, Copenhagen Business SchoolThe Biological Challenge to the Social Sciences and the Response of Intelligent Design. Gregory Sandstrom, Lithuania University of Educational SciencesWhere Is the 'There' in the Posthuman 'Being There'? David M. Berry, Swansea UniversityDiscussant: Steve Fuller, University of Warwick249. (07) The politics of techno-embodiment in the age of pharma commerce - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Kilen: Ks48

Chairs: Anna Bredström, Institute for Research on Migration, Ethnicity and Society, Linköping University, Sweden; Marianne Winther Jørgensen, Culture, Society and Media production, Dept for Studies of Social Change and CultureParticipants:*New materialism and political potential: A critique of Karen Barad's agential realism. Marianne Winther Jørgensen, Culture, Society and Media production; Dept for Studies of Social Change and CultureLearning Nico-Rette from Nico-Wrong: Pharmaceutical Designs on Nicotine and the Displacement of the Cigarette-Smoker. Mark Elam, University of Gothenburg

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Ethnicity and Antidepressants: Racialising the "Neurochemical Self". Anna Bredström, Institute for Research on Migration, Ethnicity and Society, Linköping University, SwedenProductivity quotas in the regulatory evaluation of drugs for safety. Jennifer Cuffe250. (100) Displacing the laboratory and STS with it: new modes of engagement - What is a lab? - I

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Kilen: Ks54

Chair: Ana Viseu, York UniversityParticipants:*Producing Credits and Profits: Biotechnology in China's Scientific Transformation. Wen-Ching Sung, University of TorontoNeoliberalism, Innovation, and the Interpretive Potential of Laboratory Studies. Mary Ebeling, Drexel University; Amy E. Slaton, Drexel UniversityTechnology Assessment as 'Laboratory' – On the role of TA in the process of shaping emerging technologies. Torsten Fleischer, Institute for Technology Assessment, Karlsruhe Institute of TechnologyGive Me a Laboratory and I Will Raise the World...Out of Poverty? Margarita Rayzberg, NorthwesternDeveloping scientific instruments, shaping new laboratories. Federico Neresini, University of Padua251. (105) Governance of nanotechnologies: risks and benefits for development - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Kilen: Ground floor - Ks71

Chairs: Koen Beumer, Maastricht University; Wiebe E. Bijker, Maastricht University

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Participants:

China's High-Tech Push: Can Nanotechnology Contribute to More Equitable Development? Richard Appelbaum, University of California, Santa Barbara; Rachel Parker, University of California, Santa Barbara

How government and labs in universities are designed and engaged in developing Nano-technologies? Feng Li, Tsinghua University

Unlikely Allies and Competing Authorities in Chemical Regulation. Alissa Cordner, Brown University; Phil Brown, Brown University; Margaret Mulcahy, Brown University

252. (62) Monitoring, identifying, displacing: on everyday surveillance & security practices - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP112

Chair: Michael Nagenborg, University Tübingen

Participants:

Vernacular Video Analysis: The digitalization of the professional vision. Rene Tuma, TU Berlin

Norms in information systems for sustainability. Baki Cakici, Stockholm University

Banking on (the) Line: Security & Authentication Practices in the Minimization of Internet Crime. Lena Ewertsson, Halmstad University and Gothenburg Research Institute, University of Gothenburg

Seeing like a citizen: Challenging surveillance in the biometric state. Aletta Norval, Department of Government, University of Essex; Elpida Prasopoulou, Department of Government, University of Essex

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

253. (98) Mapping the dynamics of the social sciences and humanities

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP113

Chair: David Budtz Pedersen, Center for Semiotics, Aarhus University

Participants:

Mapping SSH - mixed methods and mixed feelings. Katja Mayer, Department of Social Studies of Science, University of Vienna

EASST conferences (1983-2010): mapping the evolution of STS in Europe. Fred Steward, Policy Studies Institute, Westminster U; Athena Piterou, University of Greenwich

Inscribed and circumscribed by citations – Indicators, impact and quality in the humanities and social sciences. Gustaf Nelhans, University of Gothenburg

254. (11) Smart Homes: designing care, work, care technologies, and living at home - II + Disability studies and STS

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP114

Chairs: Sisse Finken, University of Oslo; Christina Mörtberg, Linneaus University, Sweden; Vasilis Galis, Linköping University; Ursula J. Naue, University of Vienna

Participants:

Ability or Disability - Design for whom? Hanne Lindegaard, DTU Management Engineering, Technical University of Denmark; Søsner Brodersen, Department of Development and Planning, Aalborg University

Smart homes: in- and exclusions in design. Sisse Finken, University of Oslo; Christina Mörtberg, Linneaus University, Sweden

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Politics of Hearing' – The appliance of new, assistive technologies in context of Deafness on the example of the Cochlear Implant. Stefanie Wrba, University of Vienna, Department of Political Science

Disability hybrid forums in the Senate Departments of Berlin. Katrin Grueber, IMEW; Vasilis Galis, Linköping University

Discussant: Laura Mauldin, City University of New York

255. (06) Evidence-based activism: patients' organizations and the governance of health - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP201

Chairs: Vololona Rabearisoa, CSI Mines-ParisTech; Tiago Moreira, Durham University; Madeleine Akrich, CSI Mines ParisTech

Participants:

„Well, it's not healthy.“ Negotiating embodied knowledge and medico-moral definitions of obesity. Theresa Oehler, University of Vienna

ADHD in France and Ireland: Parents' groups' scientific and political framing of an unsettled condition. Claire Edwards, University College Cork, Ireland; Etaine Howlett, University College Cork; Madeleine Akrich, CSI Mines ParisTech; Vololona Rabearisoa, CSI Mines-ParisTech; Orla O'Donovan, University College Cork

From silence to epistemic empowerment: the creation of a collaborative device around stuttering. Daniel Neves Costa, Centre for Social Studies

Rearranging aetiologies and caring practices: Transgender in the making. Esther Ortega, Universidad de Santiago de Compostela; Carmen Romero-Bachiller, Universidad Complutense de Madrid

Childbirth activism as evidence-based activism. Madeleine Akrich, CSI Mines ParisTech; Maire Leane, University College Cork; Celia Roberts, Lancaster University; Joao Arriscado Nunes, CES University of Coimbra

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

256. Investigating citizenship in a technological culture

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP202

Chair: Erik Aarden, STS Program, Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University

Participants:

Citizenship and security technologies: a critical perspective. Govert Valkenburg, Zuyd University

Privatizing Biomedical Citizenship. Jonathan Kahn, Hamline University

(In)visible demarcations: Ambivalence in engagement on technology-related issues. Ulrike Felt, University of Vienna

Exploring Sites of Scientific Citizenship: mediating a 'Low Carbon Scotland'. Beverley Jane Gibbs, University of Nottingham, United Kingdom

Discussant: Sheila Jasanoff, Harvard University

257. (52) Non-users, neglected users and anti-users - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP205

Chair: Morten Krogh Petersen, DTU Management Engineering, Section of Innovation and Sustainability

Participants:

The Methodological Mind-set: How methods of gerontechnological user involvement foreground ageist images of older persons. Alexander Peine, Utrecht University; Louis Neven, Utrecht University

Users, non-users and 'resistance' to pharmaceuticals. Kate Wein-er, University of Manchester; Catherine M Will, University of Sussex

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

How diversity gets lost: Age and gender in design practices of information and communication technologies. Nelly Oudshoorn, University Twente; Louis Neven, University of Twente

The paradoxical powers of anti-users: examples from a pilot implementation of a hospital information system. Line Melby, University of Oslo; Pieter Toussaint, Norwegian University of Science and Technology

258. Citizen-science: The 3.11 disasters and non-experts in action

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP207

Chair: Kohta Juraku, Tokyo Denki University

Participants:

Activities of Concerned Scientists and Engineers of Japan after the Fukushima Accident. Kotaro Kuroda, Meijo University

Functions of Twitter after 3.11 Disaster: Deliberative Tool or Echo Chamber Apparatus? Mikihiro Tanaka, Waseda University

The Nuclear Accident in Fukushima and Popular Views on Science in Japan. Toshinori Yamaki, Tokyo Institute of Technology / Fukushima Prefectural Tamura High School

Discussant: Kohta Juraku, Tokyo Denki University

259. (14) Beyond finality: design and displacement of death in biomedical practices - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP208

Chairs: Klaus Hoeyer, University of Copenhagen; Linda F. Hogle, University of Wisconsin--Madison

Participants:

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Signing Off: Whole Body Donation and its Dis-contents. Susan E Lederer, University of Wisconsin School of Medicine and Public Health

Orchestrating the death of the organ donor. Anja Marie Bornø Jensen, Department of Public Health, University of Copenhagen

Hard graft: Living on after heart transplantation. Margrit Shildrick, Linköping University

Simulating resuscitation – material and social practices as mediators of knowledge and meaning. Karolina Lindh, Department of Arts and Cultural Sciences, Lund University, Sweden

Discussion. Klaus Hoeyer, University of Copenhagen; Linda F. Hogle, University of Wisconsin--Madison

260. (49) Design practices: material-discursive entanglements and interventionist approaches - I

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP210

Chair: Yvonne Dittrich, IT University Copenhagen

Participants:

Critical Design Practice with Crises in Mind. Lisa Anne Wood, Lancaster University; Monika Buscher, Centre for Mobilities Research, Lancaster University; Leonardo Ramirez, Fraunhofer Institute FIT, Bonn, Germany

Three Regimes of Technoscience. Andrew Feenberg, Simon Fraser University Affective codings and discursive plasticity. Doris Allhutter, Austrian Academy of Sciences, ITA

Contested strategies for user involvement in product development. Ulrik Jørgensen, Aalborg University; Yutaka Yoshinaka, Technical University of Denmark

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

261. Beyond dual-use (part 2): Reconsidering the relationship between science and security

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP212

Chair: Haico Te Kulve, University of TwenteParticipants:*The H5N1 Controversy: Where Science Studies Meets Intelligence Practitioners. Kathleen M Vogel, Cornell UniversityA Bulwark at the Border of Science and Technology: The ontological foundations for a scientific commons in the age of Dual-Use concerns. David Koepsell, Technical University DelftDual-Use Dynamics: Exploring the Connections between Concept and Context. Keelie L.E. Murdock, Rathenau Institute; Barend van der Meulen, Rathenau InstituteDiscussant: Barend van der Meulen, Rathenau Institute262. (104) The governance of innovation and socio-technical systems: design and displacements - I

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP213

Chairs: Susana Borrás, Copenhagen Business School; Jakob Edler, University of ManchesterParticipants:*The Governance of Change in Socio-technical and Innovation Systems: Building blocks for a theory. Susana Borrás, Copenhagen Business School; Jakob Edler, University of ManchesterGovernance of the Discontinuation of Socio-Technical Systems. Stefan Kuhlmann, University of Twente; Peter Stegmaier, Department of Science, Technology, and Policy Studies; Vincent Visser, University of Twente

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

The governance of innovation and innovation in governance. Jeremy Rayner, University of SaskatchewanTechnology decision making processes and innovation indicators. Nuno Boavida, Karlsruhe Institute of Technology (KIT) - Institute for Technology Assessment and System Analysis (ITAS)263. (74) Knowing and working in hybrid research spaces - I

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP214

Chair: Maximilian Fochler, University of ViennaParticipants:*Art, genomics and method. Art-science as 'third space'. Matthias Wienroth, University of Edinburgh; Pippa Goldschmidt, ESRC Genomics Policy and Research ForumThe Visualizing Subject and the Art/Science Production Process. Keith A Woodward, University of Wisconsin-Madison; Harriet H. M. Hawkins, Royal Holloway University of London; Sallie A Marston, University of ArizonaWhat are science classrooms for? Research in hybrid classroom spaces. David Stroupe, University of WashingtonThe tension between academic knowledge production and online peer production. Eduard Aibar, Universitat Oberta de Catalunya264. (36) Practice theory and beyond: emerging approaches to studying energy consumption - I

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP216

Chairs: Kirsten Gram-Hanssen, Danish Building Research Institute, Aalborg University; Toke Haunstrup Christensen, Danish Building Research Institute, Aalborg University; Ruth Rettie, Kingston University; Kevin Burchell, Kingston University

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Participants:

An Interdisciplinary Approach to Researching Residential Energy Consumption: A Holistic Practices Focus. Chris Foulds, University of East Anglia

Performing ultra-low energy consumption in passive houses. Michael Ornetzeder, Austrian Academy of Sciences

The learning of energy efficient technologies. Charlotta Isaksson, University West

Projects, activities and appliances: A new energy order. Helena Karresand, Linköping University

How can Central Heating Installation Influence Habitual Space Heating Practices? Faye Wade, UCL - Energy Institute

265. On STS and Psychology

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs01

Chair: Marcia Oliveira Moraes, Universidade Federal Fluminense

Participants:

Blindness in action: Notes on practices of rehabilitation with people visually disabled. Marcia Oliveira Moraes, Universidade Federal Fluminense

Psychological researches as subjectivities factories: the naïve subject designs. Arthur Arruda Leal Ferreira, Federal University of Rio de Janeiro

The Mental Test as a Boundary Object in the Early-20th-Century Russian 'Child Science'. Andy Byford, Durham University, UK

266. (70) Science and the impact of organizational practices - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs03

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Chair: Finn Hansson, Copenhagen Business School, Dept. of MPP

Participants:

On the way to academic search engine optimization? René König, Karlsruhe Institute of Technology

Negative Impacts: The Role of Journal Impact Factor in Scientific Publishing. Edwin Siu, Florida State University, Program in History and Philosophy of Science

Researcher Profiles: Accounting for Nonstandard Scholarly Output. Clifford Tatum, Leiden University - Centre for Science and Technology Studies; Paul Wouters, Centre for Science and Technology Studies, Leiden University

Covering scholarly books in bibliographic databases: promises and problems. Frederik Thomas Verleysen, University of Antwerp (ECOM-UA)

Changing governance of research activities: transnational convergence vs. diverse impacts. Inga Ulricane-Ozolins, University of Twente

267. (94) Emotions and affects in science: communities, spaces, and bodies - I

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs05

Chairs: Staffan Bergwik, Dept. for History of Science and Ideas Uppsala University; Helena Pettersson, Umeå University

Participants:

Imaging Famine: Photography, Philanthropy and the Global Circulation of Emotions. Anindita Nag, Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi

Imitating emotions? Hans Pettersson and the passions of early twentieth century oceanography. Staffan Bergwik, Dept. for History of Science and Ideas Uppsala University

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Post-War Information Systems and the Digitization of Anxiety. Luke Stark, Department of Media, Culture, and Communication, New York University

On the Margins of Scientific Reports: Archaeology, Local Communities and Emotions in Eastern Turkey. Laurent Dissard, University of Pennsylvania

Mexican varieties of maize: the result of emotional knowledge production. Wendy Cano, University of the Basque Country (UPV/EHU); Andoni Ibarra, University of the Basque Country

268. (15) Knowledge production in the life sciences - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs07

Chairs: Manuela Perrotta, Norwegian University of Science and Technology; Kristin Spilker, Department of Interdisciplinary Studies of Culture, NTNU

Participants:

Knowing the (blood) stem cell: Natural kind or biomedical construct? Christine Hauskeller, University of Exeter, Sociology and Philosophy; Alison Kraft, University of Nottingham

Doing Research from Platform 9 ¾. Marie Auensen Antonsen, NTNU, Trondheim

Sankofa Science-Making: A new-old toolkit for designing participatory science. Ruha Benjamin, Boston University

Rosettes don't exist, but are very real! assunta viteritti, University of Rome Sapienza

269. (23) + (31) Configuring Climates - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs08

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Chairs: Lea Schick, IT University; Arno Simons, Technische Universität Berlin; Aleksandra Lis, Central European University in Budapest; Ingmar Lippert, Augsburg University

Participants:

Sociotechnical imaginaries in Polish energy policy – preliminary analysis. Agata Stasik, Institute of Sociology, University of Warsaw

From Global to Local: The Civic Epistemologies of Urban Climate Change. Michael Mendez, UC Berkeley

A history of the Passive House. The (in)stability of an immutable mobile. Liana Mueller, NTNU; Thomas Berker, Norwegian University of Science and Technology

Shifting Aesthetics of Sustainable Energy Infrastructure. Elizabeth Monoian, Society for Cultural Exchange; Robert Ferry, Land Art Generator Initiative

270. (84) Aesthetics in technological practices - I

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs10

Chairs: Dick Willems, University of Amsterdam; Jeannette Pols, Amsterdam Medical Centre

Participants:

Aesthetics and Technological Innovation in Healthcare. Dick Willems, University of Amsterdam; Jeannette Pols, Amsterdam Medical Centre

Aesthetics as a technology of care in mental health services. Brigit Morris Colton, Lancaster University

An aesthetics of care? Attraction, attachment and alignment in online multiple sclerosis communities. Fadhila Mazanderani, University of Warwick; John Powell, University of Warwick

Cultures of Design in craft livelihoods: Interventions and Ideals. Annapurna Mamidipudi, Maastricht University; Wiebe E. Bijker, Maastricht University

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

271. (63) Biotechnologies and immigration - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs12

Chair: Ilpo Helén, University of HelsinkiParticipants:*The Ethics of DNA analysis for family reunification. Martin G. Weiss, University of Klagenfurt / Department of PhilosophyBiotechnologies of the Border: The “data bodies” within Eurodac. Vassilis S. Tsianos, University of Hamburg, School of Economics and Social Sciences; Brigitta Kuster, University of Hamburg, Department of SociologyCategories of ‘Migrants’, ‘Race’ or ‘Ethnicity’ in Genetics and Medicine – the German Case. Andrea zur Nieden, Institut für Geschichte der Medizin, Heinrich-Heine-Universität Düsseldorf, Germany272. Affective ecologies II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs13

Chair: Maria Puig de la Bellacasa, University of LeicesterParticipants:*Shifting grounds: recomposing soil ecologies. Maria Puig de la Bellacasa, University of Leicester; Dimitris Papadopoulos, University of LeicesterAffective Ecologies, Atmospheric Chemistries, and the Sciences of Plant Communication. Natasha Myers, York UniversityTracing Nature’s Displacements: The European Expansion of a Bird Species. Jens Lachmund, Maastricht UniversityDiscussant: Stefan Helmreich, MIT Anthropology

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

273. (20) Rearranging research relations: the making of new forms of collaboration between STS and science and engineering - II

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs14

Chairs: Susan Molyneux-Hodgson, University of Sheffield; Paul Anthony Martin, University of SheffieldParticipants:*‘We must avoid another GM!’ Synthetic biology’s call for help from social scientists. Claire Marris, King’s College LondonSecuring the Data Economy: translation, entente, sousveillance. Madeleine J Murtagh, University of Leicester; Barnaby Murtagh, University of Leicester; Ipek Demir, University of Leicester; K Neil Jenkins, University of Newcastle; Susan E Wallace, University of Leicester; Phillippe LaFlamme, Ontario Institute for Cancer Research; Vincent Ferretti, Ontario Institute for Cancer Research; Paul R Burton, University of LeicesterCreating a Developmental State out of “Nano”? Rationales and Rhetoric of Government Funding for Nanotechnology in the Developing World. So Young Kim, Korea Advanced Institute of Science and Technology274. (92) Connecting and comparing concepts of practice - I

11:00 to 12:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs16

Chairs: Elizabeth Shove, Lancaster University; Nicola Jane Spurling, Manchester University; Gordon Walker, Lancaster UniversityParticipants:*Pragmatist, praxeological, or performative? Versions of practice theory, their philosophical roots, and a way forward. Niklas Woermann, SDU Odense, Uni of Constance

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Standardising practices: the circulation of organic farming through certification. Maarten van der Kamp, University of Cambridge

Theories of practice and socio-technical system transition. Matt Watson, University of Sheffield

Mol meets Knorr Cetina: Two concepts of practice that are currently not on speaking terms. Stefan Laube, Institute for Advanced Studies (IHS), Vienna; Katja Schoenian, Institute for Advanced Studies (IHS), Vienna, Department of Sociology

277. (08) New forms of expertise and the new understanding of human difference in autism research and care

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: D.2.20

Chairs: Gil Eyal, Columbia University; Daniel Navon, Columbia University

Participants:

Redefining Autism through a Genetic Lens. Jennifer Singh, Georgia Institute of Technology

Autism as an 'Epidemic of Signification': Exploring the Affective Terrain of Autism Activism. Michael Orsini, University of Ottawa; Sarah Wiebe, University of Ottawa

Autism and performance in visual analytics: a research programme. Richard Arias-Hernandez, Simon Fraser University

The trading zone of autism genetics and the emergence of new categories of human difference. Daniel Navon, Columbia University; Gil Eyal, Columbia University

Discussant: Sarah Richardson, Harvard University

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

278. Development and STS: empirical diversity, theory and methods

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Kilen: K143

Chairs: Veronica Brodén, Linköping University; Wenda Bauchspies, Georgia Institute of Technology

Participants:

The charismatic boundary object: Children, XOs, and the myth of neoliberal education. Morgan Ames, Stanford University

Future Tense: Developing notions of ICT use in Jamaica. Kaiton Williams, Cornell University

Knowledge on the move: Understanding development aid. Hilde Reinertsen, Centre for Technology, Innovation, and Culture, University of Oslo

Organic Development: Reagency and the Production of Knowledge. Antony Palackal Varghese, Loyola College of Social Sciences; Wesley Shrum, Louisiana State University; Paige Miller, University of Wisconsin, River Falls; Mark Schafer, Louisiana State University; Matthew LeBlanc, Louisiana State University

Some of the Trees in the STS/Development Forest and Their Challenges to Theory. Veronica Brodén, Linköping University; Wenda Bauchspies, Georgia Institute of Technology

Innovation in Informal Settings – a research agenda. Susan Cozens, Georgia Institute of Technology; Judith Sutz, Universidad de la Republica Uruguay

279. Spatiotemporalities I - Infrastructure and the Long Now

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Kilen: K146

Chair: David Ribes, Georgetown University

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Participants:

Data bite man: the work of sustaining a long-term study. David Ribes, Georgetown University; Steven Jackson, University of Michigan

Time to Degree: How Graduate Students Experience the Long Term. R. Stuart Geiger, UC-Berkeley

Infrastructure cascades for interesting times. Ben Li, University of Oulu

Infrastructure Time: Long-term Matters in Continuing Design. Karen S Baker, UIUC - University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign; Florence Millerand, Université du Québec à Montréal; Helena Karasti, University of Oulu, Finland

Discussants: Geoffrey Bowker, University of California-Irvine Eeva Furman, Finnish Environment Institute

280. (47) Screen realities, synthetic situations, and scopic media - III

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Kilen: K150

Chairs: Niklas Woermann, SDU Odense, Uni of Constance; Vanessa Dirksen, University of Constance; Stefan Beljean, University of Konstanz

Participants:

Looking at computer screens: from reflection to diffraction patterns. Felipe Raglianti, Sociology Department, Lancaster University

In the Wild and Under Attack. Dismounted Infantry Combat and the Limits of Mediatization. Stefan Beljean, University of Konstanz

The Scientific Styles of e-Research. Ralph Schroeder, University of Oxford; Eric T. Meyer, University of Oxford

Spontaneous strategies in innovation networks: Materialities in the stabilization of virtual worlds. Emil Krastrup Husted, Department of Organization, Copenhagen Business School; Ursula Plesner, Copenhagen Business School

281. Transparency and public engagement

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Kilen: K275

Chair: Mikkel Flyverbom, Copenhagen Business School

Participants:

Organizational transparency in the Internet industry. Mikkel Flyverbom, Copenhagen Business School

Radical Transparency as an Ideology of Control. Jan Nolin, The Swedish School of Library and Information Science, University of Borås; Nasrine Olson, The Swedish School of Library and Information Science

Science engaging Society: An Experiment in Co-Production. Bela Irina Passos Natário Castro, Centre for Social Studies; Daniel Neves Costa, Centre for Social Studies; Rita Serra, Centre for Social Studies; Sandra Silva, Institute for Molecular and Cell Biology; José Julio Borlido-Santos, Institute for Molecular and Cell Biology; Sónia Martins, Institute for Molecular and Cell Biology; Joao Arriscado Nunes, CES University of Coimbra

282. On the journal Social Epistemology's twenty-fifth anniversary

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Kilen: K543

Chair: James Collier, Virginia Tech

Participants:

Designing the Reception of Academic Work: Elements of Social Epistemology's Way Forward. James Collier, Virginia Tech

Can an Open-Ended World Be the Basis for an Open Society? A 21st Century Challenge for Social Epistemology. Steve Fuller, University of Warwick

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

The Social Epistemology That Isn't But Could Be. Joan Leach, University of Queensland

283. (71) The impact of 'impact': public-making and pseudo science-engagement - I

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Kilen: Ks48

Chair: Richard Watermeyer, Cardiff University

Participants:

Engaging stakeholders in science and technology: Adapted European Awareness Scenario Workshops in the INPROFOOD project. Christine Urban, Science Shop Vienna; Michael Straehle, Science Shop Vienna

Should I stay or should I go? - The role of the scientist in the decision to pursue stem cell treatments abroad. Megan Munsie, Stem Cells Australia

Innovations in Public Engagement and Participatory Performance of the Nations. Mikko Rask, National Consumer Research Centre Finland; Saule Maciukaite-Zviniene, Research and Higher Education Monitoring and Analysis Centre; Jurgita Petrauskienė, Research and Higher Education Monitoring and Analysis Centre

Challenging the "strategic maneuvering" of life scientists in public dialogue. Koen Dortmans, Radboud University; Maud Radstake, CSG Centre for Society and the Life Sciences, Radboud University; Tsjalling Swierstra, Maastricht University

284. (100) Displacing the laboratory and STS with it: new modes of engagement - Social scientists and the lab - II

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Kilen: Ks54

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Chair: Amy E. Slaton, Drexel University

Participants:

Big Social Science Lab for Small Technology: Interdisciplinary Collaboration at the Center for Nanotechnology in Society. Sharon Ku, National Institute of Health, USA

Integrating Concerns in the Semi-peripheral Context: The Case of a Brazilian Nanoscience Laboratory. Paulo de Freitas Castro Fonseca, Center for Social Studies, University of Coimbra

Post-academical insights and ethnographies. Robert Bhatt, Department of Culture & Media Studies, Ethnology, Umeå university, Sweden

Give me an Embedded Humanist and I will Displace the Laboratory. Erik Fisher, Center for Nanotechnology in Society at ASU; Sharon Ku, National Institute of Health, USA

Being an 'in-house' social scientist: The failures of integration. Ana Viseu, York University

285. (88) The design and displacement of social knowledge practices - I

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Kilen: Ground floor - Ks71

Chairs: Kristoffer Kropp, University of Copenhagen; Per Wisselgren, Umeå University, Sweden

Participants:

Social Knowledge Production through Measurement in Social Sciences: Case of Work Life Research Measures. Katri-Maria Siponen, School of Social Sciences and Humanities, University of Tampere

(De-)Constructing Technoscientific Futures: On the Modalities of Social-Scientific Scenario Building. Gernot Rieder, University of Vienna - Department of Social Studies of Science

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Aristocrats vs. Craftsmen: Understanding Where Today's Sociology is Going To. Lukasz Afeltowicz, Institute of Sociology, Nicolaus Copernicus University; Radoslaw Krzysztof Sojak, Institute of Sociology, Nicolaus Copernicus University

Measuring the Equity of School Systems in International Comparisons. Radhika Gorur, The Victoria Institute - Victoria University, Australia

Making of population: a welfare state inscribed into population knowledge. Marja Alastalo, University of Tampere

286. (62) Monitoring, identifying, displacing: on everyday surveillance & security practices - III

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP112

Chair: Jutta Weber, Institute of Media Studies

Participants:

Social Profiling in the use of Sound Based Security Systems. Cathleen Rose Grado, University at Buffalo

Privacy and Security in the Media: A European-wide Analysis. Jana Schuhmacher, Fraunhofer Institute for Systems and Innovation Research ISI; Simone Kimpeler, Fraunhofer Institute for Systems and Innovation Research ISI; Michael Friedewald, Fraunhofer Institute for Systems and Innovation Research ISI

Privacy for Global Village Cyborgs. Francis Harvey, University of Minnesota

Enacting Encryption: The Development of Encryption Technologies in the United Kingdom. Richard Fletcher, University of Surrey

Mundane technologies of distrust: Colombia, the future of the world? Malcolm Ashmore, Loughborough University; Olga Restrepo Forero, Universidad Nacional de Colombia

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

287. (12) Redesigning age and ageing: anti-ageing science and medicine in the 21st century

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP113

Chair: Céline LaFontaine, university of Montreal

Participants:

From Degeneration to Regeneration: Ageing in the Age of Regenerative Medicine. Céline LaFontaine, university of Montreal

Anti-ageing medicine as a "technology of the self"? Larissa Pfaller, FAU Erlangen Nürnberg - Germany; Mark Schweda, University of Goettingen

Redesigning reproductive ageing in Switzerland: biomedical technologies and the extension of fertility time. Nolwenn Bühler, Department of social and cultural anthropology, University of Zurich

DHEA and the fountains of youth: sociology of a medical promise. Boris Hauray, National Institute for Health and Medical Research/IRIS; Sébastien Dalgalarro, CNRS/EHESS

288. (101) Situational analysis at work - researching work practices in science and engineering - I

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP114

Chairs: Anders Buch, Technical University of Denmark; Adele E. Clarke, University of California, San Francisco

Participants:

Methodological challenges of studying engineering design work and practice. Søsner Brodersen, Department of Development and Planning, Aalborg University; Rikke Premer Petersen, Aalborg University Copenhagen

Situational Analysis of Engineering Practice. Anders Buch, Technical University of Denmark

Displacing the patient – a situational analysis of strategic patient figures. Anja Svejgaard Pors, Copenhagen Business School, Department of Organization

Of mice, polemics and toxins (dis)placed on stage of public consultation. Situational analysis of the GMO-discourse in Poland. Yen Sulmowski, Leuphana University of Lüneburg

289. (06) Evidence-based activism: patients' organizations and the governance of health - III

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP201

Chairs: Vololona Rabearisoa, CSI Mines-ParisTech; Tiago Moreira, Durham University; Madeleine Akrich, CSI Mines ParisTech

Participants:

Assembling Dementia Care. Tiago Moreira, Durham University; Orla O'Donovan, University College Cork; Etaoine Howlett, University College Cork

3 decades of knowledge activism: An Australian healthcare consumer organisation. Anni Dugdale, University of Canberra

The voice of the silence: UK patients' silent resistance to the assisted reproduction regulations. Ilke Turkmenoglu, Newcastle University

"Distributed expertise" and an opposition to the anti-vaccination movement in Poland. How the structures of knowledge are being challenged in the public debate. Andrzej Wojciech Nowak, Adam Mickiewicz University, Poznan

Pain, and Its Ventriloquists. Kyra Landzelius, LIME, Karolinska Institutet

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

290. Lateral moves in STS: Tampering with the conceptual/empirical divide - I

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP202

Chair: Birgitte Gorm Hansen, Copenhagen Business School

Participants:

Robust Scientists. Birgitte Gorm Hansen, Copenhagen Business School

Cosmographic commitments: reimagining STS alongside Chinese medicine. Mei Zhan, University of California, Irvine

TOO BUSY FOR REFLEXIVITY? What Danish school managers can teach STS researchers about epistemological ideals and pragmatic morals. Helene Ratner, Copenhagen Business School

Liquidity with Fidelity: Lateralizations in Mobile Phone Enabled Financial Services. Bill Maurer, University of California, Irvine

291. (52) User communities and techno-scientific practices - III

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP205

Chair: Torben Elgaard Jensen, Technical University of Denmark

Participants:

The online sociotechnical organization of deviant technology users: the example of the iPhone "jailbreaking". Paolo Magaudda, University of Padua

Governance of learning processes in transdisciplinary climate research projects. Wouter Boon, Rathenau Institute; Edwin Horlings, Rathenau Institute; Peter Van den Besselaar, VU University Amsterdam & Rathenau Instituut

User groups, knowledge and politics: expertise and activism in advocating traffic safety. Jane Summerton, University of Oslo

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Exploring and describing non-functional aspects of emerging design spaces. Pedro Sanches, KTH, SICS

Domesticating play. Kristine Ask, Norwegian University of Science and Technology

292. Discourses of disaster: Post-3.11 Japanese and international perspectives on communication, science, and democracy

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP207

Chair: Atsushi Akeru, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute

Participants:

Politics of Risk Discourse on the Nuclear Disaster: Risk Communication and Beyond. Hideyuki Hirakawa, Osaka University

Effective Nuclear Regulation: Design, Displacement, and Democratic Discourse. William J Kinsella, North Carolina State University; Tudor B. Ionescu, University of Stuttgart

Reality Marginalized: How Have Science and "Science" Been Used in Discourse about Low Dose Radiation Exposure? Masashi Shirabe, Tokyo Institute of Technology

What Can a Nuclear Disaster Prove about Nuclear Energy?: Nuclear Scientists and Robustness of Nuclear Discourse in Post 3.11 Japan. Kenji Ito, Graduate University for Advanced Studies

Discussant: Atsushi Akeru, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute

293. (16) The end(s) of the Human Genome Project - I

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP208

Chairs: Adrian Mackenzie, Lancaster University; Ruth Margaret McNally, Anglia Ruskin University; Maureen McNeil, Lancaster University; Richard Tutton, Lancaster University

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Participants:

Biomedical expectations as projections into the future of constructed pasts: protein and DNA sequencing. Miguel Garcia-Sanchez, Spanish National Research Council (CSIC)

After the Exuberance: Contested Futures of Personalized Medicine. Richard Tutton, Lancaster University

From Turkish Genome Project to Vision 2023: key attributes, actors, and the impact of biogeopolitics. Melike Sahinoglu, University of Duisburg-Essen; Emre Sunter, Middle East Technical University, Ankara

Genetics at the State Fair: Potentiality and Life Sciences Research after the Human Genome Project. Karen-Sue Taussig, University of Minnesota

Heroism in Genomics. Maureen McNeil, Lancaster University

294. (49) Design practices: material-discursive entanglements and interventionist approaches - II

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP210

Chairs: Doris Allhutter, Austrian Academy of Sciences, ITA; Christina Mörtberg, Linneaus University, Sweden

Participants:

The Legacy of the Scandinavian School of System Design and its Displacements. Hans Glimell, University of Gothenburg

Planning and Performativity in Urban Design – Experiences from a Swedish Case. Linus de Petris, Techoscience studies, Blekinge Institute of Technology; Pirjo Elovaara, Techoscience studies, Blekinge Institute of Technology

Knowledge on the move: index cards, post its, and the materiality of knowledge across design, development and academic contexts. Dawn Nafus, Intel Labs; Andrea Ballesterio, Rice University

How to make privacy by design a driver for technology acceptance? Michael Hahne, Technical University Berlin

Facilitating and navigating user knowledge in an organizational context. Chistian Clausen, Aalborg University Copenhagen; Signe Pedersen, DTU Management Engineering; Yutaka Yoshinaka, Technical University of Denmark

295. (78) Engineering design, displacement in practice - I

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP212

Chair: Sarah Bell, University College London

Participants:

Freedom of or freedom from? Pluralism of values and determinism in design of technological artifacts. Gianluigi Viscusi, University of Milano-Bicocca

A Cautious Approach in the E-Humanities: Research as Design in a Science/Humanities Collaboration. Park Doing, Cornell

Gender-specific requirements for the design of human-machine interfaces. Siegfried Sharma, Vienna University of Technology, Institute of Management Science; Michael Filzmoser, Vienna University of Technology; Kőszegi Theresia Kőszegi, Vienna University of Technology, Institute of Management Science

The Chainsaw-Case: Gender-Specific Exclusions in Tool Design and Handling. Roswitha Hofmann, uebergrenzendenken; Gabriele Mraz, Austrian Institute for Ecology; Mathias Knigge, grauwert – Büro für demografefeste Produkte und Dienstleistungen; Gabriele Bernhofer, Austrian Institute for Ecology

296. (104) The governance of innovation and socio-technical systems: design and displacements - II

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP213

Chairs: Susana Borrás, Copenhagen Business School; Jakob Edler, University of Manchester

Participants:

Transitioning Sustainability: Performing 'governing by standards'. Allison Loconto, Institut National de la Recherche Agronomique/Institut Francilien Recherche Innovation Societe, Université Paris-Est Marne-la-Vallée; Marc Barbier, INRA, UR1326 Sciences en Société,

The Co-evolution of an Emerging Mobile Technology and the Services: the challenges of managing socio-technical transitions. Jee Hyun Suh, University of Edinburgh

Coupling epistemic and politico-economic claims in the Danish biofuel debate. Janus Hansen, Department of Business and Politics, Copenhagen Business School

The Framing of Network Neutrality Governance: Economists, Lawyers & Engineers. James Perry, Copenhagen Business School

297. (74) Knowing and working in hybrid research spaces - II

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP214

Chair: Maximilian Fochler, University of Vienna

Participants:

Shifts between Epistemic and Applied Contexts in Humanities and Social Sciences. Juha Tuunainen, University of Helsinki; Terhi Esko, University of Helsinki; Reijo Miettinen, University of Helsinki

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Between health and research: an ethnography & design study of the Technology Research for Independent Living (TRIL) clinic in St. James Hospital Dublin, Ireland. Chiara Garattini, Technology Research for Independent Living (TRIL) centre, University College Dublin; Marie Bay Brøndum, Copenhagen City Council; Ting Ting Shum, Technology Research for Independent Living (TRIL)centre, University College Dublin; Flip van den Berg, Technology Research for Independent Living (TRIL)centre, University College Dublin; Rose A. Kenny, Department of Medical Gerontology Trinity College Dublin

Coproducing knowledge in hybrid research spaces: hybrid management strategies as 'balancing acts'. Rik Wehrens, Institute of Health Policy & Management / Erasmus University

When research meets policy-making: a Brazilian case-study of a think-tank. Camila Carneiro Dias Rigolin, Federal University of São Carlos (UFSCAR), Brazil; Maria Cristina Innocentini Hayashi, Federal University of São Carlos (UFSCAR), Brazil

Explaining Field Differences in Openness and Sharing of Scientific Knowledge. Theresa Velden, Cornell University

298. (36) Practice theory and beyond: emerging approaches to studying energy consumption - II

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP216

Chairs: Kirsten Gram-Hanssen, Danish Building Research Institute, Aalborg University; Toke Haunstrup Christensen, Danish Building Research Institute, Aalborg University; Ruth Rettie, Kingston University; Kevin Burchell, Kingston University

Participants:

Designing approaches to studying energy consuming practices. Lenneke Kuijer, Delft University of Technology

Sustainable design for intangibles: everyday design and experience of user values in energy practices. Svenja Jaffari, SPIRE Research Center, University of Southern Denmark

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Emerging energy practices in the context of participation in green community organisations. Rebecca Wallbridge, University of Southampton; Milena Buchs, University of Southampton; Graham Smith, University of Southampton

Energy knowhow and practice: what do people need to know about energy? Kevin Burchell, Kingston University; Ruth Rettie, Kingston University; Tom Roberts, Kingston University

Practice theory and beyond: emerging approaches to studying energy consumption. Elena Battaglini, IRES (Economic & Social Research Institute)

Practice routines: public and private. Ruth Rettie, Kingston University

299. (70) Science and the impact of organizational practices - III

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP503

Chair: Finn Hansson, Copenhagen Business School, Dept. of MPP

Participants:

The Design of Science. Alexandra Dr. Kraatz, iFQ - Institute for Research Information and Quality Assurance

Designing for Multidisciplinary Open Access: PLoS ONE. Lindsay Kelley, Public Library of Science

Do changes in science governance affect research direction and agendas? Laura Cruz-Castro, CSIC Institute of Public Goods and Policies (IPP); Pablo Kreimer, CONICET, Universidad Maimonides; Luis Sanz-Menendez, CSIC Institute of Public Goods and Policies (IPP)

Research on preferences in scientific collaboration between china's universities. Dechun Sha, Institute of Science, Technology and Society, Tsinghua University

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

300. (94) Emotions and affects in science: communities, spaces, and bodies - II

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPso5Chairs: Staffan Bergwik, Dept. for History of Science and Ideas Uppsala University; Helena Pettersson, Umeå UniversityParticipants:'Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam': The Family in the 'Knowledge Economy'. Aalok Khandekar, Maastricht UniversityBoundary Work and Symbolic Capital Exchange. Helena Pettersson, Umeå UniversityBelonging in/to the laboratory: emotion, affect and scientific practice. Anne Kerr, University of Leeds; Lisa Garforth, Newcastle UniversityTales of hope and fear. Postdocs, career-work and peer-to-peer relations in the life sciences. Ruth Mueller, Univ. of Vienna & Austrian Institute for International Affairs (oii)Affective labour and academic capitalism: the emotional politics of publishing. Dagmar Lorenz-Meyer, Charles University Prague301. (15) Narratives of research and policy making in the life sciences - III

*Solbjerg Plads: SPso7Chairs: Manuela Perrotta, Norwegian University of Science and Technology; Kristin Spilker, Department of Interdisciplinary Studies of Culture, NTNUParticipants:*Reproductive or productive value? Embryonic life at the intersection of IVF and stem cell research in China. Kerstin Klein, Homerton University Hospital NHS Foundation Trust

'Leftover' Ova and Embryos and Stem Cell Research in Korea. Yeonbo Jeong, Hanyang UniversityBrazil: 'line of flight' to international research tests with nonhuman primates? Ana Tereza Pinto Filipecki, FIOCRUZ; Carlos Saldanha Machado, Oswaldo Cruz Foundation; Márcia de Oliveira Teixeira, FIOCRUZGrowing meat from stem cells as 'normal science': managing the marginal and mainstream. Neil Stephens, Cardiff University302. (23) + (31) Configuring Climates - III

2:00 to 3:30 pm

*Solbjerg Plads: SPso8Chairs: Lea Schick, IT University; Arno Simons, Technische Universität Berlin; Aleksandra Lis, Central European University in Budapest; Ingmar Lippert, Augsburg UniversityParticipants:*How does one localize climate change? Climate symbols and the case of the Ilulissat Icefjord. Lill Rastad Bjørst, Aalborg University, DenmarkCarbon Credits: The Displacements in Design. Anup Sam Ninan, Bremen International Graduate School of Social SciencesRe-thinking scaling of environmental markets. Aleksandra Lis, Central European University in BudapestFraming adaptation: the anatomy of values in a UK water company. Emma Westling, The University of Bradford; Liz Sharp, University of Bradford; Chiara Carrozza, Centro de Estudos Sociais, University of Coimbra (PT)303. (84) Aesthetics in technological practices - II

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs10

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Chairs: Dick Willems, University of Amsterdam; Jeannette Pols, Amsterdam Medical Centre

Participants:

Embedding tasting. Appreciating food within mundane medical practices. Anna Mann, University of Amsterdam

From paper to pixels: e-readers, e-reading and aesthetics. Thomas Franssen, University of Amsterdam

Music making as urban guerrilla: Challenging the aesthetico-political orderings of Berlin's public spaces. Christoph Johannes Anatol Michels, University of St. Gallen

Pretty, pretty understandable: social scientists and visualization. Andreas Perret, Swiss Center for Expertise in the Social Sciences (FORS)

Through the looking glass. About aesthetic values and mirrors as a social technologies. Jeannette Pols, Amsterdam Medical Centre

304. Temporality in the sociomaterial mangle

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs12

Chair: Steve Sawyer, Syracuse University

Participants:

Corporate playgrounds for innovation: A material and virtual analysis. Payal Arora, Erasmus University Rotterdam

'Personal' time: Investigating the hybridization of a temporal zone. Melissa Mazmanian, University of California, Irvine

Deboundaried work: Insights from the vanguard. Steve Sawyer, Syracuse University

Constant connectivity: Rethinking interruptions at work. Judy Wajcman, London School of Economics & Political Science

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

305. (34) The epistemic and political authority of expertise in environmental governance - II

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs14

Chairs: Silke Beck, Helmholtz Centre for Environmental Research; Eva Löwbrand, Linköping university

Participants:

The Changing Roles of Expertise in 30 Years of Global Environmental Assessments. Maud Borie, University of East Anglia; Mike Hulme, University of East Anglia

Modelling Consensus: Science, Politics and Malaria at the IPCC. Jonathan Suk, University of Edinburgh / European Centre for Disease Prevention and Control

Methods of synthesis in IPCC assessments: a limit to formalisation. Ingemar Bohlin, Department of Sociology and Work Science, University of Gothenburg

Institutional ontology of GAIM's Earth System knowledge infrastructure. Ola Uhrqvist, Department of Thematic studies - Water and Environmental Studies

Occupy climate expertise? Cordula Kropp, University of Applied Sciences Munich

306. (92) Connecting and comparing concepts of practice - II

2:00 to 3:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SPs16

Chairs: Elizabeth Shove, Lancaster University; Nicola Jane Spurling, Manchester University; Gordon Walker, Lancaster University

Participants:

Methods of capturing the dynamics of social practice. Elizabeth Shove, Lancaster University

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Policy Intervention and the Dynamics of Practice: developing a practice-informed historical case study approach. Andrew McMeekin, Manchester University; Nicola Jane Spurling, Manchester University

Data Treatment and Analysis within a Radical Practice Perspective. Ardis Storm-Mathisen, SIFO National Institute for Consumer research (Norway)

Researching situated nursing practices. Britt Kramvig, University of Tromsø; Ann Therese Lotherington, University of Nordland, Norway; Aud Obstfelder, University of Tromsø

Translating dividual practices into individual lives. Jo Helle-Valle, SIFO

307. Hearing and heeding citizen voices: Designing and evaluating transnational citizen deliberations

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Kilen: K143

Chair: Mikko Rask, National Consumer Research Centre Finland

Participants:

The (social) construction of nothing less than a 'global public sphere': on designing and organizing transnational deliberation processes. Nina Amelung, Technical University of Berlin

Amplifying results to access policy networks: the role of informal science institutions. Gretchen L Gano, Arizona State University; Rick Worthington, Pomona College

Biodiversity as glocalization: citizenship in transnational spaces. Edna F. Einsiedel, University of Calgary

Transnational deliberation: gain and loss. Kobayashi Todashi, University of Osaka

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

308. Spatiotemporalities II: Space and Infrastructures

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Kilen: K146

Chair: Paul N. Edwards, University of Michigan

Participants:

Digital mappings in use: The non-representational use of spatial infrastructure. Barry Brown, Mobile Life Centre, Stockholm University

Global Dimensions: Water, Ships, & the Infrastructures of the Panama Canal. Ashley Carse, Whittier College

Producing Space: The infrastructures of planetary exploration. Janet Vertesi, Princeton University

Scaling Disaster: Simulating the Extent of the Deepwater Horizon and the Fukushima Meltdowns. Paul N. Edwards, University of Michigan

Discussant: Francis Harvey, University of Minnesota

309. Contested sovereignties. STS perspectives on the analysis of sovereign political action.

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Kilen: K150

Chair: Brice Laurent, CSI - Mines ParisTech

Participants:

Mapping Sovereignty: The Influence of Colonial Materialities on Palestinian State Maps. Jess Bier, University of Maastricht

Honesty as an economic skill The Democratic Republic of Congo, a country preparing itself to monetize the carbon stored in its forests. Véra Ehrenstein, CSI - Mines ParisTech

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

On Sovereignty and Scientific Knowledge: The Work of the Law in Brazilian Development Initiatives, 1947-1965. Allison Powers, Department of History, Columbia University

On natural resources and local sovereignty. Nickel mining in New Caledonia. Julien Merlin, CSI - Mines ParisTech

International State rating and the production of national sovereignties. Benjamin Noël Lemoine, CSO - Sciences Po

Discussant: Andrew Barry, University of Oxford

310. Social Epistemology review and replies collective panel: conceptualising social design as a collective process

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Kilen: Ks43

Chair: James Collier, Virginia Tech

Participants:

Philosophy and post-philosophy as methods of collective social design. Stephen Norrie, Unaffiliated, PhD graduate of Warwick University

Reconsidering roles: design by community in online education. William Davis, Virginia Tech

Design pitfalls in scientific and technological policies in Mexico. Melissa Orozco, Universidad Autonoma de Queretaro; Ivan Eliab Gómez Aguilar, National Autonomous University of México

311. (71) The impact of 'impact': public-making and pseudo science-engagement - II

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Kilen: Ks48

Chair: Richard Watermeyer, Cardiff University

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Participants:

Can non-policy related public engagement be of value? The challenge of symmetry of learning for scientists. Melanie Smallman, University College London; Kajsa-Stina Magnusson, University College London

The false dawn of dialogue: Impediments to publics' decision-making and the management of choice in techno-science. Richard Watermeyer, Cardiff University

Constructing the meaning of public communication of science: expert discourse analysis. Anda Adamsone-Fiskovica, Centre for Science and Technology Studies, Latvian Academy of Sciences

312. (100) Displacing the laboratory and STS with it: new modes of engagement - Natural scientists and the lab - III

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Kilen: Ks54

Chair: Sharon Ku, National Institute of Health, USA

Participants:

The Evolving Role of Laboratories in the Taiwanese Biopharmaceutical Innovation System. Shih-hsin Chen, University of Nottingham

Different labs different dangers: How scientists working with nanomaterials perceive risk. Mikael Johansson, Center for Nanotechnology in Society - UCSB

Skippping through Research Fields: the Trajectory of a Bioenergy Lab. Thomas Tari, Université Paris-Est, LATTs & IFRIS

Managing Demands for Social Engagement. Cecilie Glerup, Copenhagen Business School

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

313. (88) The design and displacement of social knowledge practices - II

4:00 to 5:30 pm

*Kilen: Ground floor - Ks71Chairs: Kristoffer Kropp, University of Copenhagen; Per Wisselgren, Umea University, SwedenParticipants:*The Role of Statistics, and Statisticians, in Producing 'Race-ethnic' Data. Dvora Yanow, Wageningen UniversityVisualizing Sociological Imagination. Gerald Beck, University of MunichUsing a multi-sited approach for studying social scientific knowledge and "fact" making. Andreas Schadauer, Institute for Advanced StudiesPractices of Foresight: How Cold War Scientists Developed Social Research Methods. Christian Daye, Univ of Graz, Austria, Dep of SociologyResearch synthesis: Negotiating and adapting methods for social science knowledge integration. Laura Sheble, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill314. Cybernetic technologies of the self

4:00 to 5:30 pm

*Solbjerg Plads: SP112Chair: Geoffrey Bowker, University of California - IrvineParticipants:*Infolding the Self: Video Feedback in Cybernetic Art and Psychiatry. Peter Sachs Collopy, University of PennsylvaniaFrom Ovulindex to Lady-Comp: Natural Family Planning and Cybernetic Subjectivity. Deanna Day, University of Pennsylvania

The Difficulties of Gift-Giving: Lévi-Strauss and the Technologies of Man. Bernard Dionysius Geoghegan, Humboldt University of BerlinE-waste: cartography for a techno-environmental controversy. Blanca Callén, Centre for Science Studies. Lancaster University315. (12) Redesigning age and ageing: anti-ageing science and medicine in the 21st century - II

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP113Chair: Sophie Elizabeth Davies, Cardiff UniversityParticipants:"Stopping the Clock": Anti-Ageing as a Technology of Hope. Mike Laufenberg, Center for Interdisciplinary Women's and Gender Studies, Technical University BerlinLonging for Longevity: Anti-Ageing Science, Longevity and Immortality in Genre Fiction. Joan Haran, Cardiff UniversityRe-Imagining Ageing. Sophie Elizabeth Davies, Cardiff UniversityRegulating aging: the emergence of biomarkers of aging. Tiago Moreira, Durham University316. (101) Situational analysis at work - researching work practices in science and engineering - II

4:00 to 5:30 pm

*Solbjerg Plads: SP114Chairs: Anders Buch, Technical University of Denmark; Adele E. Clarke, University of California, San FranciscoParticipants:*Transport Hubs as STS Laboratories: A multi-sited ethnography of surveillance, deletion and the account-able. Inga Kroener, Lancaster University and University College London; Daniel Neyland, Lancaster University

Data Meets Design. Yanni Alexander Loukissas, MIT

Information Technology in the Icelandic Fishery: Unintended Consequences, Challenges and Opportunities. Hrönn Brynjarsdóttir Holmer, Cornell University - Information Science

317. Civic logon: Exploring technologies for civic engagement

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP201

Chair: Ingrid Erickson, Rutgers University

Participants:

Civic Engagement and Collaborative Media: The Case of Bam-buser. Bo Reimer, MEDEA Collaborative Media Initiative, Malmö University

Hacking Digital Universalism in the Andes. Anita Chan, University of Illinois

Evolving p2p economies: towards a practice perspective of designing online platforms for local economic activity. Gabriel Mu-gar, School of Information Studies, Syracuse University

Beyond Access and Expression: A New Mandate for Design. Nas-sim JafariNaimi, Georgia Institute of Technology; Ingrid Erickson, Rutgers University

Researchers' blogging practices in two epistemic cultures: the scholarly blog as a situated genre. Sara Kjellberg, Lund University

Discussant: Tad Hirsch, Intel Labs

318. Lateral moves in STS: Tampering with the conceptual/empirical divide - II

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP202

Chair: Birgitte Gorm Hansen, Copenhagen Business School

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Participants:

Form and Variation in STS and Relational Anthropology. Casper Bruun Jensen, IT University of Copenhagen; Brit Ross Winthereik, IT University of Copenhagen

Living in fear or disagreeing with the field? – reverse colonization and lateral complications. Christopher Gad, IT-University of Copenhagen

Synthetic Kin and Kingdoms: Thinking Laterally about Transgenic Exchanges. Sophia Roosth, MIT

Lateral Waves. Stefan Helmreich, MIT Anthropology

319. (52) Critical evaluations and new perspectives on user studies in STS - IV

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP205

Chair: Nelly Oudshoorn, University Twente

Participants:

Finding participants: How research methodologies define 'users'. Anna Harris, University of Exeter; Susan E. Kelly, University of Exeter; Sally Wyatt, Maastricht University

Making Sense of User-driven Innovation: soft capitalism or tricky co-habitation? Torben Elgaard Jensen, Technical University of Denmark

The everyday enactment of "the everyday" in an innovation project. Morten Krogh Petersen, DTU

Management Engineering, Section of Innovation and Sustainability Taking user representations seriously: past, present and future. Sampsa Hyysalo, Aalto University; Mikael Johnson, Aalto University

Technological versus use regimes. Roel Nahuys, Saxion University of Applied Sciences Deventer; Ellen Moors, Innovation Studies, Copernicus Institute, Utrecht University, NL

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

320. Social dynamics and structures around nuclear technology: Pre- and post-Fukushima stories

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP207

Chair: Miwao Matsumoto, University of TokyoParticipants:*Failure of the Japanese “Successful” Nuclear Program: Structural Problems Revealed by the Fukushima Nuclear Accident. Kohta Juraku, Tokyo Denki UniversityThe Fukushima Insight: How Disaster Changes Knowledge Production in Global Nuclear Energy. Sulfikar Amir, Nanyang Technological University (NTU)Did Fukushima Mark the End of the “Nuclear Renaissance”? Analysis of Media Debates in Finland, France, and the UK. Markku Lehtonen, University of SussexThe Challenge of “Safe Levels” of Radiation before and after the Fukushima Nuclear Disaster. Paul JOBIN, CEFC Taipei & University of Paris DiderotDiscussant: Miwao Matsumoto, University of Tokyo321. (16) The end(s) of the Human Genome Project - II

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP208

Molecular being – post-genomic life between genes and proteins.

Adam Bencard, Medical Museion, University of Copenhagen

Organic processes digitalised: human bodies in bioinformatics.

Jan van Baren-Nawrocka, Radboud University Nijmegen

Promise Management in Emerging Life Sciences. Martin Ruivenkamp, Radboud University Nijmegen322. (49) Design practices: material-discursive entanglements and interventionist approaches - III

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP210

Chair: Ann Light, Northumbria UniversityParticipants:*(De)coding India's poor: An information infrastructure promises poverty eradication. Sumitra Nair, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University; Nimmi Rangaswamy, Microsoft Research IndiaAccountability in practice: data cleaning in Afghanistan. Tjitske Holtrop, University of AmsterdamBoundary work in designing “global” interdisciplinary research projects. Katharina T. Paul, Erasmus University RotterdamTechnological Activism and the Non-Human Design of the European Borders. Lukas Verburgt, University of AmsterdamTechnological Jugaad as a ‘Culture of Innovation’ in India. Pankaj Sekhsaria, Maastricht University323. (78) Engineering design, displacement in practice - II

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP212

Chair: Sarah Bell, University College LondonParticipants:

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

Boundary objects and their circulation under collaborative design processes. Angelos Balatsas-Lekkas, Technical University of Denmark; Yutaka Yoshinaka, Technical University of Denmark STS

Assisted Engineering Design and Its Teaching Experience. Jeng-Horng Chen, National Cheng Kung University

Sino-French engineering curriculums: what kind of education design ? Richard Marion, University of Lausanne

Designing a STS program for Engineering Education to Enhance Inclusiveness and Diversity. Wen-Ling Hong, National Kaohsiung Marine University; Jr-Ping Wang, National Kaohsiung Marine University; Jeng-Horng Chen, National Cheng Kung University

324. (104) The governance of innovation and socio-technical systems: design and displacements - III

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP213

Chairs: Susana Borrás, Copenhagen Business School; Jakob Edler, University of Manchester

Participants:

Governing markets for radical products by designing market infrastructure. Aurelie Delemarle, Université Paris Est - LATTS/IFRIS - ESIEE Paris; Philippe Larédo, Université Paris Est, ENPC, LATTS - Manchester Business School

Innovation by Regulatory Design: Incentives Versus Mandates for Green Chemistry. Arthur Daemmrich, China Europe International Business School

Bioethics, Governance, and the Corporation. Jenny Dyck Brian, Asian University for Women

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

325. (74) Knowing and working in hybrid research spaces - III

4:00 to 5:30 pm

Solbjerg Plads: SP214

Chair: Maximilian Fochler, University of Vienna

Participants:

Academic spin-offs as intermediaries: From transfer to collective exploration. Liliana Doganova, MINES ParisTech

Session Guidelines for Presenters, Discussants, and Chairs

Basic format of all paper sessions

Each session normally includes three to five papers and lasts about one and a half hours.

Depending on the number of papers, each presenter will have 15-20 minutes. In addition there will be 15-20 minutes of shared discussion.

Computer projectors/ beamers will be available for PowerPoint presentations. Please bring your presentation on a USB memory device.

Hints for Session Chairs

This note is intended to provide you with guidance on managing the session for which you are responsible but inevitably you will have to show some degree of flexibility.

In essence your role will be to introduce the presenter and allocated discussants; control the length of time that they speak for and manage any questions from the floor. In most sessions three papers will be presented.

SESSION GUIDELINES

We believe that it is important to establish some ground rules that everybody understands and works towards during the conference:

- Please arrive in the room where the session is to take place at least five minutes before the appointed time. If using PowerPoint the presenters have been asked to upload their presentation on the PC before the start of the session to save time. Solicit advice at the info desk or through student assistants if experiencing trouble.
- Introduce yourself to the presenters. Ask them for biographical details to use in introducing them. Make sure that their presentation has been uploaded. Inform them of the maximum time they will have to present their paper. For example, in a one and a half hour session with five papers, each presenter should have 15 minutes each. It is important that participants are given the chance to ask additional questions from the floor.
- For each paper introduce the author and title of the paper.
- A series of cards to help the presenter or discussants to manage the time will be available to you in each workshop room. - The first card you pass indicates that the presenter or discussant has a maximum of five minutes left. - The second card indicates that there are two minutes left. - The third and final RED card indicates that their time is over and the presenter or discussant must STOP. In issuing the red card you must be polite but firm. It is to be fair to other presenters or discussants in the session and to the audience who will wish to contribute in the discussion time.

- In managing the questions and answers part of each session please ask those asking questions to identify themselves and to keep their comments as short as possible to allow time for the presenters to respond in full. You may decide how to organize this element of the session, i.e. after each paper or after all the papers have been presented.
- Please ensure that the session finishes on time. With the number of papers to be presented this is going to be a busy event. Sessions that over run have implications for other sessions or events later in the day.

Finally, thank you for chairing and helping to make the conference as successful as we hope it will be.

Hints for Paper Presenters

Each participant will only be allowed to present one paper during the conference. Co-authored papers may be presented by any of the participating coauthors.

With a conference of this size we ask you to remember some basic rules when making your presentation. In order that everyone has sufficient time to speak it is important that you exercise discipline, particularly time management. These notes are intended to inform you of how each session will be organized.

- Please arrive at the appropriate room five minutes before the session is due to start. All rooms are equipped with black out facilities and a projector for Power Point presentations. Please note that if choosing Power-Point you must arrive with your presentation on a USB memory device and load it yourself onto the machine provided in the room BEFORE the start of the session. It might be a good idea to do so well in advance as not all versions of Power-Point function equally well on all projectors. Solicit advice at the info desk or through Conference Volunteers if experiencing trouble.
- Introduce yourself to the other presenters and the chair. Give the chair your biographical details for use in introducing you. Ideally to assist the chair these should be in writing.

SESSION GUIDELINES

- The chair will tell you at the beginning of the session how long your presentation can last. This will inevitably vary between sessions depending on the number of papers to be presented. In a one and a half hour session with five papers you should aim to speak for no more than 15 minutes leaving time for your discussants and for the floor.
- We have asked session chairs to be very strict in terms of time management so that each presenter has an equal amount of time.
- During your presentation the session chair will pass you three cards indicating that your time allocation is coming to an end. - Five minutes presentation time remaining.
- Two minutes presentation time remaining. - If you are shown the RED card this means your time is over. Finish your sentence and STOP your presentation. Chairs have been asked to be polite but firm in allocating time.

Master's Programmes

Our Masters programmes appeal to those seeking a future career in sociology or other social sciences, in policy and regulation in government or in NGOs in the UK or internationally, and in university teaching and research.

Undergraduate Teaching

A new integrated undergraduate programme in Social Science, Health & Medicine is subject to approval, which will combine teaching in the social sciences with that provided in the life sciences. The first intake for this new BSc in Global Health and Social Medicine will be in October 2013.

Doctoral Programme

We invite applications from suitably qualified candidates to join our lively, mutually supportive and growing community of doctoral students working on our key research themes. Applications are welcome in any areas of our key research themes.
